KIDNAPS RICH KENTUCKY WIFE

The October grand jury, which for ten days has been receiving evidence on violence in the bus strike, is expected to take action today, according to an announcement last night by State's Attorney Courtney. The prosecutor indicated that the jury has before it evidence involving a dozen or more men, besides the eight heretofore named in indictments. Among the new suspects are several so-called "higher ups," who have been under the surveillance of detectives while the grand jury has been hearing testimony.

Before the grand jury are the confessions of several men, which, the prosecutor claims, solve the killing of Mrs. Mary Kennard, 65 years old, of the Hyde Park hotel, who died on Sept. 26, two hours after being struck by a ball bearing thrown through a bus window. It was reported that all except two of the men held responsible for the death of Mrs. Kennard are in custody. Detectives have the homes of these men under a constant watch, but they have been in hiding for three days.

Capt. Gilbert Gives Facts.

The results of the Kennard case inquiry were revealed last night after Dr. Edward Oliver, house physician at the Hyde Park hotel, was called before the grand jury. The coroner's jury decided Mrs. Kennard came to her death from heart disease, but it was reported that Dr. Oliver's testimony was in conflict with the jury's verdict.

Mrs. Kennard's death, according to the confession, was caused by the south side bus violence crew, members of which were paid $9 a day for smashing bus windows. Lloyd Sclee, 821 East 46th street, a street car conductor, was the head of the south side crew, according to Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office. Sclee testified before the grand jury several days ago, and yesterday Ralph G. Layton, 27 years old, 8012 Cottage Grove avenue, also a street car conductor, was among the six street car employés and former bus drivers taken as witnesses before the jury.

Witnesses Before Grand Jury.

The other witnesses, all of whom signed immunity waivers before they testified yesterday, are Henry Kohl, 8325 Cottage Grove avenue, a motorman; Louis Patton, 29 years old, 953 East 53d street; John Sexton, 2419 East 77th street; Thomas McVady, 835 Drexel square, and Martin Loughney, 835 Drexel square, all striking bus drivers.

The last witness before the jurors yesterday was Capt. Gilbert. He is reported to have told the jury of a purported statement made in the office of First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley last Sunday by Ralph Stoltzmann, indicted president of local 1022 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America, the local which called the bus strike on Aug. 16.

Several more witnesses will be called before the grand jury today, according to Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and James A. Brown, then the jury is to be asked to act on the evidence. The identity of these witnesses could not be learned.

Killing of Dispatcher Confessed.

The report in the Criminal court building yesterday was that the state's attorney's office would indicate to the jurors that three true bills should be voted if the evidence warants such action.

One true bill would be a reindictment of Stoltzmann and seven others charged with the murder of James Kelly, a dispatcher for the Chicago Motor Coach company. Kelly was beaten and then shot to death on Sept. 27 on a Cicero avenue street car by sluggers, who confessed they were paid $10 for the job. The reindictment will include additional names.

The second true bill is expected to name at least six men for the death of Mrs. Kennard. The other true bill to be asked would be a general conspiracy indictment charging all those involved in the evidence with conspiracy to commit various acts of violence. The conspiracy bill is of some concern to the prosecutor because of the large number of men who have signed immunity waivers and have testified before the jury. Some of them, it is believed, will be named as co-conspirators, but will not be indicted directly.

The new indictment on the Kelly murder charge was forecast in open court yesterday when Stoltzmann and

ABDUCTOR ASKS $50,000; DRAGS WOMAN TO CAR

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Berry V. Stoll, beautiful 26 year old wife of a wealthy oil man, was kidnaped today from her home. The abductor invaded her residence and beat Mrs. Stoll severely before dragging her away. Mrs. Stoll is a niece of Frederick Sackett, former United States senator and former ambassador to Germany.

Mr. Stoll, who is vice president of the Stoll Refining company, arrived home from his office to find his wife missing and the maid, Mrs. Fowler Woolet, bound and gagged. Blood on the floor and other signs of a terrific struggle bore out the maid's story that Mrs. Stoll had been maltreated when she resisted her abductor.

A ransom note, reported to contain a demand for $50,000 for Mrs. Stoll's release, was found in an upstairs bedroom. The note, written in vituperative terms, was partly in red and partly in black ink. The amount of the demand originally was $30,000, which had been crossed out and the larger amount substituted.

Threaten Elder Stoll.

It also contained a threat that William A. Stoll, president of the refining company and president of the Louisville Board of Trade, is "next on the list." A heavy police guard was assigned to William Stoll on the strength of the threat.

Indication that the kidnaped woman's husband is planning to pay the ransom was contained in a statement he released for publication soon after finding the note. It said:

"Berry Stoll has just found the note regarding the ransom and arrangements are being made accordingly."

All circumstances of the crime point to careful planning. Apparently the abductor and his accomplices, if there were any, were aware that only Mrs. Stoll and her maid were home. The maid's husband, caretaker of the estate, which stands apart in the exclusive River road section, was away on an errand. A Negro employé had left a few minutes before the kidnaping.

Poses as Phone Repairman.

The kidnaper, Mrs. Woolet said, gained entrance to the Stoll home by posing as a telephone repairman.

"As soon as he got inside," she told police, "he produced a revolver and pointed it at Mrs. Stoll and me. He tied me to a chair and gagged my mouth. Then he seized Mrs. Stoll. She struggled with him and he beat her unmercifully. She was bleeding from the mouth when he dragged her outside to his automobile."

Immediately upon notification of police, Mayor Neville Miller and Dunlap Wakefield, director of public safety, entered the investigation. Shortly thereafter the aid of federal agents was enlisted.

Descriptions Sent Out.

A full description of Mrs. Stoll and of the kidnaper's automobile, a Ford V-8 coupe, were sent to surrounding police departments and broadcast by radio. Outlying police were asked to be on the lookout for an automobile answering the description of that of the abductor, containing a man and his victim, described as "a slender brunette."

Mrs. Stoll was dressed only in a negligee gown and a blue and white checkered coat the kidnaper threw over her shoulders before he carried her away.

All police and sheriff's forces were mobilized. Radio bulletins were being issued at short intervals. Late tonight authorities said they believed the car was headed for Browling Green.

It was learned the telephone wires leading to the home had been cut. Police theorized this was for the double purpose of supporting the kidnaper's story he had been sent to repair the telephone, in case his identity was questioned, and for insuring against pursuit.

Telephone lines to the homes of two county patrolmen who live near the scene of the kidnaping also were cut.

Seek Means to Communicate.

One of the first acts of the police was to order the Stoll telephone connection reëstablished to provide a ready avenue of communication for the kidnaper in his ransom negotiations.

The missing woman's husband advanced one theory that the kidnaper might have been a man who served with him in the army. In support of his theory he said the maid had quoted the abductor as telling her and

HUGE WAVE BREAKS WINDOWS ON LINER; CAPTAIN, OFFICER HURT

New York, Oct. 10.—[Special.]—With four of her heavy bridge windows shattered by a cumulative wave and her captain and second officer injured by broken glass, the Cunard White Star liner Majestic arrived today in command of Capt. Frederick J. Burd, the assistant commander. Turbulent seas besieged the liner almost all the way across the Atlantic.

When the Majestic docked a day behind schedule, Capt. Edgar L. Trant, commodore of the White Star fleet, was taken in an ambulance to the French hospital and doubt was expressed that he would be able to take the liner out when she sails on Friday.

Capt. Trant was suffering from wounds on the face, a deep gash in the scalp which had become infected, and injuries to one shoulder.

PLANE IS LANDED SAFELY DESPITE WHEEL TROUBLE

A large Boeing plane of the United Air lines, inbound with nine passengers from the west, hovered over the airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue for nearly an hour early today while Pilot J. A. Smith struggled to get the landing gear, which retracts into the body of the machine during flight, to drop down and let the plane light on wheels.

This effort was not wholly successful, but the landing was. Smith skilfully brought the ship to the ground with the landing mechanism s ll tangled. It bumped to a standstill and the nine passengers, unhurt but thoroughly frightened, emerged.

Representatives of the plane company said that the pilot succeeded in getting about one-third of the wheel diameter down and that this much was sufficient to enable him to skid perhaps 200 feet. They complimented Smith on his work.

Autumn Cuts Spring Caper; Lilacs Bloom

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A freak Indian summer is abroad in the Chicago region, confusing nature and causing her to display a disconcerting array of autumnal and spring phenomena side by side. Spring wild flowers are blooming for a second time and grass is luxuriantly green.

Dr. P. C. Standley, associate curator of the Field Museum of Natural History, explained the seasonal caprice yesterday. "The drouth of the summer was followed by late rains," he said. "It is almost as if vegetation had passed through its winter period and now were in a second spring.

"Bush honeysuckle, lilacs and apple trees are blooming. The thick green grass makes the landscape more like May than October."

Vagaries in Forest Preserve.

On a trip into the forest preserves in Palos Park and Thornton and other spots south of Chicago yesterday Dr. Standley pointed out some of the vagaries of this topsy-turvy season.

Flaming sumac profusely illustrates the arrival of a typical Chicago Indian summer autumn, while on the other hand the cup plant, that hardy yellow flower with large leaves meeting around the stem like cups, is in its second blooming with its second growth of leaves. In normal seasons it flowers in middle August.

Other wild flowers likewise are upsetting nature's rules and proclaiming with blooms that spring is here. Among these are the yellow mustard, dandelions, the yarrow, the "bouncing Bet," and the wild carrot or Queen Anne's lace.

Autumn Roasting Ears.

Pointing out a tomato patch in a farmyard, Dr. Standley said that the leaves should be falling off and exposing the fruit. Instead, the leaves were luxuriant and green, hiding the fruit from the sun so that it is not ripening properly.

A farm was passed where a sign announced: "New roasting ears for sale here." Other corn fields were seen where the ears, product of a second growth, were ready for picking.

Oats were seen coming up freshly green, volunteering from seeds dropped when the oat harvest was gathered earlier in the summer.

Meanwhile plenty of signs of a regular autumn season are evident in addition to the sumac's showy foliage. Red haws are strewn on the ground and clinging to trees; purple, blue, and white asters in masses, and oaks glinting red and bronze in the sun were seen.

Autumn Signs Also Here.

Autumnal bittersweet flings its pale orange berries and yellow leaves over fences. Poison ivy, its leaves more gorgeous in hue than those of any of the harmless vines, hang from tree trunks. Clusters of ripe wild grapes are seen frequently.

Hickory trees are turning yellow and a few hard maples are showing pinkish red and bright yellow hues. Among the most brilliant reds in the countryside are those of the tupelo or red gum trees. One yellow bush espied by Dr. Standley aroused his interest. It was sassafras, he said, and he had been told that no sassafras grew in Cook county.

Crab apple trees combine yellow with green. In the grounds of the Flossmoor Country club the mountain ash, among the most decorative trees to be found in the fall, show clusters of orange berries. Meanwhile in Flossmoor and Homewood gardens snow-over-the-mountain and other spring shrubs are blooming again.

DADDY'S A LONG WAY OFF, BUT FRAN HOLDS HIM TO HIS PROMISE

With the youngster were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Black, who brought him from Grand Forks, N. D., so that his father, Richard Black, a surveyor with the Byrd party, might hear a voice from home.

"Hello, daddy," piped Fran. "I sure miss you and hope you'll be back soon. Don't forget to bring me a husky dog like you promised."

His father's voice answered: "We've already got the pup for you, son. It's a gift from Admiral Byrd himself."

Fran does not know that his mother is dead. He believes that she, like his father, is away on a long trip.

Highest Court Orders a Slice Off Big Hotel

In denying a review of the case yesterday the United States Supreme court let stand a decision of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals which, in effect, orders the rear section of the top twelve stories of the 40 East Oak Street Apartment hotel torn down. The 20 story building was constructed in 1928 at a cost of $1,800,000. The court order is due to the fact that the building violates a Chicago zoning ordinance. Compliance with the decision is expected to cost $500,000.

As a result of the decision the federal District court is expected to issue an order instructing the American National Bank and Trust company, as receiver; the Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee, and the preferred stock holders of the property to proceed with the work of demolition.

Six Years in Courts.

The zoning law which the court orders confirm calls for a setback of one foot for each nine feet of construction above the eighth story level. Yesterday's action by the Supreme court marks the end of six years of litigation on the part of the owners of two smaller apartment buildings which front on Bellevue place to the rear of the building, and are separated only by an alley from the hotel.

They are Mrs. Maude W. Welton, 45 Bellevue place, and Mrs. Buckingham Chandler of Winnetka, owner of the property at 33 Bellevue place.

Notified of the decision of the Supreme court, Walter H. Eckert, attorney for the receiver, said it was a complete surprise to him.

Envisions Costs of $500,000.

"How the demolition and reconstruction is to be financed I certainly don't know," he said. "The receiver has no money. Maybe the court will put the masons to work, or perhaps authorize a loan by the receiver. It will cost at least $500,000, and will require closing the hotel temporarily."

In reversing the decision of former Federal Judge George A. Carpenter, who ruled for the receiver, the Circuit court upheld the Chicago zoning laws. It also ruled that mere payment of monetary damages to the plaintifs, a common way of settling such disputes, was not enough, but that health and sanitary conditions were more important. The two women alleged that the tall building cut off the light and air from their property and lessened its value.

Recognizes Bondholders' Plight.

Before carrying the case to the federal courts when the building was placed in federal receivership, Mrs. Welton and Mrs. Chandler carried their dispute through the state courts, after being denied relief by the zoning board. The board granted permission for construction of the building, after first refusing. By the time the Illinois Supreme court had ruled in favor of the plaintifs the building was constructed and occupied.

The Circuit Court of Appeals held that the stockholders were responsible for the acts of their directors and officers, and that the bondholders, though innocent sufferers, might have learned by investigation the "frailty of their mortgagor's rights."

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot said tonight George H. Earle, Democratic nominee for governor, could not "honestly" take the oath of that office if elected, because, she charges, he tried to "bribe" Gov. Pinchot for appointment as United States senator.

The censorship wasn't prompt enough to stop the pictures you see this morning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 10.—As Jugo-Slavia prepared today to bury a king and France a foreign minister, the identity of the man and the forces back of the man who yesterday murdered Alexander I. and Louis Barthou and threatened to plunge Europe into war developed into an international mystery.

Young King Peter II., new Jugo-Slav monarch, was smuggled into Paris to meet his mother, Queen Marie, en route to Belgrade for the king's funeral. France, nervously maneuvering to keep its hard won political alliances in the Balkans intact, prepared to bury Barthou in a national cemetery Saturday.

Police Are Baffled.

European chancelleries and their vast forces of secret police meanwhile ran down one clew after another during the day in efforts to reveal the real story behind the Marseilles assassinations, but tonight they appeared thoroughly baffled.

They had not verified the true name of the assassin as Petrus Kalemen. They had not answered the all-important question of his nationality. They have not learned what country or organization, if any, employed him for the crime, nor where he was supplied with the expensive guns found in his possession.

French police, however, in tracing the movements of Kalemen on the days before he fired his 20 deadly bullets, did discover evidence which indicates he was a member of some ring of conspirators who financed liberally his purposes in the French Mediterranean port.

Believe Killer Chosen by Lot.

The evidence further indicated, police pointed out, that the plotters had laid their plans for the assassination to the last detail to avoid identification. Kalemen, it is supposed, was chosen by lot to perform the murder with the virtually certain knowledge that, as it turned out, he would himself be killed.

Supporting these theories, police called attention to the following facts:

Kalemen carried two revolvers, both of which are recent models and of an expensive type. One, a Mauser automatic, discharges an uninterrupted load of 20 bullets. The cartridges used had either been specially made or else all marks of their caliber and manufacture had been effectively effaced.

The assassin wore a new suit of clothes purchased in Paris.

Czech authorities announced officially that the passport carried by the assassin was forged and that the name on it, Petrus Kalemen, is probably assumed.

See Tattooing as Ruse.

No other clews to the identity of the murderer were found except the tattooing on his right arm. This consisted of a skull and crossbones under which was printed, in the Croat dialect, "Liberty or Death," and over which were inscribed the letters "I M R O."

These symbols indicated that the assassin might be a Croatian member of the International Macedonian Revolutionary organization which operates in Bulgaria. Jugo-Slavian authorities, however, regarded the tattooing as merely a clever ruse to sidetrack investigation of the man's real associations.

If Kalemen turns out to be a Macedonian, political observers believe, all Jugo-Slavia will be indignant and rally around the stricken royal family, whereas if it is established that he is a Croatian, Jugo-Slav indignation against Italy will again be inflamed.

For years Italy has been encourag ing the Croatians to seek independence, and it is feared Italy might intervene if the Croatians decide to rebel at this moment.

In Geneva today Youray Krnyevitch, exiled leader of the suppressed Croatian Peasant party, said he was not surprised at the king's assassination, but disavowed any connection with it.

French police, in any event, consider Kaleman rather definitly linked with some Balkan ring of conspirators, and tonight they scoured the country for Balkan exiles in efforts to find out just where the ring fits into the shaky European balance of power.

Raids were conducted in this conbers of the Jugo-Slavian separatist movement. Among those nabbed for questioning were two men seized at the home of Vladimir Raditch, son of Stephan Raditch, a Croatian deputy killed in the Jugo-Slav chamber of deputies in 1929.

Hunt Two Companions.

Special attention was given a search for two men said to have accompanied Kaleman during his travels in France on the days immediately preceding the assassinations.

The trio entered France from Valorbe, Switzerland, on Sept. 28 with forged passports, according to police. Kaleman went first to Marseilles to look over the ground. From there he went to Paris, and then to Aix en Provence, leaving for Marseilles only a few hours before the time for the king's triumphant arrival.

Hotel men at Paris and Aix en Provence, recognizing Kalemen from his photograph, said he had had two companions. Their names were given at Aix en Provence as Egon Kramer and Sylvester Chalny, and at Paris as Wladislas Benes and Suck. A fourth man, named Nikomir, visited them at Paris. His name was on the list of "suspects" furnished the French by the Jugo-Slavian government before King Alexander started for France.

Says Killer Drank Heavily.

Kalemen and his two aids passed two nights at the Aix en Provence hotel, police learned. The proprietor said Chalny and Kalemen drank considerable liquor yesterday just before the assassin left for Marseilles. Chalny, he added, returned to the hotel in the evening, paid the bill, and disappeared. Kalemen, the proprietor said, avoided signing the hotel register through various pretexts. Chalny, however, registered as a Czechoslovakian and Kramer as a Croatian.

The Czech investigation of the passport under which Kalemen traveled revealed the document was numbered 18574 with registration number 479. It was supposed to have been issued at the Czech consulate at Zagreb on May 30, and it bore the signature of a Czech official.

Czech authorities pointed out, however, that the official whose initials were affixed has not been with the consulate since January and could not have issued the passport. They pointed out further that the genuine passport, No. 18574, was given at another Czech consulate, and that the holder of the passport with registration No. 479 has been identified by Prague police as Anton Vavrina, a Czech citizen.

Ban Movies of Slaying.

Reports that Vavrina had been arrested were denied by Prague police, who said he had been found to have had nothing to do with the case.

French authorities today barred all motion pictures of the assassinations from theaters. The films will be preserved for evidence as to whether police measures taken to protect King Alexander were adequate.

Among the consequences of the shooting will be a reform of the police system of patrol at public ceremonies and stricter surveillance and resrictions of foreigners. A demand for wholesale expulsion of aliens has already appeared in the press.

One new measure being considered for the protection of important personages on occasions such as yesterday's is to line up police and troops along the street facing the crowd instead of the procession.

BODY STARTS FOR HOME

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MARSEILLES, Oct. 10.—One day, almost to the minute, after King Alexander stepped on shore at the old port here, the casket containing his body was swung aboard the Jugo-Slav cruiser Dubrovnik and started back to his capital, Belgrade, for burial.

The ceremony of embarkation possessed as much solemn pomp as the French authorities could muster within a short time. The funeral cortège was led by President Albert Lebrun of France, who escorted the widowed Queen Marie.

The square before which the cruiser was anchored was empty save for troops. The French took no chances of another assassination. Large forces of policemen, national constabulary men, plain clothes men, and mobile guards cleared the route of the cortège from the prefecture to the pier.

Military honors, probably because they were effected hastily, seemed scanty for a sovereign. They were rendered by three squadrons of mounted mobile guards and three companies of infantry.

Navy Chief Directs Ceremony.

Minister of Navy Francois Pietri directed the ceremonies aboard the Dubrovnik. President Lebrun and Ministers of State Edouard Herriot and André Tardieu, their full dress shirt bosoms gleaming in the sunlight, stepped forward and bowed stiffly to the Dubrovnik officers. All the high naval officers who could be summoned from the nearby naval base at Toulon, resplendent in gold braided cocked hats and gold epaulets and decorations, stood at salute.

Wreaths from President Lebrun, the cabinet ministers, and King Carol of Rumania, brother-in-law of Alexander, were taken aboard. As the band played first the Jugo-Slav anthem and then the "Marseillaise" the deck crane hoisted up the casket and stocky Serb marines carried it to the stern.

For a moment high pathos was reached when the widowed Queen Marie was half carried up the gang plank. She was in black from head to foot and her face was entirely masked in a heavy black veil. She crouched in an attitude of agony near the casket. President Lebrun saluted the coffin and queen.

The only religious ceremony was the swinging censer and absolution of an orthordox priest in the gorgeous vestments of the Greek church.

A final farewell was made by a delegation of French veterans of the eastern front, for whom Alexander had been a comrade.

Then the dignitaries were whisked away. Queen Marie was the last to depart. She did not accompany the body. She will return to Belgrade by train by way of Paris, where she will pick up her son, the 11 year old King Peter.

The band struck up an almost sprightly military march, sabers flashed, bayonets twinkled as the troops filed past the coffin and came to the rifle salute. Hardly had the last hand dropped from the rifle stock before the Dubrovnik eased away from the pier, and a few minutes later disappeared in the glow of the setting sun, while from the harbor forts boomed the royal salute of twenty-one guns.

MEMORIAL SERVICES PLANNED HERE FOR KING AND BARTHOU

Services expressing the sorrow and sympathy felt in Chicago over the violent deaths of King Alexander and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou were being planned yesterday by the Jugo-Slav and French consulates. The Jugo-Slav flag was lowered to half staf at the offices at 840 North Michigan avenue.

Dr. George Kolombatovich, consul general of the Balkan country, said that a mass will be held for the slain monarch, probably on the day of the funeral. The date and the church will be named after instructions are received from Washington representatives of the Jugo-Slav government today, he said.

The French consul, Rene Weiller, said that a memorial service in honor of M. Barthou will probably be held next week.

"France is sure that Minister Barthou's policy, which was to preserve peace in Europe, will be followed by his successors," he added.

Robbers Kill Druggist in South Side Holdup

Invading a drug store at 5904 Calumet avenue last night, two Negro robbers shot and killed the proprietor, Andrew Dillard, colored, 45 years old, 6125 Indiana avenue, and escaped with $10 from the cash register. Two colored women who witnessed the shooting said the robbers fired on Dillard without warning.

SERBIAN BOY KING SMUGGLED INTO FRENCH CAPITAL

Joins His Mother; Dodges Official Reception.

[Chicago Tri[illegible] Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 10.—King Peter II., 11 year old successor to the throne of Jugo-Slavia, was spirited into Paris this evening under heavy guard and with the utmost secrecy. The boy king journeyed here from London, where he had been attending school, to join his mother, Dowager Queen Marie, who will take him to Belgrade for the funeral of his assassinated father, King Alexander.

Peter was taken from the train with his grandmother, Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, at the suburb of Saint-Denis, five miles north of Paris, and smuggled into the French capital while thousands of persons, including French and Jugo-Slav officials, awaited them at the central station here.

They were taken by automobile to a secret destination. The Jugo-Slav legation refused to tell the whereabouts of the party. It denied that the king and his grandmother are stopping at the legation.

TOLD OF FATHER'S DEATH

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Eleven year old King Peter II. of Jugo-Slavia was awakened at 6 a. m. today by Hugh Ozanne, headmaster of the Sandroyd school at Cobham, Surrey, where he was a pupil, and informed for the first time that his father, King Alexander, was dead. All he said was: "I would like to be with mother." He was not told the full story of his father's assassination. He was left under the impression that Alexander was the victim of an accident.

After a hurried breakfast he was put in a fast automobile with Scotland Yard cars in front and behind and rushed to the Jugo-Slavian legation in London.

Seems to Understand.

During the morning the new king received the Jugo-Slav minister in London and a number of ambassadors and ministers of other powers, including Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary. At noon he was taken to the Ritz hotel, where his grandmother, Queen Marie of Rumania, is staying. He had lunch there, after which he and his grandmother left at 2 p. m for Dover en route to Paris.

From the few glimpses caught of the boy king he seemed to be impressed with the gravity of his new responsibilities. He tried to help his grandmother into the automobile at the Ritz and did not seem to understand when she hung back and insisted that he, as king, enter the car first. Then he grabbed the soft hat from his head and climbed in and crouched in a corner. As the car drove off Queen Marie put her arm around him and seemed to be comforting him.

The boy king's special car was filled with Scotland Yard men, and the railway track was guarded all the way to Dover. Scotland Yard men accompanied him on the boat as far as Calais, where they turned the job of guarding him over to French police, some of whom had crossed the channel and joined the party at Dover.

MARSEILLES SLAYINGS UPSET BARTHOU'S PLANS FOR SECURITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 10.—President Ignace Moscicki, who was entertaining the Warsaw diplomatic corps on a hunt in Polesia when the news arrived of the assassination of King Alexander and Foreign Minister Barthou, immediately canceled the hunt and returned to Warsaw today.

Foreign Minister Josef Beck, who was visiting Marshal Josef Pilsudski at the latter's estate on the Lithuanian frontier, flew back to Warsaw. The Polish foreign office said Poland has decided to postpone its pending political moves until France's future foreign policy is known.

It is expected here that with the death of Barthou, his proposed European security pact will be quietly shelved, and for the present Poland has decided to postpone its project to realize closer understanding with Hungary. It is expected that Julius Gomboes, Hungarian premier, will cancel indefinitly his proposed visit to Warsaw.

Serbian Police Nab Hundreds in Hunt for Assassin Suspects

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUSAK, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 10.—Wholesale arrests are expected throughout Croatia and Slovenia, the last two provinces in opposition to Serbia, following the assassination of King Alexander and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou at Marseilles. All reports received here and in the border town of Fiume indicate that an ominous calm reigns throughout Jugo-Slavia.

The government appears to be able to handle any uprising for which the king's assassination may have been the signal. Consternation prevails throughout the country despite the outward appearance of calm.

Italian Border Tense.

Along the Italian border today tension was apparent, but for the moment the situation seems to be without an alarming aspect.

Jugo-Slav newspapers here today printed stories urging the people to be calm, but there seems to be no need for this, for the whole country appears inert and overcome with tragedy. But it is an inertia full of menace and every one is asking what may be the developments.

This seaport town is heavily guarded. Reports received at Fiume from Zagreb said police had made hundreds of arrests. Zagreb police, according to telephone reports, say no question exists but that there was a widespread conspiracy organized against King Alexander since the passport of Petrus Kalemen, the assassin, was issued on the exact day it was announced that King Alexander would leave the country.

Nation in Mourning.

The Marseilles murders have overcome the whole nation. There was mourning in the synagogues, mosques, and orthodox and Catholic churches alike.

While dirges are heard and the death knell is being tolled continuously throughout the country, schools are closed and six months of mourning has been decreed.

MURDERED KING TO HAVE FUNERAL FIT FOR A CAESAR

Kings and Princes Will Attend Last Rites.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 10.—Sitting in solemn extraordinary session tomorrow, both houses of the Jugo-Slavia parliament will proclaim 11 year old Crown Prince Peter king over Jugo-Slavia's 14,000,000 Serbs, Croats, Slovenes, and Dalmatians.

Until the new king arrives the newly appointed regency council will be without power.

After Peter comes home from England and France the members of the regency—Prince Paul of Jugo-Slavia, cousin of the dead king; former Minister of Education Stankovitch, and Gov. Banterovitch of Zagreb—will take individual oaths of allegiance to him. The cabinet then will resign.

Plan "Cæsar's Funeral."

Alexander will be given a funeral fit for a Caesar. King Boris of Bulgaria, King Carol of Rumania, the Prince of Wales, the Italian crown Prince Humbert, and special envoys from all the crowned heads and states of Europe will attend.

From Split, where the Jugo-Slavian destroyer Dubrovnik will arrive Friday, the king's body will be borne in a royal funeral train through Zagreb to Belgrade while the whole nation bows in mourning.

After the late monarch's body is reinterred in a coffin of solid bronze it will lie in state at Belgrade for two days. Following upon elaborate consecration services at the national cathedral, the coffin will be borne with pomp and splendor to the royal memorial church at Topolo, where the slain king will be buried. A movement is already afoot here to canonize Alexander, who is regarded as a martyr to his country.

Regents Little Known.

So uncertain was the political situation here tonight that careful observers refused to predict whether the old members of the cabinet would be reinstated or whether the regents would replace some members in the new government.

Several sources expressed misgiving as to the members of the regency, who were appointed in King Alexander's political will, inasmuch as they are regarded as men little known aside of their own districts. This was taken to mean that the Jugo-Slav army built up by Alexander would remain all powerful even in civil affairs.

Mourning for the dead king, bitterly opposed though he was in life by some factions in Jugo-Slavia, was virtually nation-wide tonight. Even his former opponents expressed admiration for him. His brilliant world war record was recalled by many.

Belgrade Decorated in Black.

Early darkness which followed upon rain the day long heightened the somberness of the capital caused by the thousands of black flags fluttering from almost every building and even hanging from taxicabs and street cars. After the crowd had gone home from its evening promenade—which nothing stops—the capital was as silent as the grave.

Those who foresaw revolution or disorders as an aftermath of Alexander's slaying proved false prophets. Except for the black borders on morning newspapers announcing his death no stranger would suspect anything unusual had happened.

Gypsy orchestras and the groups of singing girls which usually entertain Jugo-Slavia will remain silent until after the king's funeral.

Ties With France Unshaken.

It was made known unofficially here today that existing friendly relations between France and Jugo-Slavia will not be altered in any way by the king's assassination, but the man on the street outspokenly condemns what he describes as "the inexcusable carelessness" of the French police.

Authorities ridiculed rumors that Prince George, Alexander's eccentric elder brother, had escaped from his confinement near Nish. A miracle alone could let the deposed wayward prince regain his liberty, they said, because the house in which he has been confined by the king since 1925 for mental aberrations is carefully guarded by soldiers and machine guns, by stone walls, barbed wire, and electric flood lights.

It was not believed likely that the new regency would reverse the late king's judgment in keeping George in confinement.

Reveal King Feared Death.

That King Alexander apparently feared death on his visit to France was revealed today. One of his last acts before leaving Belgrade was to supervise completion of his marble sarcophagus in the magnificent family mausoleum at Topolo, the home town of the Karageorgevitch family.

A hill 40 miles south of Belgrade is the site of the royal memorial tomb, the most colorful in all Europe, in which are interred all members of the late sovereign's family, including the original Karageorgevitch or Black George, foe of the Turks and founder of the dynasty.

Britain Fears Croat Anarchy Would Bring In Italian Army

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Marseilles need not be another Serajevo unless some international criminal chooses to exploit the situation. This is considered the opinion of the British government after twenty-four hours of reflection on yesterday's assassination.

Just what is meant by the cryptic reference to an international criminal the spokesman refused to explain, but from other sources THE TRIBUNE learns that the statesmen of Europe feel that everything depends on whether or not there is a Croat uprising in Jugo-Slavia which may tempt one of her neighbors to intervene "to restore order."

Danger of General War.

If Jugo-Slavia should relapse into anarchy on the loss of her dictator king there would be a strong temptation for the Italians, for instance, to intervene on the eastern Adriatic coast. In that event France would almost certainly object and might object forcibly. Then, as in 1914, a crime in which Serbia was implicated might provoke a general war.

The death of Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France is also deplored as setting back the hopes of a Franco-Italian rapprochement. The key to such an agreement lies in Italo-Serbian relations. King Alexander's visit to France was preparatory to Barthou's visit to Rome at which he hoped to bring to Premier Mussolini the olive branch from King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia. Now all this work may have to be done over again by Barthou's successor and the Jugo-Slavian regency.

Italy Bids for Peace.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 10.—Premier Mussolini stands ready to go through with the peace plans inaugurated with Jugo-Slavia and France in spite of the assassination of King Alexander and French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou at Marseilles yesterday.

The Italian press tonight cited Il Duce's speech at Milan Saturday, in which he said Italians, though hurt by Jugo-Slav press attacks, were conscious of Italy's superior strength, hence Italy would be willing to frame an accord provided Jugo-Slavia made conditions conducive.

Editorials revealed a stronger pro-French attitude and said Barthou's death cannot halt plans for an understanding between Italy and France. King Victor Emmanuel decreed a 21 day period of court mourning for King Alexander.

GERMANS SEE WAR

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—"The din of battle will sound on the European continent," warns the official Angriff, "unless the European conscience is stirred in time by the shots at Marseilles.

"We do not want to say the atmosphere is as full of tension as it was in the days of Serajevo, but there are many conflicts and there is truly no peace in Europe," the paper says.

No man in authority in the Balkans was more closely allied to Germany than the slain Jugo-Slav king. German officials considered him a counter force to Premier Benito Mussolini's plans for close alliance between Austria and Italy.

Wilhelmstrasse sources pointed out that Croats and Slovenes, two of the Slav peoples making up Jugo-Slavia, are Roman Catholics while the Serbs are of the Greek Orthodox church.

Hapsburg Case Appears.

So long as the strong, capable Alexander lived the Croats and Slovenes were held in check, they said, but with Alexander out of the way they fear that what they describe as Mussolini's plans for restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria may even involve Croats and Slovenes.

Resentment against French Foreign Minister Barthou is evident despite the effort to respect the dead.

"The pre-war saying was: 'Poincare means war.' Barthou stood for a policy of encirclement directed against Germany," Angriff declares.

The paper information writes that it is hard for Germany to forget Barthou's policy regarding Saar disarmament and Franco-Russian rapprochement. Many papers describe King Alexander and Barthou as "victims of the Versailles treaty."

The second edition of the National Zeitung was confiscated by the GSP [secret police] because it played up "the impertinent assertion of the French newspaper, Ordre, that the Berlin bourse knew about the assassination."

Officer Is Slain as Two Handcuffed Prisoners Flee

Princeton, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Constable Joe Davidson, 50, was shot and killed last night and police are looking for two men, handcuffed together, who were left in the officer's care. Police say the fugitives are Henry Hollingworth, 60, of near Gardner, and an unidentified man. Constable Davidson was left to guard them while other officers searched their homes. As police returned they heard a shot, saw the men climb over a fence and disappear in nearby woods.

RUSSIAN'S GEMS GLITTER NO MORE FOR MRS. SIMON

This is the story of Mrs. Bessie Simon, 4215 North Francisco avenue, and "the Russian." It is not a new story, as Sergt. Frank Slattery of the Sheffield avenue police station explained to her after she told him about it.

Mrs. Simon met the "Russian" at Troy street and Lawrence avenue. Not being a linguist, Mrs. Simon, as she later admitted, couldn't understand a word he said. Up stepped another man, who obligingly offered to act as interpreter. He unfolded to Mrs. Simon the "Russian's" amazing offer.

For only $1,200 she could have a box of jewels, easily worth between $8,000 and $10,000, which he had smuggled from Europe. Mrs. Simon didn't have that much money, but she could get $600 from her daughter. So the obliging interpreter offered to put up the other half. All this was done, and Mrs. Simon took her new jewels home. But in the evening they did not glitter so brightly, and Sergt. Slattery, to whom she took her problem, confirmed her fears. They were fakes.

Gallan, veteran of the Spanish-American and world wars, was nominated for governor at the Republican state convention today. John C. Cosseboom of Woonsocket was nominated for congress in the First district, and former General Treasurer George C. Clark was named in the Second.

GIRL SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH.

Miss Pearl Charaki, 25 years old, 1301 West 13th street, died in the county hospital late last night of a self-inflicted bullet wound. She shot herself at noon yesterday in her home, supposedly because she was despondent over failure to find a job.

YOUTHFUL WIFE OF KENTUCKY OIL MAN IS KIDNAPED

Stoll also said that rambling references in the ransom note indicated that the kidnaper might have him confused with his father, C. C. Stoll.

A search for convicts recently released from penitentiaries within a wide radius of Louisville was ordered on the strength of the maid's vague description of the abductor as having "a white face with unusually red lips." It was argued that the description would fit that of a man with the so-called "prison pallor," and that his lips would appear to be abnormally red by contrast with the extreme whiteness of his skin.

The kidnaper was described as being from 30 to 35 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing 130 pounds. He has black hair, parted in the middle, and is light complexioned.

Mrs. Stoll is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 130 pounds.

The probability that more than one man had figured in the crime was seen when James Clarke, a neighbor of the Stolls, told that four men in an automobile had halted him in a lane near the Stoll home at 3 o'clock, two hours before the kidnaping was discovered. One of the men asked Clarke for directions to the Wilcox home, near the Stolls', he said.

Other neighbors told of seeing cars parked in unobtrusive spots near the Stoll home recently.

The abduction constitutes Louisville's most baffling crime since the disappearance in October, 1923, of Mrs. Ella McDowell Rogers, 31 years old. Her disappearance has never been solved.

Hear Woman's Screams.

The brief facts of the Rogers case are these: Mrs. Rogers was last seen Oct. 7, 1923. Her disappearance was not discovered until Oct. 10, when numerous calls to her apartment had gone unanswered.

Occupants of the adjoining apartments told of hearing a woman's screams on the night of Oct. 7, and shortly afterward moans were heard issuing from the basement. A search there revealed that ashes in the furnace and the incinerator had been shifted, but no worthwhile clews were found. All of the woman's known friends were interrogated in the ensuing days, but without avail. Despite the posting of a $1,000 reward the case still remains a complete mystery.

Niece of Frederic Sackett.

Mrs. Stoll is the former Alice Helen Speed, daughter of William Shallcross Speed, wealthy Louisville manufacturer. She is a member of the Louisville Junior league and is prominent in the city's social set. Her only sister, Virginia, is in New York studying music.

The kidnaped woman's mother was one of the first to arrive on the scene when the kidnaping became known. Another early arrival was William Marshall Bullitt, former solicitor general of the United States.

INSULL 'MARKET RIGGING' DEALS TOLD IN TRIAL

Government Offers New Mass of Evidence.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Testimony to the effect that the management of Corporation Securities company, shortly after the formation of this investment trust, re-valued assets that had cost $16,000,000 and stated they were worth $45,000,420, was presented yesterday by the government at the trial of Samuel Insull and 16 co-defendants charged with using the mails to defraud. The trial is being held before a jury in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The government introduced a great mass of supporting evidence to show that this tremendous writeup of assumed values was made to deceive the investing public as to the worth of the stock of Corporation Securities, one of the top companies in the pyramid of Insull controlled properties.

It was also asserted by Prosecutor Leslie E. Salter that the first annual report of the corporation on Dec. 31, 1929, three months after its formation, was drafted and then seven times redrafted before a version satisfactory to the company heads was obtained.

Twisting Loss Into Profit.

The first draft, as presented to the jury, showed the company had lost $174,000 in the quarter; in the last version a net profit of $630,000 was claimed. The annual report had to be made in conformity with the regulations of the Chicago Stock exchange, on which the company shares were listed.

Other points made in yesterday's evidence which were considered of high importance by the prosecution, were:

1. That Corporation Securities, to comply with stock exchange regulations, had to write off $34,954,153 of paper assets before filing its report dated Nov. 15, 1929—barely six weeks after the concern was born.

2. That officials and advisers of the company traded letters in which they discussed the feasibility of discovering some way to avoid mentioning this unpleasant write-off in later reports.

3. That at the time Halsey, Stuart & Co., selling agents for Corporation Securities stock, were offering investors units of stock at $75, they were purchasing the same units on the Chicago Stock exchange at $100 a unit; the inference being that an artificial market was being rigged to deceive the investors.

Lamont On Stand All Day.

The witness for the government through the day was Van Emen Lamont, a lean, partly bald middle-aged man who formerly was assistant secretary and treasurer of Halsey, Stuart & Co. Documents in steady procession were marshaled by the prosecution and identified by him.

Lamont was a quiet witness. He showed no animosity toward nor bias for his ex-employers. He volunteered nothing, but answered all questions fully. Some of the courtroom psychologists theorized that, raising chickens now on an Indiana farm, he sees things in a different perspective and regards the dizzy figures in which he once dealt as relatively unimportant.

He testified that C. T. MacNeille, secretary-treasurer of Halsey Stuart and company, who is one of the defendants, told him what values to place on the stocks in the portfolio of Corporation Securities. One item consisted of Insull Utility Investment, Inc., stocks that were turned over by Halsey Stuart to Corporation Securities for $3,500,000. These stocks, after being acquired, were written up to more than $15,000,000 at the order of MacNeille, according to Lamont.

Second Revaluing Is Told.

A second similar transaction was the acquirement of 557,000 shares of Middle West Utilities, turned over to Corporation Securities by Halsey-Stuart for $13,500,000 and later revalued at $30,000,000 by MacNeille, Lamont testified. Harold L. Stuart, head of Halsey-Stuart, and his brother Charles are among the defendants.

Lamont was questioned at length about the eight versions of the profit, or loss, in the first three months of the company's existence. At least one draft of the annual report had been shown to Samuel Insull Sr., it was asserted by the witness, and he said it looked all right to him.

It was also asserted by Lamont that the final report, showing a net profit, was considered by Samuel Insull, his son, Samuel Jr., and Harold Stuart, who composed the executive committee of the Corporation Securities directors, and was approved by them on Feb. 10, 1930. The committee's recommendation that copies of this much worked over report be sent to all stockholders was later approved by the full board of directors, all of whom are defendants.

Lamont was asked to identify a document which, he said, contained an estimate forecasting the company's receipts and disbursements covering the period from Jan. 25, 1930, to Dec. 25, 1930. Mr. Salter asked the witness to look at the paper and tell the jury how much he had estimated the company would need during 1930.

After an objection by defense counsel, who contended the matter was irrelevant, Mr. Salter said:

"This estimate was made up before the first draft of the 1929 report. It was made even before the issuance of 1,200,000 shares of common stock. This evidence shows that Corporation Securities needed $22,000,000 of new capital for the year. In March, 1930, when the common stock was put on the market, the public was not told the corporation needed to borrow $22,000,000. It was told the stock would ear $1.20 a share."

The objection, made by Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, was overruled.

Lamont said that in the estimate it was figured only September and October would show the company's receipts equal to disbursements. In other months borrowing was regarded as necessary.

The government, over objections, introduced a circular sent out by Halsey-Stuart at the time the sale of Corporation Securities stock was started. This circular stated that the corporation would start with $70,000,000 of assets, of which $20,000,000 would be cash and the other $50,000,000 in marketable securities at current trading prices. The officers, all of whom except Lamont are defendants, were listed in the circular.

$35,000,000 Is Written Off.

It was the stock market crash of October and November, 1929, that compelled the writedown of the assets. That this loss of nearly $35,000,000 in paper values caused considerable perturbation among the officials was shown in a letter sent by MacNeille to Attorney J. W. Parker of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Parker on Jan. 27, 1930. This said:

"Dear Mr. Parker:

"When you and Mr. Tobey [Attorney Waldo F. Tobey, now a defendant] considered the legal aspects of the writeoff of $34,954,153 which we took on our inventory preliminary to filing our statement with the Chicago Stock exchange, you were of the opinion that in the publication of all future statements pending the time when this amount was returned to our balance sheet, it would be necessary to mention it.

"This procedure, while undoubtedly being proper from a legal standpoint, means continually bringing up a sore spot and constantly keeping before our stockholders and the public a matter which it seems to us should be disposed of and forgotten, once it has been explained.

"The matter comes up at this time in connection with its treatment in our annual report to our stockholders, and if there is any possible way by which we can refer to the matter in this report and then forget it for all time so far as to mention it in our annual statement is concerned, we would like to do it."

Tells Stock Sale Methods.

The circular showing the $70,000,000 of assets was brought in again when the witness Lamont was questioned about the methods used by Halsey-Stuart in handling the sale of Corporation Securities allotment certificates, each certificate consisting of one share of common and one of preferred stock.

Harold and Charles Stuart, according to Lamont, devoted a great deal of attention to the formation of the new company. Early in October the certificates were offered to the public at $74, with all the Halsey-Stuart regular salesmen and 25 additional sellers drawn from sales training schools fine combing the field for investors.

Then, on Oct. 19, 1929, Lamont testified, Morton D. Cahn, a broker, began to buy for the account of Harold L. Stuart the same certificates. Mr. Stuart's concern was selling. Cahn was buying the securities in at $78 to $100 and Halsey-Stuart was selling to the public at $75 then.

Says the Company Paid.

In answer to a question as to who paid for the stock that was being bought in—the inference was that the high priced purchases were being made to keep the investors happy—Lamont declared that the Corporation Securities company paid. It was estimated that the cost of its own stock bought in by the company was $3,588,000. On the average the cost was about $3 per certificate over the selling price through Halsey-Stuart.

Letters exchanged by Samuel Insull, Frank K. Shrader, who was a director of both Corporation Securities and Halsey-Stuart, and MacNeille were introduced. They bore on the arrangements being made in February, 1930, for the flotation of common stock. In one of them Shrader informed MacNeille that Insull was to confer with Harold Stuart about this sale and that his apparent object was to get rid of the floating debt of the company.

Insull himself wrote to Stuart that he believed 500,000 shares of common could be sold at $30, and possibly 500,000 more at an advance later.

Defendants in Good Humor.

The defendants appeared in good humor yesterday. The elder Insull said that published reports indicating he and his co-defendants were gloomy on Tuesday were not accurate, and that he was only "interested." There was nothing, he added, to be gloomy about.

At the end of the day Judge Wilkerson called all the attorneys before him and said that one juror had asked to look at newspaper financial pages and another wanted to send an order to a broker. The lawyers agreed to both requests. The juror who wanted a newspaper was given one with all references to the Insull trial deleted.

POLICEMEN BESIEGE APARTMENT; TRAP STUBBORN PROWLER

Four West North avenue policemen yesterday laid siege to a third floor apartment at 1711 North Whipple street to effect the capture of Edward Barron, 20 years old, 1233 Cleaver street, a prowler.

Policemen Henry Foerst and John Lachel went to the apartment of Vincent Lukaszewich at the Whipple street address in answer to a telephone call from neighbors. Barron had been seen entering the bathroom window from the roof of an adjoining building.

The police demanded that Barron come out and surrender, but he refused. Policemen Bernard Riley and Fred Nedenick answered the call for reinforcements and stationed themselves at the front and rear doors.

Then Policemen Foerst and Lachel entered the apartment by the same method used by Barron. The prowler ran out of the rear door and was seized. Search of his pockets revealed five rings valued at $2,000.

RASKOB, DU PONT AND SHOUSE ARE CHICAGO GUESTS

Possible action to extend the activities of the new American Liberty league to the Chicago area was seen last night in a dinner given at the Chicago club for Jouett Shouse, John J. Raskob, and Irenee du Pont, eastern leaders in the movement.

The dinner was given by Attorney Ralph M. Shaw, a member of the firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, and Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel and member of the law firm of Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden. Fifty Chicagoans were invited to meet the eastern guests.

Mr. Shaw refused to comment on the possible political significance of the dinner. "It was a private dinner, given by Mr. Busch and myself, in honor of the three eastern men," explained Mr. Shaw.

Asked if an inference might be drawn that the dinner was in connection with the Liberty league, Mr. Shaw said: "If I start answering such questions, by the process of elimination you may learn more than should be known now. That is all I can say."

The league was organized recently by Al Smith, J. W. Davis, Shouse, du Pont, and others to combat radical legislation which tends to destroy constitutional guarantees.

GRIFFIN TORTURE CASE TO BE GIVEN TO JURY TODAY

Both Defendants on Stand Deny Attack.

The fate of two members of the so-called "Circus gang" of Cicero, who are charged with assault with intent to murder John Griffin, 23 years old, a Proviso township constable, will be placed in the hands of a jury today in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's Criminal court. Testimony in the case, in which Griffin told the jury of gang torture, was practically finished last evening. Closing arguments are to be made today.

Edward Konowski, alias Casey, and Edward Piranio, alias Frank [Fat] Estes, the defendants, both took the witness stand in their own behalf yesterday and denied that they had participated in the inhuman treatment of the constable. Piranio admitted seeing the attack on the constable, but said it was Harold Clifford, the state's star witness, and "two other guys," not he and Konowski, who shot and beat Griffin.

Dillinger Enters Testimony.

Piranio and Konowski both denied they had any knowledge or in any way planned or participated in the poison plot against Clifford, which caused the death of one prisoner in the county jail and the illness of three others. They also attempted to cast reflections against the activities of the constable.

During the testimony of Clifford at the morning session of court, it was intimated that the government may have received its information on the face lifting operation on John Dillinger, slain desperado, from Clifford or his girl friend, Bernice Becker. Clifford admitted he had talked to a government agent about the "Dillinger face lifting episode."

Defense Attorney Edward Lyons said Konowski was making arrangements with the same physician to have his finger prints changed at the time of his arrest. Miss Becker was to bring the doctor to Konowski, the attorney said.

Clifford Denies Using Pistol.

Clifford admitted on the stand that he participated in the attack on Constable Griffin, and said he beat the constable on the head until he broke the blackjack. He did not shoot him, he asserted. He attributed use of firearms to Konowski, Piranio, and the fugitive Edward Deveau, whose arrest for an automobile law violation was the cause of the attempted murder.

Clifford said he was undecided on being a state witness until the effort was made to poison him. He told of receiving the package of poisoned sandwiches in which was a note saying it was "from Sis," his sister.

Former Chicagoan Held on Charges by Girl

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Edgar Dudley [Edgar D. Ijams], one time member of the Cook county state's attorney's staf of investigators in Chicago and reputed operative for the Chicago Secret Six, was bound over for criminal trial by Municipal Judge Joseph Chambers here today, after conclusion of testimony by Mrs. Ramona Winegar Alexander, 16 year old West Virginia beauty. The young prosecuting witness accused Dudley of inducing her to come here from West Virginia and later attempted to rape her.

GOVERNOR SIGNS EXTRADITION OF LINDY SUSPECT

Ordered to Face Murder Trial in Jersey.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

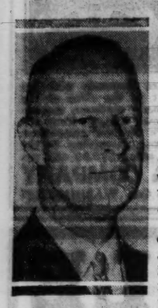
New York, Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Bruno Hauptmann tonight faced an early trial for the murder of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby after Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York had signed at Albany the extradition papers providing for his legal transfer to New Jersey.



JAMES M. FAWCETT

The German exconvict's lawyer, James M. Fawcett immediately announced that he would sue for a writ of habeas corpus in the Supreme court here tomorrow. Such a move would delay extradition of the prisoner if the writ is granted, but not for long, according to lawyers.

Much that is secret about New Jersey's murder case against the defendant may be disclosed, however, at a habeas corpus hearing. The prosecution will be required to convince a judge that it has good and sufficient evidence indicating Hauptmann's guilt and justifying his removal from this state for the trial.

Extortion Trial Put Off.

Hauptmann's trial on charges of extorting $50,000 ransom from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was to have started tomorrow. Because of the murder indictment against the prisoner in New Jersey, District Attorney Foley will ask for a postponement of the extortion trial, he announced.

Gov. Lehman signed the extradition papers after he had been assured that they were in order by his legal counsel. The governor is engaged in a campaign for reëlection and the publicity value of the Hauptmann case was not lost upon him.

The signing was done with a flourish in the presence of photographers and newsreel men, who had been notified several hours in advance.

A large group of New Jersey officials and police were present when the extradition papers were signed, including Prosecutor Anthony Hauck of Flemington, N. J., who will handle the case against Hauptmann. Capt. J. J. Lamb of the New Jersey police stated in an affidavit attached to the extradition papers that he had information that Hauptmann was near the Lindbergh home on the day of the kidnaping.

Get New York Evidence.

All evidence taken in New York, is to be placed in the hands of the New Jersey authorities, it was announced. This includes material evidence such as the ransom money found in Hauptmann's possession and the panel from his closet door on which the telephone number of Dr. John F. Condon, the ransom intermediary, was found.

A report that Hauptmann's defense is being built around Dr. Condon was denied by Attorney Fawcett. Dr. Condon has failed to identify Hauptmann as the man to whom he handed the $50,000 ransom and he would be called by the defense, according to the story, to oppose Col. Lindbergh's identification of Hauptmann's voice as that of the man who collected the ransom. Dr. Condon was face to face with the man, whereas Col. Lindbergh heard the voice from some distance, it was pointed out.

TELLS OF ACCOMPLICES

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York News.]

Flemington, N. J., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Bruno Hauptmann had two accomplices—a frightened, almost hysterical woman and another man—in his automobile when he stopped to buy gas less than ten miles from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Sourland mountain home a few hours before the baby was kidnaped and murdered March 1, 1932, according to the state's most important and hitherto mystery witness.

He is Hartley B. Phillips, 17, son of a former gas station proprietor, who sold ten gallons of fuel to Haptmann between 4 and 5 p. m. on the day of the disappearance of the infant Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

His identification of Hauptmann's photograph and his word portraits of the other two occupants of the car, coupled with a description of Hauptmann's automobile comprised the basis for Capt. John J. Lamb's affidavit—submitted to Gov. Lehman—that the state has evidence Hauptmann was in New Jersey the night of the crime.

Youth's Own Story.

"At the time of the kidnaping my father owned a gas station on the Middlebush-New Brunswick road, about ten miles from Hopewell. My father was away on business the afternoon of March 1, 1932, and so I tended the gas station for him.

"Between 4 and 5 p. m. a car drove up with two men in the front. The driver got out and asked me to check the oil and fill the gas tank, which was almost empty. He spoke with a German accent and I got a good look at his face.

"As I walked around the car to take off the gas tank cap I noticed that the woman was holding a handkerchief to her face. She seemed to be shaking, as if she was either frightened or crying. The other man, who remained in the front seat, leaned back and said something to her.

"After paying me, the man whom I now know as Hauptmann, stepped back into the car and drove off."

U. S. Withdraws from Case.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—The announcement was made today that the department of justice has withdrawn from the Lindbergh kidnaping case inasmuch as jurisdiction has been assumed by the states of New York and New Jersey.

All information in the case obtained by the department will be available to the New York authorities.

At the same time the announcement of the department's withdrawal was made it was disclosed that $46,681 of the $50,000 ransom money paid by the famous aviator had been accounted for in the possession of Hauptmann or in banks and brokerage accounts to his credit.

Return Accident Verdict in Death from Bleeding

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by the coroner's jury investigating the death Tuesday of Mrs. Rose Itschner, 62 years old, 843 Hollywood avenue, Des Plaines. While paring her toenails with a razor blade she apparently cut herself accidentally and bled to death, according to the finding.

GETS JAIL TERM FOR DEFRAUDING CITY OF WATER

Harry Wolf, 48 years old, 7953 Euclid avenue, was sentenced to 20 days in the Bridewell and fined $200 by Judge Francis Borrelli in the Wabash avenue court yesterday on a charge of defrauding the city out of about $9,000 in water bills.

Testimony at previous hearings was to the effect that Wolf, who is general manager of the Individual Towel and Cabinet service company, 3258 Graves court, had paid a city employé $50 to adjust his water meters to register less than the actual flow.

Wolf was one of 21 persons arrested after the city employé, Edward Reiter, 3151 South Springfield avenue, confessed he had been paid from $10 to $250 to "adjust" meters. Wolf's was the first conviction. Judge Borrelli continued six similar cases until Oct. 24. He denied Wolf's motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment, but allowed him 60 days in which to file a bill of exceptions.

FRATERNITY MEN FIND RABID DOG TAKEN AT PURDUE

La Fayette, Ind., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Consternation reigned at Purdue university today when it was discovered that a dog inoculated with rabies virus had been stolen from the biological laboratory where students had been using the animal in experimentation.

Warnings that the dog was certain to develop rabies in four days and become a menace to the community were broadcast by university officials. Even the radio station was called upon to urge whoever took the dog from the small animals' house in the rear of Stanley Coulter hall of science to return him at once.

This afternoon a telephone call from a fraternity house brought the information that the missing dog had turned up there. He was promptly captured and locked up in the laboratory again.

STATION KILLINGS AT KANSAS CITY SOLVED, U.S. SAYS

Richard T. Galatas Called Leader of Plot.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Three outlaws, all with records as killers, were named by the federal government today as the men who fired machine guns, killing four officers and their prisoner, at the Union station here Jan. 17, 1933.

Those said to have done the actual killing were named as Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd, Oklahoma desperado; his confederate, Adam Richetti—both fugitives—and Verne C. Miller, who since has been killed near Detroit by gangsters.

Details of Killings.

The men slain were Frank Nash, a convict, and Raymond J. Caffrey, department of justice agent; William J. Grooms and Frank E. Hermanson, Kansas City detectives, and Otto Reed, chief of police of McAlester, Okla.

Nash had been taken outside the station and placed in McCaffrey's auto, with the four guarding him, when the gangsters appeared and opened fire. All five were killed.

The killing was done just outside the station. It was an effort to rescue Nash, who, serving a sentence of 25 years imposed in the western district of Oklahoma for assaulting a mail custodian, had escaped from Leavenworth federal prison, was recaptured at Hot Springs, Ark., and taken to Kansas City for return to prison.

Secret Arrests Revealed.

Today's developments included the revelation of the arrest in New Orleans, three weeks ago, of Richard Tallman Galatas and his wife, Elizabeth. He is accused of being a prime mover in the plot to rescue Nash that led to the killings.

Mrs. Galatas was arraigned here today. She pleaded not guilty to conspiracy charges. Her bond was fixed at $25,000. She did not seek bond and was returned to jail. Her husband is there, under federal indictment, also not trying to get bond at this time. He was not formally arraigned.

Lazia Named in Case.

A sensational development was the naming by the Kansas City Star of John Lazia in connection with the massacre. Lazia himself was the victim of machine gunners here on July 11 this year.

James La Capra, a small time gangster who is held for protection in a death cell of the Jackson county jail after gangsters twice failed recently to kill him, supplied the government with startling information.

The Star says La Capra named Lazia, for many years prominent in Kansas City's Democratic organization, as the man who arranged a meeting for Miller, Floyd, and Richetti here the night before the slayings.

The newspaper also says Lazia men aided Floyd and Richetti in escaping from Kansas City after the killings for a stay of 24 hours in a local hideout.

Relates to Racket Feuds.

La Capra was an enemy of Lazia, reportedly because of being denied a larger share in the profits of certain "rackets."

"Although federal agents have weighed the prisoner's enmity with the Lazia group, they have investigated a part of his information and discovered it tallies with evidence they have obtained," the Star says.

Assistant U. S. Attorney General William Stanley said that after Nash was recaptured Galatas went to the tourist camp [at Hot Springs] and advised Mrs. Francis Nash of her husband's apprehension. Mrs. Nash communicated with "Doc" Louis Stacci [since arrested], proprietor of the O-P inn, Melrose Park, Chicago. In the meantime Galatas accompanied Mrs. Nash to the home of Herb and Esther Farmer at Joplin, Mo. There it was said last minute telephoning instructions were given to Miller relative to the route being followed by the arresting officers and their prisoner.

Golf and Trouble.

The department said "during the course of the investigation it was learned that Nash was associated with Francis J. Keating, Thomas Holden and several other well known gunmen who had participated in a number of bank robberies throughout the middle west.

"Their weakness for golf resulted," Stanley added, "in the apprehension of Keating and Holden at Kansas City on July 7, 1932, when they were located by special agents of the division of investigation on the old Mission golf course, playing a foursome which included Harvey Bailey, who is now serving a life sentence at Alcatraz prison for his participation in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel."

IOWA TIRE PLANT CLOSES; PUTS BLAME UPON NRA, TIMES

Keokuk, Ia., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—NRA restrictions and general business conditions are blamed for the fact the Standard Four Tire company here has ceased manufacturing operations temporarily. Officials earlier in the year had indicated that orders on hand would necessitate full time schedules and 24 hour production at least until Jan. 1. Only a small office staf and a few plant attendants are at work.

The company has made casings, inner tubes, and other rubber products for years. It has been inoperative for several weeks. Normally it employs 125 men.

DETROIT SUSPECT IN GIRL'S MURDER REPORTED HERE

Pictures Are Identified by Doctor and 2 Clerks.

It was learned yesterday that Chicago police are seeking Merton W. Goodrich, 26 years old, a musician, wanted for the rape and murder in Detroit on Sept. 26 of Lillian Gallaher, 11 years old. The hunt was started on information that Goodrich is or has been living in the Hyde Park district.

The latest clew to the whereabouts of Goodrich came from Dr. William R. Pattis, 826 East 61st street, who has identified pictures of Goodrich as those of the man who applied for medical treatement the day the girl's body was found. The girl had been missing for six days when her body was found in a trunk in Goodrich's Detroit apartment.

"I am nervous and need a tonic," the man believed to be Goodrich told Dr. Pattis.

The man gave his name as C. J. Gagnier, his age as 35, but refused to give his address, Dr. Pattis said. The suspect obtained a prescription and had it filled at the Von Hermann drug store, 824 East 61st street. The clerk in the store verified Dr. Pattis' identification, as did a clerk in the Plaisance Hotel Drug store, 1541 East 60th street. "Gagnier" had called there and asked that a physician be recommended to him.

It was disclosed also that Chief of Detectives Fred W. Frahm of Detroit had requested Chicago police to locate Gerald W. Jones, a musician friend of Goodrich, who is said to live in the neighborhood of 49th street and Drexel boulevard.

Mrs. Fannie Biannucci of Evanston identified a picture of Goodrich as the man who robbed her ten days ago.

HERE'S THE DIFFERENCE between Florsheims and Ordinary Shoes!

● No matter how well a shoe is made, it can be no better than its leather. That's why Florsheim uses only the finest imported and domestic skins.

But that is not enough. The outer edges of a skin are always thinner, rougher, and more apt to split and tear... so Florsheim uses only the heart of the hide. Strong, smooth, luxurious leather that can take hard punishment without losing its fine appearance.

As a matter of fact, that's one of the reasons why Florsheim Shoes are better, why they keep their good looks longer ...just part of Florsheims policy of sticking to fine lasts, fine leathers and fine labor.

WM. H. MALONE'S SUIT ADMITTED TO GERMAN COURT

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois tax commission, said today he hopes to be able to return to America in the early future. He has been a fugitive in Europe for more than a year from a Chicago Federal court indictment charging evasion of $59,000 income tax.

WM. H. MALONE.

Malone asserts he came to Europe only to collect a debt. His suit to recover $100,000 he loaned to the German firm of brothers, Paul & Martin Polka, formerly of Park Ridge, Ill., has been admitted to the Breslau court and is expected to come up next month.

Meets Many Difficulties.

Malone, who is determined not to return to America until the matter is settled, has encountered innumerable difficulties and finally, after a thirteen months' struggle, has received the German government's permission to sue his German debtors.

Lawyers declare that documents and affidavits submitted by Malone are ample evidence to establish his rightful claims. When he started suing to recover the money owed him by the Germans he was told that no foreigner can sue in the German courts without the government's permission. He applied for permission which at first was rejected by the Breslau court as being in violation of the American-German treaties.

American officials protested, whereupon the decision of the Breslau court was reversed and Malone was granted permission to sue.

Get Steamship Fares.

His creditors are the owners of the spa Bad Kudowa where Malone and his wife spent part of the summer. They thought it would be possible to get back part of their money by boarding in the hotel built with the money borrowed from them. This was refused.

The German creditors, the brothers Polka, were not allowed to start to pay off part of their debt by canceling the Malones' hotel bill.

After lengthy negotiations the debtors now are allowed to advance 1,000 marks [about $400] for the Malones' return passage, but are permitted to pay this only to a German steamship company and authorities demand a statement from the steamship company that the money will be used only to buy passage. The statement must be made out before Oct. 15.

NASH IS ENJOINED NOT TO COLLECT 5% OF '31 TAXES

County Treasurer Nash was enjoined from collecting about 5 per cent of unpaid 1931 taxes in a temporary restraining order issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Denis J. Normoyle. The injunction is similar to one issued recently affecting 1932 taxes.

The portion of the 1931 taxes falling under the terms of the injunction is the amount involved in levies recently voided by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. These levies represent 42 cents out of the total tax rate of $7.35 on each $100 of assessed valuation.

The writ was issued on petition of two taxpayers, who were represented by Attorneys James A. Sprowl and Leo J. Norville.

The reduction is available only to those who still owe 1931 taxes, since the law prohibits returning tax money that has been paid in. A bill to empower the county treasurer to credit these conscientious taxpayers on future tax bills with the amounts they paid under the illegal levies is to be introduced at the next session of the legislature.

Their captors have not yet demanded ransom. The three missionaries were captured while returning from a conference at Kweichow.

ALDERMEN VOTE 22 MILLION CUT IN 1933 TAXES

City and Schools Unite in Reduction.

A reduction of $22,619,483 in Chicago's 1933 taxes was made by the city council at its meeting yesterday when it passed ordinances calling for a lowering of levies for that year.

Of the total, $15,857,265 represents the reduction in tax revenue to be brought about by scaling down the levies for the various refunding bonds of the city. An additional $3,000,000 is cut off the 1933 bills by complete elimination of the levy for the city's working cash fund. The remainder, $3,762,218, is the amount by which the levy of the board of education for refunding bonds and educational fund bonds was reduced yesterday by the school board. This reduction was also ratified by city council ordinance.

With the passage of the ordinances it now remains for the council to direct the county clerk to reduce the 1933 levies they affect.

Clark Introduces Ordinances.

The ordinances were offered in the council by Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the city council finance committee. The ordinance covering the school board's levy reduction was introduced shortly after the board of education had adopted a resolution asking that the ordinance be submitted.

Ralph Condee, assistant attorney for the board of education, explained that the cutting of the board's levies was made possible by the legislature's granting of authority for the sale of $5,500,000 in refunding bonds of 1935. This fund will provide sufficient money to take up all school bonds maturing by next Jan. 1, and therefore the levies as originally submitted were excessive, Condee said.

Harry Brackett, auditor for the board of education, said after the board meeting that the entire refunding bond issue, authorized two months ago, had already been sold.

Reinvestment Is Authorized.

The city council also adopted an ordinance authorizing reinvestment, at higher rates of interest, of $19,000,000 in the renewal and depreciation fund of the Chicago Surface lines. This ordinance was introduced by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the council transportation committee.

Another resolution was adopted authorizing the corporation counsel to draft a bill for presentation to the legislature to provide that recent reductions affecting 1931 and subsequent taxes be extended to those who have already paid in full. The resolution, offered by Ald. Clark, pointed out that under the present law conscientious taxpayers could not receive the benefit of reductions effected by voiding certain levies, since money once paid in for taxes cannot legally be refunded.

Amber Warning

A little gadget, no larger than a sugar bowl, has ended the tedious régime of the after-dinner speaker. It is a miniature stop-and-go light invented and perfected by engineers in the laboratories of the Chicago Lighting institute.

As the air conditioning engineers opened their monthly meeting last night at the Civic Opera building Ralph G. Raymond, director of the institute, addressed the gathering.

"This little gadget," he explained, "is an automatic control of the patience of the listeners. As you introduce a speaker, press this button and start the light. Give the speaker five minutes. For two and a half minutes the light will show green. Then for half a minute it will gleam through an amber lens. It will turn red at three minutes. If he does not stop at the end of his allotted period the light will be automatically turned off and a loud bell will ring throughout the auditorium."

Swedish Churches to Pray for Expected Royal Baby

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The government has requested all churches to offer prayers for the expected arrival of a new royal baby soon to be born to Princess Sibylle, wife of Prince Gustaf Adolf, oldest son of the crown prince and heir apparent to the Swedish throne. The prince and princess were married in October, 1932. Princess Sibylle is of German birth, her father being the duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

EXPECT TO INDICT 12 MORE TODAY IN BUS VIOLENCE

the seven others were rearraigned before Judge John C. Lewe. Defense Attorneys Maclay Hoyne and Thomas Reilly asked for an immediate trial. The prosecution said it would be ready for trial as soon as a new indictment naming additional defendants could be returned. The trial was set for Oct. 29.

While the prosecution was preparing for further action Attorney Hoyne announced that he would take unusual steps to gain the release in bail of Stoltzmann and Louis Patton. Petitions for writs of habeas corpus for release in bail were filed with the clerk of the State Supreme court in Springfield. They will be presented to the court tomorrow. The petition in Stoltzmann's case asserts he was indicted on the testimony of Earl Renner. It is alleged that Renner has now retracted his testimony involving Stoltzmann.

Patton and his wife, the second petition alleges, are being held illegally, without any charges being placed against them. An affidavit by John Towey, a member of the executive committee of local 1022, accompanies the writ petitions. It asserts that the police are harassing and persecuting the strikers.

Recites History of Dispute.

Habeas corpus writs for bail have seldom been filed in the Supreme court. It is only in cases where it is alleged unprejudiced relief cannot be obtained in the local courts that such action is taken.

Stoltzmann, 35 years old and married, lives at 4248 West End avenue. He was employed as a driver by the bus company and was one of its "gold star" employés, the petition asserts. He ran for office in the Motor Coach fraternity, the bus employés' company union, and after being defeated became a member of the Amalgamated's local, No. 1022. He later was discharged along with a number of other coach company employés.

The discharged men made an appeal to the regional labor board asserting they were discharged because of their union activities. The regional board ruled that the company violated section 7A of the National Recovery administration code, which gives employés the right to determine who shall represent them in collective bargaining with their employers.

Dispute Over Dismissals.

The national labor relations board upheld the finding and the NRA revoked the bus company's Blue Eagle. John A. Ritchie, president of the company contended that the men were discharged for inefficiency and that the NRA had no jurisdiction because most of the company employés wished the Motor Coach fraternity to represent them.

Less than 5 per cent of the company's employés answered the union call for a strike. The buses have been kept in operation without curtailment of service.

MOTHER WITNESS IN TRIAL AGAINST MRS. VANDERBILT

Questioned Concerning Shift in Allegiance.

New York, Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan admitted in the Supreme court today that she had received a pension since 1928 from her daughter, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, against whom she testified as a person unfit to bring up her grandchild, 10 year old Gloria Vanderbilt.

According to Justice John F. Carew, who is hearing the case behind closed doors and summarizes the evidence for the press twice a day, Mrs. Morgan said the pension ceased last month.

She denied any expectation that it would be provided hereafter by the child's aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, whose side she has taken in the Vanderbilt-Whitney struggle for the child.

Asked About Allegiance.

Justice Carew said Mrs. Morgan was cross-examined by Mrs. Vanderbilt's counsel, Nathan Burkan, concerning her shift in allegiance from her daughter to Mrs. Whitney.

According to the testimony summarized by the justice, Mrs. Morgan has considered her daughter "lacking in maternal affection," ever since the grandchild was born in 1924, but did nothing about it until Mrs. Vanderbilt applied last month to the Surrogate's court here for full custody of the girl's $2,800,000 estate.

It was this estate, according to a petition, that provided Mrs. Vanderbilt's only income of $48,000 a year and enabled her to contribute to her mother's support.

When Mrs. Whitney, with whom the child has lived since 1932, opposed Mrs. Vanderbilt's application for custody of the child's estate on the ground that Mrs. Vanderbilt was an "extravagant and pleasure-loving woman," Mrs. Morgan decided, according to Justice Carew, to join with Mrs. Whitney.

Sees Little of Granddaughter.

He said, however, that Mrs. Morgan had evidently seen very little of the child since she was turned over to Mrs. Whitney two years ago.

The justice said Mrs. Morgan's pension was $5,400 a year, a part of which was provided by another of her daughters, Thelma, who married Viscount Furness.

Lady Furness is on her way here on the Empress of Britain to aid her sister, Mrs. Vanderbilt. The third of Mrs. Morgan's daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, has been at her sister's side daily in court. All three are arrayed against their mother.

Tells of Baptism.

He said the greatest emotion he noticed in the witness was when she told of having her grandchild Gloria baptized a Roman Catholic, although her daughter was opposed to it because she considered her mother a fanatic.

The hearing retired further into privacy in the judge's anteroom when Mr. Burkan's cross-examination reached the incident in Biarritz when Mrs. Morgan and the child's nurse, Emma Sullivan Keislich, looked into Mrs. Vanderbilt's bedroom and saw Prince Gottfried zu Hohenlohe.

According to the public testimony of the nurse, Mrs. Vanderbilt was in bed weeping, and Prince Gottfried was present in his pajamas trying to calm her.

May Talk with Child.

The justice said he would probably talk with 10 year old Gloria before the case was closed. He said any such interview would probably be held in the presence of all interested parties.

NEW DEAL PERILS U. S. AIR LINES, OPERATORS WARN

Reckless Policies May Cause Shutdown.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

New Dealers in the post office department either through short sightedness or deliberate political manipulation are bent on crushing the air transportation industry in the United States. This view, it became known yesterday, is firmly held by the heads of the major airlines operating through Chicago.

The situation has become increasingly critical since the abrupt air mail contract cancelations last Fepruary and the subsequent redistribution of the temporary contracts under which the mail is now carried, according to Ernest R. Breech, president of North American Aviation, Inc.

Enterprises are Threatened.

"Unless fair and reasonable legislation is adopted at an early date," said Mr. Beech, "the capital invested in air transportation might better be liquidated through distribution to the stockholders, since the capital is fast disappearing through operating losses."

The same thought—that the industry may soon find it necessary to cease operations to prevent economic disaster for its backers—also is expressed by Lester D. Seymour, president of American Airlines, Inc., an Erett L. Cord controlled concern. Mr. Seymour says: "Congressional action must be taken rapidly lest the airlines be compelled to close down for economic reasons."

Quick Relief Demanded.

"Unless specific legislation is passed by the next congress," said W. A. Patterson, president of United Airlines, Inc., "the large air transport companies will have reduced their entire cash resources to a point where they will be unable to carry on without extensive refinancing.

"Additional cash acquired through such refinancing would not represent new physical value but would represent the terrific losses which this industry has sustained in 1934 Furthermore the recruiting of new capital, under present conditions, would be exceedingly difficult."

Blame Three Factors.

Three factors cause this pessimism, the operators explain. These are:

1. The extremely confused rate situation which the postoffice department sought to clear up by the cancelations of the old and letting of the new contracts has not been clarified. Analysis of the last complete figures available, those for June, discloses that inequalities in the recompense of airlines for carrying mail are more marked now than at any time in the past.

2. The operators do not know what is in store for them in the near future, although they do know that some changes must be made since their temporary contracts cannot be extended under the law beyond next May. Many of the companies which won temporary contracts at extremely low rates merely to protect pioneering work, cannot continue to bear the losses they sustain every day they continue to fly under the temporary set up.

3. The operators feel that they are over regulated. They point out that "do" and "do not" rules are made for them by the department of commerce, the interstate commerce comsion, the post office department, the NRA, and by some states over which they operate.

Fail to Spread Contracts.

Analysis of the June figures made public by the post office department shows that the effort to spread mail franchises among more operators which was avowedly the object of the post office officials who claimed the larger companies held a virtual monopoly, was unsuccessful.

For June, 1934, United Airlines, American Airlines, and the North American Aviation group, operated the mail service over 17,469 or 71.5 per cent of the 24,419 route miles flown. Last December, just before cancelation, the same group flew 88 per cent of the 24,419 route miles then in operation.

Single Taxers Condemn U. S. Crop Destruction

The Henry George Memorial Congress of Single Taxers, ending its three day session in the Congress hotel last evening, passed resolutions condemning as ethically and economically unsound policies of the federal government aimed at the curtailment or destruction of farm products and other forms of wealth. Payments to landlords of public money for withdrawing land from cultivation, "increasing the cost of living to the masses of our people," also were deplored. George E. Evans of Pittsburgh was reëlected president of the Henry George foundation.

PLAN COLUMBUS DAY PAGEANT AT FAIR TOMORROW

1,000 to Act in Scenes on Land and Water.

Christopher Columbus, Queen Isabella, and King Ferdinand, and nearly a thousand lesser characters who figured in the discovery of America, will be portrayed at the World's Fair tomorrow afternoon in a land and water pageant that will feature Columbus day celebrations.

The pageant will begin with the landing of Columbus and will proceed through his reception at the royal court of Spain on his triumphal return. The drama will be acted out on the shore of the North lagoon at A Century of Progress.

Hold Dress Rehersal.

The principals, with a host of soldiers and sailors, Indians, courtiers, and ladies in waiting, assembled last night in the main ballroom of the Auditorium hotel for a final rehersal. The aquatic portion of the pageant has been rehersed on Lake Michigan.

When Columbus steps ashore from the small boat that carries him from the Santa Maria, which will be escorted into the lagoon by a flotilla, his lieutenants and soldiers surround him as he claims the land for the Spanish crown.

Brilliant Court Scene.

The scene shifts to the court of Spain, with Columbus bringing the news of his achievement, and he is received with royal acclaim. Le Roy Wetzel, former director of the Paulist choir, will direct his present organization, the Schurz High school choir, in the singing of sacred music as the royal party enters the picture.

The costumed players later will be taken to the Spanish and Italian villages, and then to the Illinois Host House. Robert M. Sweitzer, president and treasurer of the Columbus Day association, expressed his appreciation yesterday of the coöperation he has received in presenting the pageant.

Plan Formal Ball.

A formal ball will be held tomorrow night in the Gold room of the Congress hotel by citizens of Italian birth, under the auspices of the Justinian Society of Advocates. The Spanish society will celebrate the anniversary of the discovery Saturday with a musical recital and dance at the Palmer house, with consuls of other Spanish speaking countries taking part in the program.

Mayor Kelly yesterday issued a proclamation urging that public exercises be held tomorrow in memory of the Italian navigator. He recommends that the flag be flown from private, public, and commercial buildings.

ARRIVES IN U. S.

New York, Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Miss Madeline Slade, who nine years ago renounced life as a member of a "rich, conservative English family" to become Mirabai, the chief woman lieutenant of Mahatma Gandhi, arrived in New York today on the Majestic of the Cunard-White Star line, declaring that during her two weeks stay here she will "do her best to give Americans a clear conception of Gandhi and what he stands for."

Nearing forty, dressed in the plain clothes of an Indian ascetic, with her shaven head wrapped in a length of red-bordered white homespun, and her bare feet thrust into cheap Indian sandals, the woman who turned her back on the life of a cultured Englishwoman to accept the humble, almost primitive simplicity of the Hindu peasant, retains her striking personality.

Asked if her association with the mahatma had brought her the peace and happiness she had hoped for, Miss Slade said that it had brought her more peace than she had expected and more happiness than she had imagined.

ALL WILL HAVE CHANCE TO BID ON FAIR'S PROPERTY

Plan Inspection Week After Closing.

While Mr. and Mrs. Chicagoan are walking about the grounds and buildings of A Century of Progress these crisp, bright autumn days they may decide what, if any, of the Fair property they would like to acquire.

All the equipment which goes to make up a World's Fair, from the modernistic green and white striped garbage cans in use throughout the grounds to playground equipment, rides, and merry-go-rounds in Enchanted Island, will be salvaged and offered for sale to the highest bidder.

"It is our desire to give the Chicago householder or any other individual who wants to make only a small purchase the opportunity to do so," said Commander H. D. Nuber, U. S. N., assistant to the general manager in charge of salvage sales. "The forms for bids are made out to allow for the purchase of one article only if desired."

Plan Week of Inspection.

These blanks, to be filled out and submitted in sealed envelopes by bidders, will be distributed not earlier than Nov. 1, he said. Prospective bidders will have one week for inspection after that. Bids will be opened, probably in the lobby of the Administration building, in public.

Sales will be for cash only. When the bid is $50 or less the full amount must accompany it. Awards will be made by letter.

"Much interest has been shown in modernistic furniture," said Commander Nuber, "but the Fair does not own any except that in the Trustees' lounge.

Wide Variety Offered.

"More individuals have shown interest in the mushroom lights on the grounds than any one thing."

Items which will be for sale include the public address system, 15 passenger cars, 20 motor trucks, office furniture and typewriters, benches, Oriental rugs, lighting equipment of all varieties, electric light bulbs of many shapes, plumbing supplies, toilet fixtures, storage batteries and pipe fittings.

Many have made inquiries about hedges, lawns, and shrubbery, but whether it will be for sale depends on the park commission's decision as to whether the landscaping will be retained.

Inventors and scientist-mechanics are expected to display great interest in the tools and equipment used in the laboratory of the Hall of Science, where the basic science and other exhibits were manufactured.

"Wings" Costumes for Sale.

Other individual World's Fair souvenirs which will be offered to the public are the costumes used in the transportation pageant, Wings of a Century.

The entire equipment of the giant fountain in the lagoon may be salvaged if the park board does not retain it. The flagpoles and flags of the Avenue of Flags will become a demolition problem if not kept by the park board. Other flags, including the huge American flags flying near the 12th street entrance, will be sold to the highest bidder.

Uniforms of Fair employés will be given to the wearers at the close of the Fair, Commander Nuber said.

With exactly three weeks remaining until that time, bright, invigorating weather continued yesterday. Visitors strolled along the colorful avenues, many of them seeing the Exposition for the last time. At midnight, 48,030, paid admissions had been registered.

Busts of 16 famous men, including George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and Thomas Edison, were unveiled yesterday afternoon in the Republic of China building at the Fair. The busts were made by orphans on the Fukien children's home at Foochow, China. Yesterday was the anniversary of the Chinese revolution.

The fellowship forum of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce will dine tonight in the Virginia Dare tavern in the Colonial village.

Twenty-one present and former billiard champions will appear in exhibitions Monday and Tuesday in the Grand Salon of the French pavilion in the Hall of States.

One hundred and fifty pensioned employés of the Rock Island railway from throughout Illinois, all of whom are more than 70 years old, assembled in the railway's exhibit in the Travel and Transport building yesterday in celebration of the line's 82d birthday. They then attended a performance of "Wings of a Century."

Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, the dean of American Women composers of music, will be honored in a series of programs at the Fair today. The program is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Louis E. Yager of Oak Park. The first event in honor of Mrs. Beach will be a luncheon at noon in the Colonial village, to be followed by a visit to the Ford Gardens, where the Woman's Symphony orchestra will devote its entire program to compositions by American women.

Approximately five hundred children, orphans and members of families on relief, visited the Fair yesterday as guests of the listeners of radio station WLS. Other groups of from 500 to 1,000 will be taken to the Exposition until its close.

Henry Ford was a visitor at the Fair yesterday. He attended the 4 o'clock performance of "Wings of a Century," accompanied by Gen. Charles G. Dawes. Later he went behind scenes and talked with J. T. Schober, engineer of the locomotive Pioneer, built in 1851, now the property of the Pennsylvania railway. Mr. Ford climbed into the cab of the wood burning engine and looked at the controls.

24 HIGH SCHOOLS MAY REGAIN LOST ACCREDITED RANK

A probability that 24 Chicago High schools placed on a probation list by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools may regain full accredited standing in the association this year was presented to Chicago high school teachers last night by A. W. Clevenger, secretary of the North Central association and high school visitor for the University of Illinois. Mr. Clevenger spoke at a regular meeting of the Chicago High School Teachers' association in the auditorium at 42 West Randolph street.

"Judging from unofficial reports reaching my office, it appears that many steps have been taken to correct the Chicago deficiencies reported by the association last year," Mr. Clevenger said. "One of the most hopeful aspects in the situation is the fact that these high schools are under the direction of a group of unusually well-trained, experienced and competent principals, and the fact that new school buildings are being added to the system to relieve overcrowding."

The North Central association, in its meeting here in March, warned the 24 high schools that they would be dropped from the accredited list if overcrowding, heavy teacher load, and textbook shortage conditions were not remedied.

PLAN CHRISTMAS GIFT DRIVE FOR NEEDY CHILDREN

Headquarters for Chicago's Own Christmas benefit, headed by Mayor Kelly, were established yesterday at 33 North La Salle street. The program to provide needy children of the city with clothing, shoes, and toys during the holiday season is already well under way.

The benefit was established last year as an annual affair. The first year's program resulted in the collection of more than $150,000, with which 35,000 needy children were provided with Christmas gifts. A show similar to one staged last year will be repeated this year at the Chicago Stadium, it was announced.

Besides Mayor Kelly, chairman of the fund, other officers are Col. A. A. Sprague, treasurer; Harnet Hodes, secretary, and Gov. Henry Horner, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, honorary chairmen.

DENIES CAMPAIGN SIGNS MADE BY RELIEF WORKERS

Emmett Whealan, president of the forest preserve board, yesterday promised an investigation of reports that political campaign signs were manufactured in county forest preserve buildings in furtherance of his candidacy for membership on the board of tax appeals, and in behalf of other Democratic candidates.

"If I find that relief workers or county employés have made campaign signs on county time, they will be fired," said Mr. Whealan, who is also chairman of the county board. "We have contracted for General Outdoor Advertising company billboards which is evidence as to the falseness of the reports. Last Sunday when I attended a gathering of the Polish Falcons I found some signs on trees and had them removed immediately."

A secretary for Mitchell C. Robin, candidate for clerk of the Probate court, whose signs were reported seen in a truck in the Thatcher's Woods forest preserve, declared they had been privately manufactured and paid for.

Schools Get $449,527 from State Fund Today

The Chicago schools today will receive $449,527 from the state school distributive fund through the office of Otto F. Aken, county superintendent of schools, who yesterday received $649,482 from Edward J. Barrett, state auditor. The remaining $246,955 will go to rural schools. The money is used for current school obligations.

ROBBERS GET CASH, LIQUOR.

Four men, one of them armed with a revolver, robbed the Porges Liquor company store, 1328 East Forty-seventh street, of $55 and eleven cases of liquor, valued at $500, last evening after locking a clerk, Nathan Biond, 4654 Lake Park avenue in a rear room.

Mayor Calls on Chicago to Honor Pulaski Today

Today was designated as Pulaski day in Chicago in a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Kelly. The mayor urged that flags be displayed on all public, commercial and private buildings as a mark of respect for the memory of Count Casimir Pulaski. He also asked citizens to attend the Pulaski memorial services tonight in the United States courthouse.

BRANDEIS' ADVICE TO GEN. JOHNSON HELD UNETHICAL

Disqualifies Him in NRA Cases, Educator Says.

The recent statement of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson before he relinquished his post as national recovery administrator that he had been in frequent consultation with "that old counselor," Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme court, was sharply criticized last evening by Dean Edward T. Lee of John Marshall Law school. His criticism was uttered in the final lecture of a series on the constitution before students of the school.

"Lawyers and doubtless laymen," said Dean Lee, "must have read a short time ago, with surprise and regret, a report that a member of the Supreme court of the United States had been an adviser of a representative of the executive in the administration of an act of congress which was already a heated political question and was destined to remain such until a decision as to its constitutionality should be rendered by the supreme judicial power of the land.

Cites Traditional Attitude.

"If it be true—and Gen. Johnson, our modern Bombastes Furioso, whatever else he has been called, has never been called a liar—that Justice Brandeis, long known as a radical, was consulted repeatedly by the general, and that the justice was his adviser in matters relating to the NRA, it must be said that his conduct was unethical, contrary to the traditions and practice of members of that court, and sufficiently grave to disqualify him from sitting on the bench in any case involving the validity of the new legislation.

"And it would be entirely proper for any defendant appearing before the Supreme court in a matter involving the constitutionality of the National Industrial Recovery act, or its administration, to ask that Justice Brandeis should not sit in the case.

"The perpetuation of our national constitution is based upon the separation of the powers of government into the executive, legislative, and the judicial departments.

Separation Long Respected.

"The constitution prescribes clearly and marks out definitly the powers and boundaries of the three departments. A breaking down of the boundaries of any one of them by either or both of the other two would mean an end of our 'indestructible union of indestructible states.'

"In our early history this separation of powers was strictly observed. The President and congress kept within their respective boundaries.

"The members of that high court have eschewed politics with rare exceptions and have not meddled in the affairs of congress or of the executive, and thus have been able to pass upon the constitutionality of acts of congress and of the executive with impartiality, disinterestedness, and without a suspicion of partisanship."

TWO FOR A QUARTER PRICE FOR CIGARETS CONTINUED BY NRA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Popular brands of cigarets will continue to sell for 13 cents a package or two for a quarter until Jan. 11, by order of NRA's new governing board.

This action today was the first by the Blue Eagle rulers involving the controversial question of price fixing. It continued a 90 day emergency order by Hugh S. Johnson, which otherwise would have expired Oct. 13.

As an indication of the recovery board's attitude to the price and production control issue, the cigaret order was not considered of major importance. It followed a statement earlier in the day, formally assuring the bituminous coal industry that its price fixing code still was in effect and would not be changed unless the industry was consulted and given a hearing.

SPAIN'S COLONIAL TROOPS KILL 11 IN OVIEDO REGION

Warships Shell Rebel Nests in Asturias.

MADRID, Oct. 10. — (AP) — Eleven more deaths were added to the revolt toll of uncounted hundreds tonight with reports from the war ministry that foreign legion forces imported from Morocco had completed a mop-up campaign at Oviedo, northern Spain.

The Oviedo garrison was enabled to dispatch additional troops to reinforce the army in the mountainous mining sections of the province where some rebel strongholds, the last remaining of the disastrous Red revolt, still held forth.

It was reported warships operating off the Asturias coast had backed up the foreign legion troops with bombardments on rebel nests located near the coast on the Bay of Biscay.

Levy First Sentence.

Government information revealed tonight Maj. Jacques Bosch, commander of the Catalonian militia, had been sentenced to life imprisonment by a summary court martial at Barcelona. It was added that nine similar cases are on schedule at Madrid, and that several death penalties were likely.

Bitterness among the leftist groups emerged today. Several anarchist and communist leaders were violently bitter against the Socialists, on whom they placed the blame for the collapse of the movement. They indicated the Socialists failed to keep their promises, saying most of the fighting was done by communists and anarchists. They admitted, however, the Socialists joined them in Asturias.

One significant statement was the risk "Socialist leaders are running now is not from the government but from other sources; there is danger for them from the infuriated masses who were deceived by the movement."

Prepare to Try Leaders.

Attorney General Antonio Callardo announced that Manuel Azana, Luis Companys, president of Catalonia, and other officers arrested will be brought to Madrid to be tried before the tribunal of constitutional guarantees.

Madrid, for the first time in several days, was free from disconcerting interruptions and rifle fire. The best evidence of a return to normal conditions was the large attendance in the cafés.

The San Sebastian government is engaged in a determined effort to break a five day strike, threatening workers with loss of their jobs if they fail to return. Troops protected strike-breakers in the Basque province.

Portugal Moves Up Troops.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Portuguese government dispatched troops to the Spanish frontier tonight. The action was not explained.

PREDICTS CHAOS IF U. S. RESORTS TO INFLATION

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Unless the United States stops all movements for inflation, chaos will result, Dr. George W. Starr of Indianapolis, told the South Bend Rotary club here today.

Dr. Starr is chairman of the Indiana sound money committee.

"All through our history as a nation," he said, "the government has been on the side of the sound money advocates. Now, however, the situation is different.

"Every advocate of inflation paints a rosy picture and it is much easier to follow an enticing story on the virtues of inflation than to unearth the cold economic facts on why inflation always has been the way 'in' rather than 'out' of a business depression.

"Despite the arguments of the so-called reflationists, we cannot inflate to a given level, then stop. For if we attempt to control inflation it will bring about liquidation, and if we want to avoid liquidation we must continue to inflate until our currency becomes worthless, which is the final stage. We will only make matters worse than they were before we began our attempted reflation."

Three Deserting Soldiers from Texas Caught Here

Three soldiers who deserted the army post at Fort Crockett, Galveston, Tex. were captured yesterday in Lyons township by County Highway Policeman Charles Zak after a four mile chase. The men, Jay Watkins, 22 years old; Sidney McBride, 24, and Claude Slone, 22, admitted that the automobile in which they were riding had been stolen in Galveston. They are held on charges of desertion and violation of the Dyer act, which prohibits transporting a stolen automobile across a state line.

STATE DEFEATED IN ENTERING 'KEY' BUCKET EVIDENCE

Crowley - Doherty Books Held Not Admissible.

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Moskal, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

In the trial of seven brokers in the so-called bucket conspiracy, the prosecution suffered a severe blow yesterday afternoon when Judge Walter La Buy in the Criminal court ruled out of evidence the records of Crowley-Doherty & Co., a brokerage concern through which the alleged stock market manipulations were made. Assistant States' Attorney Vernon Thompson said in his argument that the books of this company "are the very heart of this case."

Judge La Buy made his ruling just before the state closed its evidence and while Clarence Walker, an expert auditor for the state's attorney's office, was on the witness stand waiting to testify to the alleged stock market manipulations as shown by the Crowley-Doherty & Co. books. The judge predicated his ruling on the testimony of the bookkeeper for the company, who said the records were not correct.

Seek Directed Verdicts.

Defense Attorneys Abe Marovitz and Michael Ahern immediately started to argue motions for a directed verdict of not guilty for all defendants, on the contention that the state failed to prove its conspiracy charges. The prosecutors, however, argued that enough evidence was introduced to allow the jury to decide the case, although admitting, "It is none too weighty without the ruled out evidence." A decision on these motions will be given today.

The prosecution said it would be able to show through the books of Crowley-Doherty & Co. that Leonard Rollnick, chief defendant, and his associates arranged stock sales among themselves, using a small handful of Mercantile Finance corporation certificates, to boost or lower the market, according to whether they wished to sell stock or to "freeze out" buyers who had purchased the stock on margin.

Withdraw Luschuk Books.

"It was through this series of sales among themselves that the investing public was swindled," argued Attorney Thompson, in attempting to get the books in evidence. "The whole swindling operation occurred through this company."

Judge LaBuy ruled that the books of Paul A. Luschuk & Co., one of the alleged string of bucket shop concerns, could be admitted in evidence. The prosecution, however, withdrew these books and other documentary proof because they were of no value without the Crowley-Doherty records.

The other defendants in the trial beside Rollnick are Ben Reuben, P. J. Gbeene, Barney Lavin, Ernest Wahl Simon, G. William Herbst and Albert L. Sherman.

Luschuk and John Keane, former head of Keane & Co., were co-defendants in the case, but they were granted separate trials and testified for the prosecution, which has spent three weeks in presenting its evidence.

President Roosevelt Turns Back $1,000 to Aid Estate

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, left $1,000 in the will of Leon Grant McBurney, San Pedro, has assigned his interest to McBurney's children, Superior court records disclosed today. McBurney's will also bequeathed $1,000 to Joseph Stalin of Soviet Russia, with the statement "I owe him more." The will gave the children each $1 "for reasons they all know." McBurney died Dec. 26, 1933.

IRVING C. NETCHER WINS SUIT OVER SALE OF AN AUTO

New York, Oct. 10. — [Special.] — Through counsel Irving C. Netcher, Chicago department store owner, successfully defended today a suit in the Supreme court brought by the Clarke D. Pease Engineering corporation of New York. Netcher was represented by Attorney Henry A. Uterhart.

Pease, head of the engineering corporation, charged the defendant owed him $3,642 for repairs made on the latter's $20,000 European made automobile. The plaintiff also asked for $1,125 for storage of the car since 1928. The defendant's counsel said Netcher turned the car over to the Pease corporation to repair and sell for at least $4,000. Pease to get any money over that figure.

ROBBERY CREW PUTS ON THRILL NIGHT; 3 SEIZED

Steal Cars, Take Pay Roll and Battle Police.

Within a few hours last evening a gang of five men, some of them armed with shotguns, kidnaped three men, stole their automobiles, staged a pay-roll robbery and engaged in a gun fight with police.

All of the kidnaping victims were released, and three of the alleged robbers were captured. The gang is suspected of 75 to 100 robberies, according to Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue police.

The first target of the gang's depredations was Attorney Edward Marshall of 140 Kenilworth avenue, Kenilworth. Marshall was driving home to meet his wife preparatory to a celebration of his 60th birthday anniversay when the robbers held him up at Pine Grove and Wellington avenues.

Seize Marshall and Car.

Leaving their car, four of the gunmen forced their way into Marshall's and drove away with him. Policemen Justin McCarthy and Michael Richards saw Marshall struggling with his captors, and gave chase. After firing a fusilade of shots at the squad car, the robbers made their escape. They released Marshall at Fullerton avenue and High steet, after taking $30 from him.

A few minutes later they invaded the Powers Regulator company, 2720 Greenview avenue, terrorized a score of workers and robbed the paymaster, Arthur Kroeppler, 1536 Roscoe street, of $800.

Then, abandoning Marshall's car in front of the home of Dr. Frank S. Davidson at 1463 Melville place, they seized Dr. Davidson and compelled him to drive them away in his automobile. The doctor was soon freed, but the gang kept his car.

They Again Change Cars.

Fifteen minutes later they changed cars again, holding up Thomas McKenna in front of his home at 1618 Belle Plaine avenue. He was robbed of $25 before the gunmen let him out near Sheffield and Garfield avenues. His car was later found abandoned.

Meanwhile Policemen McCarthy and Richards had arrested Ray Kleba, 20 years old, 2259 Lewis street, who had been left behind to drive the automobile in which the gang started. After questioning him a squad went to Maud and Sheffield avenues, where, he said, he was to meet the others, and arrested Joseph Gutt, 19 years old, 1118 Lill avenue, and George Kleba, 22 years old, 1877 Maud avenue, a brother of Ray.

PRINCETON DEBATE STAR IS SUSPENDED AFTER BEER PARTY

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 10. — (AP) — Princeton university's rule against the use of liquor in dormitories resulted in the indefinite suspension of one of its most prominent seniors, but the suspension did not prevent him from meeting Col. Henry Breckinridge of New York, in debate tonight.

Edward F. Prichard Jr. of Paris, Ky., president of the Woodrow Wilson Democratic club; president of Whig Hall, undergraduate debating club; editorial editor of the Daily Princetonian and twice winner of the class of 1876 debate prize, the highest speaking award offered any student, was suspended, it became known today, because of a beer drinking episode last week. Suspended with him was Kelvin M. Fox, a senior of Flagstaff, Ariz., and vice president of the Woodrow Wilson Democratic club.

Prichard and Fox arranged a meeting which was held last Wednesday night in Fox's room for the purpose of planning support for Mercer county Democratic candidates in the November election. There were two kegs of beer for the meeting. Most of it was drunk. The next morning the kegs were found outside Fox's room.

HARBOR PROJECT LAUDED BY DERN IN CALUMET VISIT

Moynihan Hopeful PWA Wil Release Fund.

After an inspection yesterday of the Calumet-Sag section of the lakes-gulf waterway and the site of the proposed harbor in Lake Calumet, Congressman P. H. Moynihan said he felt hopeful that the $2,814,000 "earmarked" for these improvements by the Public Works administration would be released shortly. The congressman made the inspection in company with Secretary of War Dern.

Secretary Dern arrived in Chicago early yesterday on a tour of inspection of waterways, flood control works, and harbors. He was met by Congressman Moynihan, who had invited him to make a personal survey of the Calumet district, and taken in a government boat from the mouth of the Calumet river to Lockport along the waterway route.

Calls Project "Logical."

"The Calumet harbor project seems to me to be a very logical one," said the war secretary. "It is situated where it can be of use to industry, and it surely should be encouraged as part of our waterway system."

After the $2,814,000 for the channel improvement had been "earmarked," conditions were laid down which local officials said were "ridiculous and impossible." One of these was that 17 bridges along the main drainage canal be made movable or otherwise adjusted. Harold L. Ickes, PWA administrator, said the war department and not he was responsible for this requirement.

Bridges Not on Route.

Congressman Moynihan, who represents the Second Illinois district embracing the Calumet area, said he had pointed out to Secretary Dern that the 17 bridges are miles away from the Calumet route and have nothing to do with the Calumet-Sag problem.

The secretary spent only the one day in the city, leaving for St. Paul after visiting with his son. He attended lunch at the Quadrangle club at the University of Chicago as the guest of Prof. Marshall Domick of the political science department.

IDENTIFIED AS BANDIT.

COUNTY COUNCIL OF LEGION HOLDS ANNUAL DANCE

More than 750 members of the Cook county council of the American Legion last night attended the organization's eighth annual dinner dance in the Terrace Garden of the Morrison hotel. The council's new officers were installed.

In addition to entertainment and dancing, there was a brief program of speeches. Among the speakers were State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, Paul G. Armstrong, commander of the Illinois department of the legion, and Matthew J. Murphy, newly elected commander of the council.

LABOR SESSION HEARS ATTACKS ON NRA METHODS

Matthew Woll Leads in Criticism.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 10.—(AP)—A three pointed attack on the NRA as it applies to workers was launched before the American Federation of Labor convention here today.

Robert J. Watt, a Massachusetts delegate, charged the collective bargaining clause of the recovery act had been "used against the workers themselves." He asserted employers, including Henry Ford, had been permitted to interpret the act as they pleased.

Woll Attacks NRA.

Matthew Woll of New York, a federation vice president, said the recovery act virtually required employers to organize among themselves, but said there was no comparable requirement that labor join in a majority movement for its own benefit.

Labor, said Woll, must obtain the same right to organize as capital "or labor will be enslaved under the NRA instead of made free."

Decisions of the National Labor Relations board were criticized by Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical union.

"If we are to have a vital application of the NRA to the right of organized labor unions to bargain with employers," said Howard, "the federation will have to get a proper interpretation of the recovery act."

Says 10 Millions Lack Jobs.

After hearing the criticisms, the convention adopted its executive council's report on unemployment, which placed the total number of unemployed at about 10,000,000.

The convention had approved the council's recommendations favoring changes in the recovery setup to strengthen the hand of labor.

Francis J. Gorman, a leader of the recent textile strike, asked the convention to expunge from its record the remark of Daniel J. Tobin of Indianapolis who yesterday discussed a jurisdictional dispute between the International Teamsters' union, which he heads, and the brewery workers. Tobin wanted beer wagon drivers to join his union, saying:

"Our organization is made up of staunch unionists. We have none of the rubbish that has come into other organizations during the last year."

Green Makes Retort.

Today President William Green of the A. F. of L., referring to all workers, said:

"Every one of these workers from mass production industries is welcome to the ranks of the American Federation of Labor."

The federation tonight upheld its executive council in declaring illegal the convention of the building trades department, which refused to allow reaffiliation of the carpenters, electrical workers, and bricklayers.

On a roll call vote representatives of the strongest unions of the federation backed President Green in his demand that the three "rebel" unions be allowed to reaffiliate.

During the 6½ hour fight on the convention floor delegates admitted the squabble was over the retention of the present officers of the department, now headed by Michael J. McDonough of Oakland, Cal.

The vote was: Yes, 19,398, and no, 7,826.

AUSTRIA PLANS TO FORCE ARMY TRAINING ON BOYS

VIENNA, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Compulsory military service will shortly be introduced again into Austria. This was announced tonight by Josef Kresse, second vice burgomaster of Vienna.

Addressing an Austrian trade union meeting, Kresse said it will not be long before "we begin to give our boys military training."

The treaty of St. Germain strictly forbids Austria to engage in compulsory conscription.

The announcement was greeted with much speculation in view of various rumors that Italy is supporting a possible Hapsburg restoration, now that the chief opponent of restoration, Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, is dead.

MINE UNION CHIEF URGES INDUSTRY TO AVOID LABOR REVOLT

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Doubt that "the millions of underprivileged" will wait "even 150 days longer for the industrial freedom granted them more than a year ago by the recovery act" was expressed here today by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, before the Commonwealth club today.

"Indefensible tactics of reactionary industrial groups and their disregard of law should not be permitted to bring about an industrial revolt which would inevitably be attended by the menace of communism of fascism," he declared. He said he wanted the basis for a really coöperative partnership between employers and labor through the NRA and labor unions.

Along with style and comfort, we've considered underwear from the health angle as well, and that's taken us into the proper mixture of wool and cotton, the weight, and a lot of other factors that have to do with good health. It's been pretty much involved, but we've seen to it that every piece of underwear we sell has a good health argument in its favor. This two-piece knit suit is a good example. Both shorts and shirts are of the ribbed type so they hug the body closely and at the same time allow the fullest amount of freedom. The shorts have a long life elastic band waist and the legs come just above the knees.

FIND MICHIGAN DEMOCRATS PUT SANTA TO FORE

"Why Bite Hand?" Cry of Campaigners.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Republican managers renewed their accusations today that the Democrats are pulling the same tactics in Michigan that they did in Maine by turning on the flood of Santa Claus gifts as a curtain raiser for the Nov. 6 election. From Washington came dispatches saying that Emil Hurja, director of the Democratic national committee, has put out a reminder that New Deal agencies have poured into Michigan an average of $110 for every man, woman, and child in the state during the last eighteen months.

The total payment is given as $532,478,000 and it includes 288 millions of RFC loans. The tabulation which is reported at Washington to be sent out to Democratic candidates, with a veiled inference that they may be capitalized in spreading the arguments that money talks and "why bite the hand that feeds you?" includes the following as Michigan "benefits."

AAA payments, $596,991.
Emergency conservation, $16,484,000.
Relief administration, $48,774,871.
Home owners' loans, $11,437,000.

13 Million More on Way.

In addition it has been announced that 3 million 600 thousand is to be distributed in the state in corn-hog and sugar beet checks, while a grant of 10 million has been made for October unemployment doles. On top of this the Republicans point to the efforts of the New Dealers to beguile the voters by dusting off the project of a 40 million dollar dream bridge across the straits of Mackinaw and a 23 million dollar sewerage project for the Detroit river, on both of which PWA had turned thumbs down.

Meanwhile the federal relief rolls in Michigan are growing until this month they are expected to exceed the peak in March, 1933, when 200,000 cases were on the dole. The estimate at relief headquarters here is that the cases this month will run to 205,682, of which 68,903 are in Wayne county, which has about 39 per cent of the population.

Growing unemployment in Detroit's automotive industry, largely seasonal, is given as the cause of the growth of dole cases in Wayne county, which in April had 39,000. About 10.6 per cent of Wayne county's population is now on the government dole.

102 Millions in 9 Months.

From January, 1933, to September, 1934, the total amount spent on federal doles, including CWA, in Michigan was 102 million dollars. With 10 millions for October, it runs up to 112 millions. In the copper country 70 per cent of the people are on the relief rolls, while the southern industrial counties run 10 or 12 per cent.

Republicans are pointing out that Director Hurja, the former Crystal Falls ,Mich., boy who is official crystal gazer for Postmaster General James A. Farley, has been calling upon Michigan to elect the Democrats next month with a thinly veiled intimation that otherwise the golden flow might be dammed up.

The figures on "prime the pump" gifts are being broken down by Republican campaigners to show the tax debt that is being "loaded upon every Michigan cradle," while the growth of the relief rolls, especially in Detroit and the other automotive cities, is being cited as indication that the New Deal pump priming is not producing results due to experimentations by brain trust theorists.

Cite Ford's Independence Plea.

On business recovery the Republicans in one piece of literature indorse the statement of Henry Ford urging "the recovery of our spirit of American independence." As a leading industrialist, Henry Ford stood out against the NRA, now in a state of collapse, and set forth a merchandising and manufacturing doctrine that the way to recovery and prosperity lies in continually improving products without increasing prices, and creating a desire to buy the best goods at the best prices.

As a practical econmist Republicans are now putting some emphasis on Mr. Ford and his views on recovery. Incidentally, back in 1916, Mr. Ford won in the Democratic presidential primaries in Michigan and was given the vote of that state on the first ballot in the Republican national convention. In 1918 he ran for the nomination for senate in both Republican and Democratic primaries and was beaten in the G. O. P. by Truman Newberry.

The Republicans are setting forth that as a party in Michigan they favor progressive programs which shall recognize "a broadening social responsibility in government" but not anything that assaults the spirit of the constitution.

Seek Release from Interference.

"We pledge as our fundamental aim," they say, "the release of private business from hampering and fruitless federal interference and federal competition. We favor reasonable regulation in behalf of the public welfare, but oppose regimentation of industry or agriculture.

"We favor the restoration of anti-trust laws, the repeal of direct taxing powers now lodged with the secretary of agriculture in respect to food and clothing, and demobilization of the regulatory burocracy that has fastened itself like a parasite upon the body politic."

The argument is being expounded at the G. O. P. rallies that what business now needs is a restoration of commercial confidence, under which private industry can make its long range plans and bring about a natural recovery.

Drive Starts in Earnest.

The campaign is really just starting in Michigan. The world series between the Cardinals and Tigers has kept politics at a standstill, but today saw the leading candidates out on the stump. Some of them report immense audiences, both Republican and Democratic. It was that way in Maine also. Political scouts who have been over the veldt report that President Roosevelt is personally popular as ever but that criticism is widespread of such experimentations of the brain trust as have proved failures at gigantic costs.

Wayne county [Detroit] is regarded as the inscrutable portion of the state. The general Republican estimate is that their ticket will go to Wayne county, with a plurality of 150,000 outside, and then will come the tug of war.

In THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 6 it was incorrectly stated that Associate Professor Herbert Blumer of the University of Chicago was arrested in Bremen, Germany, for failure to salute a Storm Trooper. Mr. Blumer reports that his action merely led a Storm Trooper to make inquiry. Mr. Blumer also points out that he cannot be held responsible for any statements in the article, as he was in England when it appeared.

The headline of a story in THE TRIBUNE on Wednesday erroneously stated that the Illinois Automobile club was fined by the Supreme court. The $1,000 fine imposed by the court because of a corporation practicing law was levied against the Automobile Club of Illinois, which is not associated in any way with the Illinois Automobile club.

ROCKFORD EDITOR ELECTED HEAD OF STATE A. P. GROUP

Second Press Parley Opens Today.

Barney Thompson of the Rockford Register Republic was elected president of the Illinois Associated Press Editors' association yesterday at the annual meeting of the organization in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Robert Rennick of the Illinois State Journal, Springfield, was elected vice president.

Members of the association, who are editors of newspapers in Illinois having the Associated Press service, agreed to add a man to the Springfield bureau for better legislative coverage, and methods of improving the service through closer coöperation of the various newspapers were discussed.

Managing Editors Meet.

Many of the editors attending the Illinois meeting will stay on for the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors' association, which is to be held at the hotel today and tomorrow.

All of the editors have been invited to attend a luncheon given in their honor today at the Edgewater Beach hotel by Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE.

One topic of discussion for the national editors' meeting will be the projected Associated Press telephoto service.

Bar Speeches at Dinner.

This topic and others derived from problems of the last year, will be considered at round table conference after the regular business session.

Following the disposal of business and the reading of the reports, the annual banquet will be held at the hotel at 8 p. m.

Speeches will be barred at the dinner, according to Oliver Owen Kuhn of the Washington Star, who is chairman of the association's executive committee.

SAVANT CONDEMNS REGIMENTATION AS A BRAKE ON SCIENCE

Because scientific progress, he said, depends upon absolute freedom of thought, Prof. Anton Carlson of the University of Chicago yesterday declared his opposition to "regimentation and dictation, whether it be that of Stalin, Hitler, or Gen. Johnson."

Prof. Carlson, an internationally known physiologist, delivered the first of the annual series of lectures on contemporary thought at Northwestern university. His subject was "Science in the Modern World." He attacked proposals for a "moratorium on science" to permit the world's economic system to catch up with scientific discoveries, asserting that pure science, as distinguished from its practical applications through inventions, has had little effect on society.

"It is proposed by several people," said Prof. Carlson, "that we declare a moratorium on science and scrap it because the machine replaces man and he cannot earn his daily bread. Of course, it is possible to scrap such results of science as the sewing machine and tractor without scrapping science.

"But I am afraid of all this scrapping. It seems to me to lead to the curtailment of the freedom of experimentation and even of human curiosity."

COLLEGE PRESS LEADERS TO OPEN SESSIONS TODAY

College journalists representing more than 450 universities and colleges will open a three day convention today with a luncheon at the Fair store. Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Dr. Francis V. Corcoran, C. M., president of De Paul university, and Prof. Harry F. Harrington of the Medill School of Journalism will greet the delegates at the luncheon.

Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, will speak on college sports at a dinner to be held tomorrow evening at the Bismarck hotel, when the National College Press association and Associated Collegiate Press are guests of National Advertising Service, Inc.

Saturday will be National College Press day at A Century of Progress, and Rufus C. Dawes will welcome the college journalists in the Administration building at 2:30 p. m.

SEC. C. E. GILBERT OF SCHOOL BOARD RESIGNS POSITION

The board of education accepted yesterday the resignation of Charles E. Gilbert, secretary to the board for fourteen years, and appointed in his place Frank H. Landmesser, former alderman from the 33d ward and former state legislator.

Mr. Landmesser will take office today. He was for six years chief of the real estate department of the Cook county forest preserve, and for the last three years has been in the insurance business, with offices at 2353 North California avenue.

Mr. Gilbert, who has been an employé of the board of education for 44 years, first submitted his resignation early in the summer, but he was urged to continue in his position until the fall term of school was under way, according to James B. McCahey, president of the board.

Members of the board joined in an expression of appreciation to Mr. Gilbert for his services, and authorized the president to name a committee to draft a resolution of appreciation. Mr. Gilbert, who has been in ill health, said he would begin a vacation immediately.

The new board secretary was employed at a salary of $6,000 a year, $1,500 under the salary previously paid. He was elected for an indeterminate period, subject to the will of the board.

U. S. ENVOY VISITS CONVICTED SPY IN FINNISH PRISON

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

HELSINGFORS, Oct. 10.—American Minister Edward Albright today visited Abo prison to obtain first hand information about the treatment being given Arvid Werner Jacobson, American citizen from Michigan who was sentenced to six years for complicity in the espionage conspiracy discovered here last October.

Jacobson is said to be complaining of the severity of his punishment, but inquiries show he has lodged no formal complaint. Authorities assert he is allowed to occupy a single room in consideration of his intellectual superiority over his fellow prisoners.

Jacobson referred to heart trouble when he talked with Minister Albright in the head warden's office today but the prison doctor insists there is nothing wrong with his heart.

FISH ASSAILS NRA AT HUGE MEETING OF G. O. P. WOMEN

Tyranny and Increasing Unemployment Hit.

The NRA has failed because, despite the expenditure of billions, it has brought about an increase in unemployment. Representative Hamilton Fish of New York told 1,700 Republican women yesterday noon at the Drake hotel.

The meeting was the first general gathering of the official Republican women's organization of Cook county. Mrs. Bertha Baur, national Republican committeewoman for Illinois and chairman of the Cook county group, presided.

The NRA and other New Deal measures were passed by congress as emergency legislation for one reason, Mr. Fish stated. That reason was the relief of unemployment in a time of stress.

Backed as Emergency Plan.

"The Republican party placed patriotism above partisanship and supported the NRA only on that temporary and emergency basis," he declared, but no Republican member of congress who voted for the NRA had any idea that force and coercion were to be applied and that it was to be a permanent institution with a gigantic and tyrannical burocratic set-up at Washington that would regiment the daily lives of the American people.

"The NRA and other brain-storm experiments of the brain trust were justifiable from only one angle—relieving unemployment. If they had done that, even at the huge cost of fifteen billions in nineteen months, we Republicans ought not to complain at the price."

Fails to Check Idleness.

But, Mr. Fish said, this has not been done. Prices have been increased, but employment, necessary if the American people were to pay the higher prices, was not provided. As a consequence, he pointed out, unemployment has been increasing daily since May, with the result that there are more than ten million unemployed "not counting four million on the government payrolls."

"The time has come to tell the truth," he said. "We didn't know when we supported these measures that the Blue Eagle would become the soviet vulture supported by enforcement agents, spies, threats, and jail sentences.

"We didn't know that the small business man would be put in a straitjacket. We didn't know that those 'temporary' measures would mean the permanent control of wheat and corn and birth control of pigs!"

Unemployment has increased, he said, primarily because business confidence has been destroyed by the imposition of drastic restrictions, by threats of inflation and depreciation of money.

"What is needed," he explained, "is inflation of confidence, not of currency. The Democratic party has, as usual, destroyed business confidence and the goose that lays the golden egg. In return it has offered nothing but government ownership and state socialism."

Assails Farley Attitude.

Led on by enthusiastic applause from his feminine audience Mr. Fish spoke wrathfully about a bitter attack upon Chicago newspapers made by Postmaster General James A. Farley on a recent trip here at which time Mr. Farley took exception to criticism of the socialistic features of the New Deal.

"Does Mr. Farley think that he is a Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini?" Mr. Fish demanded. "That he or his party or even the President is above criticism? It is not only the right but the duty of Republican newspapers to call a halt to these features of the New Deal and to the buying up of votes by huge gifts out of the treasury of the United States, such as was recently evidenced in Maine, Michigan, and other states.

"Why, after denouncing the Republicans as Tories, cannibals, witch-burners, pirates, and traitors, have Mr. Farley and his party become so thin-skinned?"

This was the first county-wide "rally" of the Republican women preliminary to their campaign for the Nov. 6 elections. Each woman attending the rally was presented with a small gold elephant stickpin—"symbolical," said Mrs. Baur, "of the gold standard for which the Republican party stands."

STATE SUPREME COURT REOPENS DISBARMENT CASE

Reopening of the case in which Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes sought the disbarment of Attorneys Lucius J. M. Malmin and C. W. Larsen was regarded as a possibility yesterday on the strength of an Illinois Supreme court opinion handed down during the day.

The court allowed a petition for a rehearing on its decision in a similar disbarment case against James W. Casey, a Chicago lawyer charged by the Chicago Bar association with concealing collections he had made for a client. In this decision the court had ruled that the bar association's complaint was improper because it had not been sworn to, and the charge was dismissed. Yesterday the high court reconsidered its earlier ruling.

It was on the basis of the ruling in the Casey hearing that the Ickes hearing was permitted to lag, since Ickes' charges had not been sworn to. The hearing in the Malmin-Larsen case had been concluded and the grievance committee of the bar association was about to make its report when the adverse decision came in the Casey matter. Then Secretary Ickes announced he had done all he would do in the matter.

The bar association, however, did not dismiss the Ickes case, but petitioned for a rehearing in the Casey case. If the Supreme court should reverse its decision that disbarment complaints must be sworn, the way would be open for conclusion of Secretary Ickes' case against Malmin and Larsen.

INDIANA TURNING FROM NEW DEAL, SURVEY REVEALS

Ex-Governor of Kentucky Sees G. O. P. Victory.

BY PARKE BROWN.

More optimism for Republican success in Indiana was brought to the G. O. P. western headquarters in Chicago yesterday by Edwin P. Morrow, former governor of Kentucky, who has completed a week's speaking tour of the Hoosier state.

"Indiana," he said, "will return Robinson to the United States senate, and it is certain to elect at least four and probably six Republicans as members of congress."

All twelve of the state's seats in the lower house now are in possession of the Democrats as a result of the landslide of 1932, and prediction of a gain of six places, or half the total, is considered at headquarters as significant of the recent trend of sentiment. Such gains in many states, it was said, would be certain to wreck the present two-thirds gag rule system.

Citizens' Interest Keen.

"People in every walk of life in Indiana," continued Mr. Morrow, "are demonstrating a keen and intelligent interest in the first campaign discussion of the New Deal and its various phases.

"Sentiment among the farmers in respect to the corn and hog plan is about equally divided, but many of the farmers who are willing to accept the Santa Claus money for hogs and corn they do not raise are wondering if they are not being handed an Indian gift which may be snatched away from them by the government in the form of taxes.

"Blue Eagle Disappearing."

"So far as industry and business are concerned, the New Deal has not proven popular in Indiana. Its regulations are not being complied with, and the Blue Eagles are rapidly disappearing from the windows of business houses."

The "support Roosevelt" slogan of Illinois Democrats was labeled a smoke screen by Justus L. Johnson, chairman of the Republican state central committee. He charged that Gov. Horner and his allies are concentrating on efforts to maintain control of the legislature and that in Cook county the organization is fighting for local offices alone.

"Now that the campaign is well under way," he said, "we find the Cæsars of Democracy concentrating on these sources of revenue. The pay roller war chest is not used for congressional fights to help the national administration, but for county and state advantage alone."

DIES WHILE AT WORK.

BUROCRATS CONTROL FACTORIES OF U. S., DICKINSON ASSERTS

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Declaring that while practically all business in the United States is being conducted by executive orders from the White House, and through schemes of Brain Trusters, Senator Dickinson, speaking here tonight, accused the national administration of neglecting the promises made by President Roosevelt.

Senator Dickinson said the pledge to balance the budget had not been kept; the promise drastically to reduce expenditures had not been kept, but instead expenditures had been increased many fold. The pledge to preserve sound currency had been disregarded. The pledge to maintain a competitive tariff for revenue has been abandoned. The pledge for a full measure of justice and generosity for all war veterans had been ignored.

The Iowa Republican senator said that since March 4, 1933, over 750 executive orders had been made concerning the rights of the individual in every phase of life, including the expenditure of millions of dollars of the taxpayer's money.

CROWE DECLARES 'WAR' ON COUNTY G. O. P. LEADERS

Former State's Attorney Robert Crowe, who in his own words "helped control the destinies of the Republican party in Cook county for fifteen years," announced last evening in a burst of oratory that he had declared a "war to the finish" against the present leaders of the party's county central committee. His announcement was made to 200 precinct captains, ward workers, and supporters at the Midwest Athletic club.

The reason for the declaration, he said, was that he was angered because "such a motley crew inhabits the fine old mansion of the Republican party, which once was the abode of eminent and honorable men." He also mentioned that the committee, through William H. [Doc] Reid, one of its members, had issued a protocol stating that he and Samuel O. Shaffer, elected Republican committeeman for the 29th ward, were no longer members of the Republican party.

"I am going to hold a massmeeting in Cohan's Grand Opera house on Tuesday, Oct. 23, and I am inviting Ed Moore (secretary of the committee), Doc Reid, and the rest of that mob to attend," said Crowe. "I intend to expose them to the public."

Mr. Wm. Donahue
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. Donahue:

Color is bringing a new era into newspaper advertising.

We know that the colored ads that we have already run show that - and we may add that we are now preparing many new ones to fit into a regular schedule.

Yours very truly,

ON AUGUST 26 Maurice L. Rothschild ran a run-of-paper full page in three colors in the Chicago Tribune. Results from this first page so thoroughly demonstrated the plus value of color that the store has run five more pages in rapid succession, September 9, September 21, September 23, September 30, and October 3 . . . and is now including Chicago Tribune run-of-paper color pages in its regular schedule!

If you are interested in larger sales volume and lower sales cost, check into the experience of this great store.

The Tribune has raised run-of-paper color printing to standards of quality considered beyond the scope of newspaper presses. And offers it at a rate but slightly more than the rate for black-and-white advertising.

Ask a Tribune representative to show you typical specimens of Chicago Tribune run-of-paper color, and to suggest ways in which you can use it with profit.

POPE KNIGHTS CHICAGOAN FOR AID TO CHARITIES

Paul Drymalski Joins Order of St. Gregory.

New York, Oct. 10.—[Special.]—In recognition of his work in Roman Catholic charities in Chicago, Paul Drymalski has been made a knight of the order of St. Gregory by Pope Pius. That was announced here today by Cardinal Mundelein, who arrived on the liner Rex from Rome.

PAUL DRYMALSKI.

Reason for Trip to Rome.

The cardinal went to Rome to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his episcopal consecration and to confer with the pope on the affairs of his diocese.

The welcoming party greeted Cardinal Mundelein at quarantine and escorted him back to port on a specially chartered tug.

In the party was Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York, with whom Cardinal Mundelein conferred this afternoon in his suite at the Vanderbilt hotel. The cardinal plans to return to Chicago tomorrow on the Twentieth Century Limited, arriving Friday. He will be accompanied by members of the reception party.

Awaits Chicago Arrival.

Aside from disclosing the honoring of Mr. Drymalski by the pope, Cardinal Mundelein chose to withhold further discussion of his trip until his arrival in Chicago. Since Mr. Drymalski was among those who greeted him, the cardinal considered the occasion proper to announce the Chicagoan's knighthood.

After announcing the honor bestowed by the pope on him, Cardinal Mundelein warmly congratulated Mr. Drymalski on his work for charity organizations and on his activities in Polish civic circles in Chicago. Drymalski is president of the Polonia Coal company and a member of the Chicago school board.

Others Greet Cardinal.

In addition to Bishop O'Brien, those in the reception party included the Right Rev. Msgr. Robert C. Maguire, chancellor of the archdiocese of Chicago; the Right Rev. Thomas F. Bona, chairman of the diocesan parochial school board; the Right Rev. Msgr. William Griffin, the Rev. Daniel Frawley, pastor of St. Fidelais church; John W. McCarthy, Chicago architect, and Anthony Czarnecki, collector of United States customs for the port of Chicago.

Bishop O'Brien and Mr. Czarnecki returned to Chicago on a Pennsylvania train this afternoon to prepare for the reception of Cardinal Mundelein on Friday. Others in the party will return with the Cardinal tomorrow.

FINED FOR INJURY TO BOY CHASING BALL INTO YARD

Harry Oderaka, 48 years old, 1125 North Homan avenue, was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Fillmore court on a charge of assault and battery on a sandlot baseball player who entered Oderaka's yard to retrieve a baseball.

The victim of the assault was Ray Broniarczyk, 14 years old, 1119 North Homan avenue. He testified that the attack occurred two weeks ago.

"As I was picking up the ball," the boy said, "Oderaka came up from behind and kicked me. Then he threw me over a high board fence, and as I fell my arm was broken in two places." Several companions of the boy supported his testimony, but Oderaka denied the assault charge.

In assessing the fine Judge McCarthy said he was sorry he could not impose a greater penalty. He continued his hearing on a motion for a new trial to Oct. 19 and Oderaka was released on $50 bond.

PAPAL LEGATE OPENS CONGRESS WITH PEACE PLEA

250,000 Attend First Eucharistic Meeting.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Before a huge white symbol of Christianity gleaming in the spring sunshine, Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli today breathed a fervent prayer for world peace.

CARDINAL PACELLI

Hundreds of thousands of the faithful representing thirty nations thronged the great Palermo park on the Rio de la Plata for the opening ceremony of the 32d international eucharistic congress.

"The white eucharistic forms of innumerable grains of wheat compenetrated in indissoluble union," he said, "are the symbol of what, according to Jesus Christ, men should be. By this, on kneeling in these days before the immaculate host from each heart should issue an ardent cry, a universal cry, which in the world's most diverse tongues will be joined in one sole accent to exclaim, 'Jesus Christ, king of peace, concede true peace to the world.'"

Assassinations Omitted.

While the cardinal stressed "true peace" in his discourse, he did not refer to yesterday's assassinations at Marseilles or to the revolution in Spain.

"Permit me," he concluded, "to terminate these words manifesting the desire I carry in my heart; desire that during this congress of the multitude congregated from the most distant corners of the earth we give fervent prayer for world peace, and above all, for South American peoples."

Speaking in clear Spanish with but a trace of Italian accent, the legate pleaded with the multitude to follow the eucharistic life.

Tremendous Greeting.

The greeting to the cardinal was tremendous. The crowd, converging on the 100 foot high cross, spread far beyond the 250,000 reserved seats in the park and filled the city's squares. Those away from the park heard the address by means of a loud speaker hookup.

Four other cardinals, hundreds of bishops and priests and diplomats joined the opening ceremony. A choir of 500 voices sang as the cardinal and his retinue proceeded to the legate's white throne. The four other cardinals sat on red thrones, and hundreds of priests in rochet or surplice occupied places in the nave of the outdoor cathedral.

Binks Sorry Steer Steerer

October 10, 1934.

BINKS, the little smooth haired fox terrier here on the farm, is a very much disillusioned dog today. After whipping skunks, woodchucks, and other vermin on the farm this season he thought he was quite some dog until this morning, when he tried the rôle of a trained cattle dog and found that he was a total loss. The Herefords simply wouldn't budge when little Binks put on his act during the moving of the herd from the north bank of the river to a pasture on the south bank.

Binks and the Herefords clashed when the boys decided to bring the cattle from an alfalfa field on the north side of the river. There is a third crop of alfalfa in this field. Clarence Thurow, farm manager, decided to have the Herefords graze this down so that a shipment of calves (soon to arrive) would not have too much green stuff to eat in this field.

After the Herefords had enjoyed a nice meal in the alfalfa field the boys started to drive them across the river to their regular pasture in the woodlands. When the animals had splashed their way to the middle of the river every one of them stopped. There they stood in the middle of the stream, apparently enjoying the cool water. Louis Thurow, who was riding horseback, tried to urge the 117 fat Herefords on their way, but they refused to budge.

Binks had been on the bank watching all this commotion. The more Louis shouted and splashed around the herd the more Binks became excited. Finally the pup couldn't stand it any longer. He rushed into the river to show those steers where to head in. Binks made for the herd and woofed at them. Everything was fine until he struck a deep hole and had to swim. That slowed up his cattle herding performance, but it amused the Herefords no end. They turned their white faces to watch the little terrier.

Binks swam from one lazy steer to another trying to urge them on, but they just stood like statues, apparently enjoying the swimming exhibition that the terrier was staging. The idea that the dog was trying to tell them to move along never entered their heads. At last Binks, tired and covered with mud, had to give it up. He crawled out on the bank dejected. As a dog to round up cattle he was a bust.

The fall plowing schedule has started here on the farm. Ed Johnson had the three bottom plow in action yesterday in a seventy acre field on the north side of the Fox river, while the rest of the boys hauled soy beans from the field.

THREE DIVISIONS OF METHODISTS MAY BE UNITED

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 10.—(AP)—American Methodism's three branches, united here today to celebrate the founding of the parent branch 150 years ago, heard church leaders speak for unification, and prepared for tomorrow's "unification day" program.

More than 1,200 delegates and hundreds of visitors heard the Rev. Dr. James H. Straughn, Baltimore minister and Maryland church leader, warn the churchmen that "laymen are becoming utterly weary of dissensions in the Methodist family."

Though the celebration was planned primarily in commemoration of the sesquicentennial of Methodism, the note of unity has been sounded by leaders of all three branches of the church. The four day meeting is expected to result in great progress towards a united church.

It was over the question of lay representation that the first break in Methodsim occured in 1828 when the Methodist Protestant branch was formed. The other break was in 1845 when the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was formed following a split over the slavery issue.

Take Dionne Quintuplets Outdoors for Hour in Sun

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The famous Dionne quintuplet sisters today spent almost an hour out in the sunshine, acquiring a tan to match their curly brown hair and their eyes which also are turning brown. There is no sign of teeth in their mouths although they are 135 days old. The babies have developed to such an extent that they are fed each four hours instead of each three.

WED BY TRICK, DOCTOR SAYS; ASKS FREEDOM

Alleging he was married by trickery, Dr. Charles D. Crawford, 900 Rush street, yesterday appeared before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan to ask annulment of his marriage to Helene Maria Newcombe Crawford, 22 years old.

He charged that he consented to serve as witness for the marriage of Miss Newcombe to William Geddes on April 24 in the home of Justice of the Peace Frederick Weil, 5221 West 25th street, Cicero. Later he learned, he testified, that he and not Geddes was the bridegroom and that all of the records of the marriage were made out in his name.

Judge Finnegan expressed doubt and astonishment at the strange case and continued the hearing until Oct. 23, instructing Miss Pearl Hart, attorney for Mrs. Crawford, to produce her client, Justice Weil, and Geddes in court on that day.

Several months ago Mrs. Crawford obtained a warant in the Domestic Relations court charging Crawford with nonsupport. She gave birth to a baby in the County hospital on April 28, but the child died. Last July she was found wandering in a dazed condition at Belmont avenue and Sheridan road with a note pinned to her dress. The note said, "My mother has refused to own me. Buddy, whom I love, hates me. Buddy won't have to worry about bigamy now."

60 Days for Dillinger's 'Double' on Girls' Charge

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Ralph Alsman, former beer garden employé here who was known as "Dillinger's double," started a 60 day jail term in Clinton county today following his sentence at St. John's on a charge of assault growing out of an alleged attack by Alsman and a companion on two Lansing girls. Alsman was found less seriously involved in the escapade than the other man, Howard Brailey, who was sentenced to serve from five to ten years in Jackson state prison.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide." — Chicago Tribune.

IN JUSTICE TO THE TAXPAYERS.

The committee on public expenditures is bringing pressure on the local governments to revise their 1933 levies with a view to eliminating items which will not stand the test of the courts. The committee is seeking to avoid a repetition of the blundering which this year resulted in penalizing those taxpayers who met their bills promptly and in full. Unless that kind of thing is stopped the revenues of the local governments are going to become even more uncertain than they are at present.

The fault lies, in the first instance, with the responsible officials of the various governments. They levied, for example, for interest payments on bonds which they expected to sell in 1933 but which they did not sell. There is no longer any room to question what the courts will do in such matters. The levies for interest and sinking fund on unsold bonds will be thrown out. Obviously the illegal levies should be eliminated before the tax bills are calculated.

The city under Mayor Kelly and the school board under Mr. McCahey are showing the way to the other governments by revising their levies, but unfortunately their example has not been widely copied. Under the circumstances there is real danger that when the 1933 bills are issued many property owners who last year paid both instalments at once will pay only the first instalment. Many who paid the second instalment promptly this year will be disposed to delay payment until the last court objection has been fought through the last court of appeal.

No one could blame the taxpayers for waiting as long as possible in view of their experience this year. Home owners who paid the full 1932 tax when only the first half was due have lost the 15 per cent reduction and in addition the 5 per cent reduction recently granted by the County court. Those who paid their second instalments promptly received the benefit of the 15 per cent cut but were deprived of the additional 5 per cent. The situation is intolerable and will lead to a tax strike if it is repeated.

COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENSE.

The Americanization section of the Illinois Bar association is undertaking a public service of public instruction in the federal constitution and its history. The American legal fraternity during the present generation and, in fact, recent generations has not used its influence for the exposition and defense of our constitutional system and nothing could be more timely or welcome than its awakening to this duty, except, perhaps, a similar awakening in our schools and colleges. The latter, indeed, can be brought about in an energetic campaign by the bar in all states, and we are gratified that the lawyers of Illinois are taking a lead in this field. They will add to the prestige and rightful public influence of themselves and their profession, besides performing a patriotic service essential to the preservation of the American order.

GETTING RID OF THE MILK SURPLUS.

Although scientists with formulas are almost sure to prove us wrong it is our opinion that the 3.5 per cent milk that is accepted as the standard for commercial use today is a pretty thin dish.

At no charge for the advice we herewith offer a solution to producers for doing away with the surplus milk which they say is the chief barrier between themselves and unbounded prosperity.

If they will raise the butter fat content in fluid milk for table consumption from 3.5 per cent to 4.5, or, better still, 5 per cent, the daily quart will become so popular that children and adults alike will cry for it and greet the morning arrival of the milkman with cheers. Consumption will increase at once and the surplus will automatically disappear.

Milk never acquired popularity as a table drink at 3.5 per cent. The beverage of a generation ago before dairying reached its present scientific basis was much more palatable. Milk came from farm herds which in all but exceptional cases were composed of mixed bred Durhams or milking shorthorns, often containing a dash of Guernsey or Jersey in their lineage, and milk, if not so scientific, was much more inviting.

Its butter fat content, which nobody in those days ever heard of, was between 4 and 5 per cent and a glass of milk at or between meals was a gustatory delight.

The 3.5 per cent, first set by local ordinances as a minimum, generally came to be accepted as a standard. The development of Holstein herds giving great quantities of milk of approximately 3.5 butter content served to fix this standard and help pile up a great surplus. The consequence is a rising generation which knows nothing of the joys of a rich glass of foaming milk that, in a manner of speaking, one gets his teeth into.

Driving about the dairy country one sees fine herds of the black and white Holsteins frequently with one or two Guernsey or Jersey cows among them. Usually it is a sign that an enlightened dairyman is milking the Guernsey for his own family's use. A smart farmer. The Holsteins are particularly valuable for cheese milk where the casein content is more important than butter fat.

The success of dairymen who are selling milk with a superior fat content at a premium above the market shows the demand there is for a richer, fatter milk. A goat will sneer at 3.5 milk. Its maternal parent provides the young kid with meals of more than twice the butter fat content currently available for human babies.

If the dairymen will make their product a little more pleasing to the taste it will bring prosperity to them quicker than any number of strikes, although, of course, without the fun of dumping milk on the highways.

Any time we are offered the choice of a drink of pure water or 3.5 per cent milk we almost invariably take beer.

IRON HIGHWAYS.

The time-honored custom of referring to our railroads as the steel highways and the locomotive as the iron horse may be thrown into the discard if the experiments with cast iron surface roadways being conducted by Minnesota engineers prove to be successful. After a thorough study of efforts made along this line in Europe, the engineers are laying a trial stretch of iron roadway at the University of Minnesota. In this manner a check can be made of the claims that this type of highway is almost skidproof, far more durable than any existing surface, and extremely simple to construct. The effort is being made, of course, for the commendable purpose of finding new uses for Minnesota's rich iron ore deposits.

While iron as a surface is in the experimental stage in this country, other countries have gone considerably further. The city of Montreal experimented with steel sidewalks some years ago, but was unable to overcome ice conditions. In England the history of iron highways goes back to 1928, the most recent construction taking place in the Mersey tunnel at Liverpool, where about three miles of this type of pavement have been placed in service. Germany and France also have made extensive use of iron in the building of highways. It is reported that in France serious consideration has been given to a project for building a road of this type from Paris to Marseilles—a distance of five hundred miles.

This is an experiment that should hold a real interest for almost every one, while the possibilities which its success would hold out to the iron and steel industry are almost limitless. Though we have lagged behind other nations in the use of iron for road surfaces we now are in a position to profit from their mistakes. The highway system of the United States is the finest in the world. It should remain so; and if cast iron is to be the construction material of the future let us ascertain that fact at the earliest possible date.

YOU KNOW ME, AL.

Something ought to be said about the Deans. It's likely not the responsibility of this department of THE TRIBUNE, but if they are to be ignored where they should be mentioned it will be seen to here that justice is done. It is not to be allowed that these young men should go unnoticed. The firm of Dean, Dean, Dean & Dean shall have it recorded of itself that it pitched St. Louis into the world's championship. It is not known exactly how many of these Deans there are, but there must be at least half a dozen.

No two men pitched five games in seven days and won four. The fact that such a thing can't be done is enough proof that it wasn't. If the sports reporters were imposed upon it can be attributed to the excitement. The pay roll of the St. Louis club would indicate that there is only half a Dean. The total salary drawn by the Dean name is said to be $10,500. That in any championship ball club could not represent more than one-half a pitcher, if so much as that.

If you were to tell the Chicago Cub management that $10,500 can put four world's championship games in the bag the management will tell you that you are crazy. That pay gets a bat boy. The St. Louis pay roll says there is half a Dean working for the Cardinals, and the results of the world's series prove that there are a half dozen, from which we conclude that the White Sox defeated the New York Giants and are world champions. Any other conclusions from such a setup of facts would be absurd.

Three of the Deans seem to be called Paul and three of them called Jerome, pronounced Dizzy. The outfit known as Dizzy not only pitched three games in seven days and won two of them, but did an even more astonishing thing, which was to put the sport in its place as a sport. With Dizzy in the series it couldn't become the world's most important event. He made too much fun in it and of it.

Dizzy gave a Mickey Mouse touch to the affair which kept it from becoming life's greatest tragedy on one side and the most supreme human achievement on the other. He, or they, Dizzy and the other two or three of him, made it appear that a ball game is always a ball game and nothing more. He could put a lot of mischief into three strikes when 40,000 delirious persons thought they would have given their eye teeth for a two base hit. It requires a bit of daffy genius to do this and it is further required that the performer be very good indeed. In violating all the ceremoniousness of the occasion and getting his laugh out of it he had to win two games and Brother Paul had to support him with two more to make the joshing of a world's series safe for the josher. Dizzy had a perfect success in the part of "You know me, Al."

A CENTURY OF PROGRESS.

[Daniel Webster, to United States senate, March 12, 1838.]

There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations, and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams.

In a country of unbounded liberty they clamor against oppression. In a country of perfect equality they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else they rend the air shouting agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel they would teach the laborer he is but an oppressed slave.

Sir, what can such men want? What do they mean? They can want nothing, sir, but to enjoy the fruits of other men's labor. They can mean nothing but disturbance and disorder, the diffusion of corrupt principles and the destruction of the moral sentiments and moral habits of society.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THIS IS THE SEASON when people go out into the woods and pick mushrooms. And there is nothing finer, tastier, or healthier than the delectable mushroom. But you must be careful in picking mushrooms that you do not get a toadstool instead. Everybody thinks he can tell the difference between a mushroom, which is delightful to eat, and a toadstool, which is deadly poison, because naturally there is always a toad sitting on top of the toadstool. Not always. Sometimes the toad gets tired and goes hopping around a bit just to get a little exercise and at other times he has to go out and hunt around to catch something for his supper. So you have to be sure that your mushroom is a mushroom and not a toadstool. They look a good deal alike, but the toadstool gills are not so deep as the mushroom's; toadstools soon become brownish and the taste is acrid. After you have fully satisfied yourself on these points you must compare your mushrooms with the nice colored pictures of mushrooms in the encyclopedia. If they stand this test to your complete satisfaction you wash them carefully, cut off the discolored ends of the stems, and put them in the saucepan with two tablespoons of butter and cook over low heat until the mushrooms are nice and tender and a lovely golden color. Then you take them carefully over to the kitchen window and chuck the whole mess into the alley, then go back to the stove and boil a half dozen potatoes for dinner.

TAKE TIME TO LIVE.

Take time to live;
The world has much to give
Of faith and hope and love;
Of faith that life is good,
That human brotherhood
Shall no illusion prove;
Of hope that future years
Shall bring the best, in spite
Of those whose darkened sight
Would stir our doubts and fears;
Of love that makes of life,
With all its griefs, a song;
A friend, of conquered wrong;
A symphony, of strife.

Take time to live;
For life has much to give
Of sweet content; of joy
At duty bravely done;
Of hope that every sun
Shall bring more fair employ.
Take time to live;
The world has much to give,
Despite the cynic's sneer
That all's forever wrong—
There's much that calls for song!
To fate lend not your ear.
Take time to live,

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

WHILE WE READ ABOUT the tragic deaths of kings we can feel happy in the thought that it is much better to be an American citizen. And we can keep on rejoicing over the fact until we march up to the desk and pay our income tax or a bandit pokes his gun into our tummies and takes away our last thirty-five cents.

IT ISN'T that I don't like to look at pictures of all these various kinds of beauty queens, but I am so tired of looking at their teeth. We used to look very carefully at the teeth of horses we thought of buying, but a beauty queen is something different again and really she ought to be picked for good looks as well as teeth. A gentle disposition and a kind heart are things that are fully as worthwhile as good teeth, even if you see every one of 'em all the way around. Or, as Mr. Tennyson has so well said:

"Howe'er it be, it seems to me,
True beauty is what lies beneath.
Kind hearts are more than big wide smiles,
And simple faith than many teeth."

Having said which I will now go over to the dentist to see if he can fix my upper plate.

THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW making them put the pop they sell at ball parks into pasteboard containers instead of bottles. The fans should be disarmed. If the League of Nations won't take it up then the U. S. A. should go it alone. Take away the deadly pop bottles from the baseball fans. Write to your congressman today!

ONE OF THE REASONS why I wouldn't like to be a brain truster down in Washington is that I would have to write books about the economic situation and then I would have to read all the books that the other brain trusters write. Between writing their own books and reading the books of the other brain trusters I don't see how they get much time for doing anything else.

A PRAYER.

Lord, for this waking morn,
Free of the cares of yesterday,
I thank Thee, Father. Give me faith
To know Thee for my watchful stay.

Lord, know I do not scorn
My soul's stern steeling in the fray.
Life's blows are cruel,—give me hope
That Thou shalt be my strength alway.

Lord, let more love be born
In me for others on the way.
May they pass smiling, God of charity,

STARSHAFT.

AND THOUGH it's a hazardous business to be a king, there will be thirty-five thousand of simple American citizens bumped off by automobiles this year. And only one king dies a violent death. Maybe it's safer to be a king after all. I would personally rather take chances with a royalist hating assassin than with a hit-and-run driver or one of those weaver birds or a speed demon.

POISONED NERVES.

MORE and more are diseases of the nervous system yielding to the searchlight of careful scientific investigation. A few years ago physicians suspected that certain nerve degenerations might be due to infections, but now the fact is definitly proved.

We are familiar with the type of paralysis that too often follows the disease known as poliomyelitis [infantile paralysis]. We know the general type of infection that often gives rise to Parkinson's disease. Many cases of herpes [shingles] have been traced to infected teeth or tonsils. Sometimes a carbuncle on the neck may, through the rapid dissemination of toxins, so affect the nerves of the upper portion of the spine as to cause nerve degeneration. The effects on the nervous system of lead poisoning or of the excessive use of alcohol are well known.

Delirium is a similar but somewhat different manifestation of a high degree of toxin absorption. A patient with a high fever caused by an infection may become so mentally confused, so filled with fears, so delirious as to attempt self-destruction or to do damage to others about him. In other words, in such an instance a disease of the body caused by bacteria has, through the poisons produced, affected the mind. As a rule mental disturbance of this character disappears with the cessation of the fever; that is, as soon as the body overcomes the infection and neutralizes the poison. Sometimes, if the delirium or confused mental state exists for a considerable period, damage to the higher nerve centers may occur, resulting in permanent mental weakness.

A common example of the effect of a toxin upon the higher nerve centers is the phenomenon of intoxication by alcohol. In such a case the individual has taken alcohol more rapidly than it can be oxidized by the body. The toxic effects then become obvious in the loss of control of the nervous and the muscular systems. There may be no coordination of body movements, the individual may see double, and certain delusions may possess him even to the point of visualizing pink elephants, blue rats, and green serpents. This is not insanity, nor is it a disease of the mind. It is the result of nerve poisoning.

It is obvious then that much so-called mental disease or deterioration may be due to organic or systemic diseases and their resulting toxins.

One must not confuse the mental or nervous reactions to toxins or poisons with severe or repeated emotional upsets. As there are no two people alike in physical makeup, so there are no two people exactly identical in mental equipment. As an individual may inherit the factors that will bring about the development of a strong physical body, so one may inherit traits that will produce a strong and resistant nervous system.

Every physician is acquainted with patients whose nervous systems are in delicate balance. For example, in a given family a mild fever in one child may be attended with convulsions; a much higher temperature in a brother or sister will show no such effect. One individual with a nerve exhausting situation to face may suffer a so-called nervous breakdown. A dozen others, with equally difficult or more serious obstacles to overcome, will approach their problems in a matter of fact way without the slightest effect on the mental outlook. The difference lies in the stability of the inherited and developed nerve mechanism.

Most of us are inclined to disregard the load placed upon the nervous system. We must remember that every infection, no matter where harbored, and in some cases no matter how slight, may give rise to distressing nervous symptoms. Furthermore, whenever poisoning becomes intense it may upset mental balance. As a weak body through training may become a strong one, so may an unstable nervous system be reinforced against the buffets that attend our daily tasks.

WARSAW.—Polish immigrants to America may be considered as lost for Poland in the nationalistic sense, for they have found a new homeland and are becoming assimilated, according to Prof. S. Mierzwa, president of the Kosciuszko Foundation of New York, who gave an interesting lecture on the subject before the Warsaw Institute for Foreign Coöperation.

Prof. Mierzwa, in explaining the character and duties of Polish immigrants, said they had not lost their spiritual connection with the country of their origin and were assisting the spread of Polish culture among Americans not of Polish descent. Within fifteen or twenty years, he said, America will no longer have any citizens born in Poland, as this group is rapidly dying and immigration laws have prevented further migration.

"The memories of the bitter poverty of Poland have made the Poles easy prey to Americanization," the professor said. "But as they become more independent they have learned the value of the older Polish culture. This explains the appearance of Polish-American students at the Polish universities and the part which the Kosciuszko Foundation is attempting to play.

"Poland should not attempt to consider the Polish element in America as a Polish overseas colony. We are not immigrants. We left Poland in search of bread and we have found it. We have also found a welcome home in America and we are going to stay there for good. We are Americans of Polish descent and if Poland wishes to consider itself as the mother of such an American, then it must consider America as his wife. And his wife has more right to him."

Coming shortly after an attempt to persuade the representatives of Polish organizations in the United States to divide their allegiance, the speech of Prof. Mierzwa awakened wide interest in Poland. The Poles are now blaming their diplomatic representatives in America for misleading them as to the attitude of the Polish element. They also claim the American delegations misunderstood their intentions.

RYE.

St. John, N. D., Oct. 2.—I have read with surprise the article on rye exports from Latvia to the United States by Donald Day, contained in the Sept. 30 issue of THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Day quotes the Latvian prime minister as stating when he announced the sale of some 15,000 tons of rye for exportation to the United States that the Latvian government was "paying the farmer for his grain double the price obtained on the world market." In other words, some 15,000 tons of bounty aided Latvian rye will shortly be dumped in this country. THE TRIBUNE has also recently reported the importation and sale at Chicago of several million bushels of Polish rye which, according to the department of agriculture's publication entitled "Agricultural Price Supporting Measures in Foreign Countries," the Polish government had made possible by means of a bounty of 6 zlotys per 100 kilograms [approximately 30 cents per bushel at the present rate of exchange].

The importation of bounty aided rye has on two occasions, in May and September of this year, caused the rye market in this country to fall off nearly 30 cents per bushel. This decline, naturally, brought about an equally important sympathetic decline by other cereals. THE TRIBUNE carried several excellent comments on the relation between the dumping of bounty aided foreign rye and the decline of grain markets. Agricultural interests have estimated that these market declines have cost American farmers nearly $100,000,000 without any appreciable saving to the American consumer, a very appreciable item in holding up recovery in the west, since spending power of the farmer has been greatly reduced thereby.

This unfortunate state of affairs could have been avoided if the treasury department had acted according to law and applied the provisions of article 303 of the tarif act to these dumped shipments of foreign bounty aided rye. Such application would have meant a duty increase of about 30 cents per bushel on this rye and would have operated to maintain the rye market around $1 per bushel at Chicago and the market for other cereals at relative levels. The provisions of article 303 make it absolutely mandatory on the secretary of the treasury whenever any country [in this case both Poland and Latvia] pays any bounty upon dutiable articles exported to the United States to levy and collect an additional duty equal to the amount of the bounty. The treasury has already disregarded its duty under this provision in the case of shipments from Poland, to the heavy cost of American agriculture. Will it also do so in the case of Latvian rye in face of the report from your correspondent that the head of the Latvian government publicly acknowledges that a bounty has been paid on the Latvian rye about to be dumped in this country?

MORE ABOUT "LOAN."

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 8.—Prof. P. B. McDonald, department of English, New York university, in his book, "English and Science," states: "Loan. A noun. Use lend as the verb."

Webster's unabridged dictionary says under "lend": "Loan for lend, though common in the United States, is not in approved use, except sometimes in financial language." A STENOGRAPHER.

FOR AL SMITH.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—I think that it will be agreed that there is, at least at the present time, no figure in the Republican party of sufficient stature to successfully lead the conservative element of the country in the next presidential election. There is, however, a man who commands the confidence, the respect, and admiration of both the conservative and the liberal elements within the country.

In these days party lines, as distinguishing the Republican and Democratic parties, appear to have completely broken down. The lineup of parties in this country is without question best defined as "Conservative" and "Radical." There is, of course, insufficient time to organize a new Conservative party before the next presidential nominations, and therefore the Republican party must become the Conservative party of the country.

The man, in my judgment, best equipped to be the nominee of the Republican [Conservative] party is Alfred E. Smith. I hereby place him in nomination before the people for the next presidential candidate of the Republican party. JANE DABNEY KITTLE.

MARY PICKFORD ON THE AIR.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Who is this person Wolters? I have just finished reading his review of Mary Pickford's broadcast the other night, and, really, I think he must be a deaf man. My mother [who is a bit hard of hearing, but who heard every word of that broadcast] and I listened with delight to the little play, and I must say that I never heard a better feminine voice on the radio. It was clear, smooth, with a beautiful timbre and an undercurrent of sweet power very rare indeed in any voice and certainly wonderfully surprising in one who has so many other dramatic charms. I mean that, to me, it is a wonder that one person can have so many talents.

As for "any one of a dozen Chicago radio actresses" who "could have given a better interpretation of the little church mouse Mary portrayed"—"I'll rise to remark that I have heard the so-called "radio actresses" of Chicago some ten years and I can't even remember the name of one. Where are these wonders? Why can't they be brought on, instead of the hysterical, nasal-toned, consonantless, rapid-fire artists we've listened to all this time? Or is Wolters mad at Mary because she doesn't sport an "Awxfawd awxent"? As for glamor, she stepped up about one thousand per cent in my estimation when I heard her in "The Church Mouse." I hope I hear her often and much. M. F. C.

GROUP NAMED TO PRESS ADOPTION OF RELIEF BONDS

Business and Civic Bodies Plan Vote Drive.

A committee composed of representatives of 18 leading business, professional, and civic organizations was named yesterday to conduct the statewide campaign to roll up a majority vote Nov. 6 in favor of the $30,000,000 emergency relief bond issue. If approved, the bond issue will prevent a further heavy increase in property taxes.

The committee is headed by Judge James S. Baldwin, Decatur, president of the Illinois Bar association, and its secretary is Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency.

Members Are Listed.

MRS. FRANK P. HIXON, Chicago, president Illinois League of Women Voters.

W. LLOYD KEEPERS, Champaign, managing secretary Illinois Commercial Secretaries' association.

A. D. McLARTY, Springfield, secretary Illinois Municipal league.

MRS. GEORGE T. PALMER, Springfield, chairman Illinois State Federation of Women's Clubs.

RAY WANTZ, Rockford, president Illinois Manufacturers' association.

H. L. WILLIAMSON, Springfield, secretary Illinois Press association.

"The statewide support for adoption of the pending emergency relief bond issue in order to prevent a heavy additional property tax throughout Illinois next year is most encouraging," said Judge Baldwin, in announcing the committee personnel.

"Won't Add to Taxes," He Says.

"Unlike most bond issues, this one will not add to taxes, but instead will prevent the collection next year of an additional 63 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to meet the special tax of $38,000,000 already levied by the state legislature on all real estate and personal property in Illinois and borrowed against to pay for 1934 relief."

If the bonds receive the required majority of all votes cast at the election, they will replace the property tax in paying off the debt which has been incurred. The bonds will be retired in 20 years by withholding equally from counties and municipalities, in proportion to their use of 1934 relief money, a part of their annual gas tax allocations.

One Killed, 3 Injured as Auto Hits Scraper

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Jess B. Carpenter, an auto salesman, was killed and three companions, of whom two were girl hitchhikers, were injured near Battle Creek today when Carpenter's car crashed into a road scraper. Elsie Du Bois of Hillsdale was not expected to live.

500 Will Carry Community Fund Message to Workers

More than 500 men from the trades and industries of Chicago last night welcomed the task of carrying to their fellow employés the spirit and slogan of the 1934 Community fund: "A Real Neighbor Gives." Their goal is to obtain small contributions totaling half of the $3,000,000 fund which must be raised to keep the city's 130 major private welfare agencies in operation.

There was enthusiasm over the announcement that in two weeks' time the sponsors and special gifts divisions have obtained $880,908. These divisions are determined to continue their drive until they have raised something more than half of the $3,000,000.

Mayor Sure of Success.

In a strong plea for the efforts of those who gathered at the Palmer house last night Mayor Kelly vowed that Chicago "will go forward in this movement as in everything else."

"I'm in hope that you will start out with the determination to do something for your fellow man," Mayor Kelly declared. "Those of us who have something to share should do it now before it is too late. Chicago has the community sense that counts in an endeavor such as this."

Albert D. Lasker, former chairman of the U. S. shipping board, a vice president of the fund, distinguished between governmental relief and private charities dependent upon the community.

Red Tape Blocks Relief.

"We must share the cost of the hundreds of millions of dollars spent by the government for relief, whether we will or no," he declared. "There grows up routine, red tape, checks and counter checks, which means that such relief often fails to bring what is needed to the needy.

"When we come to regimentation we take a great deal of the spiritual significance out of life. And the moment we fail to give time and money to such things as our own charities, which help those the government does not reach, we take from ourselves a relation to humanity we all need.

"Keep alive the spiritual flame that makes us want to help others. The feeling of communal obligation gives us a richer sense of helpfulness, because then we give voluntarily and not by taxation. Keep Chicago going as a proud community!"

Volunteers' Chief Speaks.

Mr. Lasker was followed by Fred A. Preston, who as general chairman of the fund campaign, heads a volunteer army of 1,000 men and women.

"This $3,000,000 must be raised, and it will be raised," Mr. Preston proclaimed. "That the people of this city are generous both with time and money for such a cause is unquestionable."

In Cleveland, where the community fund organization was established 15 years ago, one of every two and one-half persons is a contributor, he said. Last year in Chicago, only one person out of ten donated to the fund. Mr. Preston said this should be changed so that at least one in six gives.

Not a Government Job.

"I'm proud of what we have done so far," said Clarence B. Randall, chairman of the trades and industries division. "The government doesn't do this job, and it should not. But all citizens, regardless of creed, can work shoulder to shoulder to help the 130 agencies which represent the children, the aged, and the infirm of every race and belief."

The task of distributing pledge cards to all of the city's business and manufacturing establishments will start today under the supervision of 43 chairmen, with the full army of workers coöperating. Pledge buttons to be worn by those who heed the appeal to "Keep Faith," and contribute, are now in the hands of the volunteers.

Ald. Toman Seeks Safety Ordinances.

Compulsory mechanical inspection of automobiles is advocated for Chicago in a resolution introduced into the city council yesterday by Ald. John Toman [23d]. Mayor Kelly, with the passage of the resolution, is asked to appoint three aldermen to draft appropriate ordinances.

The Toman proposal called for arrangements to be made at once for installing motor car testing stations at convenient places in various parts of the city. Motor vehicles would be periodically tested as to their physical condition for safe driving under the terms of the resolution, and without having passed such an inspection cars of residents would not be licensed to operate.

No Fee Mentioned.

No mention was made by the alderman of any fee to be charged for such service. In Memphis, where compulsory inspection since last April has been reflected in reduced trafic fatalities, a fee of $1 a year is charged. It has been suggested that wheel tax funds now diverted to other than street repair purposes could be used for this safety service.

At a meeting of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators in the Belmont hotel yesterday, John Q. Rhodes Jr., Virginia official, told of a 10 per cent reduction in liability and property damage insurance rates in his state last year as a result of compulsory automobile inspection.

Tribune Tests Reveal Flaws.

THE TRIBUNE last month operated a free mechanical inspection service for motorists who wished to learn the condition of their brakes, wheel alignment, lights, and steering equipment. About 40 per cent of the 10,000 cars that went through the safety lanes were found to have defects.

The motor vehicle assoliation also applauded the universal adoption of drivers' license and financial responsibility laws. The delegates, officials of thirty-seven states, also heard a paper from Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads, opposing the use of special taxes from motorists for general governmental purposes.

NOW HE KNOWS, HE NEGLECTED HIS INSURANCE

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 10.—(AP)—For all the nice weather and a good breakfast, W. E. Kerr, druggist, was troubled as he walked to work today. There was something he had meant to do and it just wouldn't be recalled to mind.

As he entered his building he snapped his fingers in the sudden refreshment of his memory.

On the floor was a smashed safe and litter of postage stamps. Fifty dollars was missing. Mr. Kerr had again been robbed, the 14th time in 19 years.

"Now I know what it was," Kerr said through clenched teeth. "I forgot to get burglary insurance."

Enjoin Boston Concern from Using Wynn Script

Boston, Mass., Oct. 10.—(AP)—A decision was handed down in federal court today enjoining a Boston company from advertising, selling or publishing script of Ed Wynn, the comedian, under the name of "Uproards" or in any other manner. It was disclosed that Wynn received $5,000 for each radio performance on an oil company program and that Graham McNamee, the announcer, received $250 for each appearance with Wynn.

NEW MICHIGAN AVENUE SIGNALS ON TOMORROW

Trafic to Be Speeded by Latest Devices.

BY HAL FOUST.

A progressive system of trafic light signals, permitting continuous travel at designated speeds, will begin operation tomorrow morning in Michigan avenue between Roosevelt road and Oak street. According to engineers, 65,000 motorists daily will be saved an average of two minutes each by the improvement.

The installation of the equipment was started last spring. Drivers have seen workmen erect additional standards with elaborate combinations of lights to indicate stop, go, caution, turn, and walk. But the benefits of the system will not be enjoyed until after the synchronous timing of the lights tomorrow morning.

New Speed 24 Miles an Hour.

Under the old simultaneous timing of the red and green flashes, the average non-rush hour speed over this 2.3 miles of boulevard was 14 miles an hour, even with sprints of 35 miles an hour between stops. With the stops eliminated, the distance will be covered at an average of 24 miles an hour.

Rush hour congestion reduces speeds under the simultaneous timing to as low as 6 and 8 miles an hour. This will be materially improved with the new timing, the engineers said.

The installation has cost approximately $40,000. W. C. Brandes, signal engineer for the city, estimated the saving in reduced delays will amount to $2,135,000 a year if the time of the vehicle and passengers is evaluated at 3 cents a minute.

Planned by Experts.

The apparatus, containing features new to the world, was especially built on specifications designed jointly by engineers of the city, south parks, and Lincoln park in consultation with experts of national reputation.

Pedestrians will be urged to cross half of the street at a time, pausing at safety islands.

Cross trafic will be prohibited at Delaware place, Chestnut, Huron, Erie, and Harrison streets. East and west trafic will enter the boulevard with the green light at one intersection and leave the boulevard a block away.

IDENTIFY WOMAN FOUND IN RIVER AS STORE CLERK

Named as Widow from West Virginia.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Positive identification of a woman's body found strangled with a man's handkerchief, in the St. Joseph river, as Mrs. Lena Steuernagel, 41, of Wheeling, W. Va., only served tonight to add to the mystery of the case.

The identification of the body was completed tonight by a telegram from Assistant Prosecutor Donald McKee in Wheeling confirming the fact that the missing Mrs. Steuernagel, who disappeared here Sept. 22, wore a dental bridge corresponding to the one found in the dead woman's mouth.

Rather than providing any solution to the murder, however, the identification only served to confound police in their search for clews or a motive in the case. Mrs. Steuernagel, a comely widow, had been in South Bend two weeks demonstrating a patent hair curler in the H. L. Green variety store.

Apparently No Acquaintances.

She had roomed in a respectable home during her stay and to the knowledge of her associates here, had no acquaintances. She had severed conections with the store Sept. 22, saying she intended to return to Wheeling for a rest before resuming her work. She had purchased a ticket on a bus for Montgomery, W. Va., and had left her rooming house early the evening of Sept. 22, with two large suitcases.

That was the last time she was seen. The bus on which she was scheduled to leave, departed without her at 4 a. m. the next day.

Her decomposed body was found in the river late Monday, three miles north of the city, and a post mortem examination disclosed the man's handkerchief bearing the initial "W" crammed into her throat. Between the city and the place where the body was found, is a stretch of deserted river flats and a city dumping ground. High on a bluff, but shielded by trees, is St. Mary's college for girls on the opposite side of the river.

Await Daughter's Arrival.

Police here were awaiting the arrival of Miss Margaret Dillon of Wheeling, daughter of the victim, in the hope she may provide a clew to the mystery. It was Miss Dillon who first set police on the track of the missing woman, when she insisted that South Bend police make a detailed report of their investigation.

Cut $89,000 from Franks Estate Income Tax Levy

The bureau of internal revenue announced yesterday in Washington the abatement of $89,644 in excessive income tax levies upon the estate of Jacob Franks, who died in 1928. Franks was the father of Bobby, the murder victim. Mrs. Flora G. Franks, the widow is executrix. The Central Gas and Electric company of Chicago was also granted an abatement of $29,109 in overassessments of 1927 income taxes.

Evanston Woman Dies Suddenly at Card Game

Mrs. Ruth Rick, 32 years old, collapsed last night in her home at 736 Reba place, Evanston while playing cards. She died soon afterward of cerebral embolism. In the card game were her husband, George Rick, an electrical engineer, and H. S McGee, 708 South boulevard, Evanston.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Make Haste Slowly

MOTHER SEES CHILD OF 4 RUN DOWN BY TRUCK

Six Other Auto Victims Die in Day.

While her mother screamed a warning in vain, Margaret Baker, 4 years old, 1844 North Mozart street, was fatally injured last evening when she was struck by a motor truck while playing in front of her home. She died in the Lutheran Memorial hospital.

As the child ran into the street from between two parked cars, her mother, Mrs. Anna Baker, sitting on the front porch of their home, saw the truck approaching and attempted to warn her. Leo Jozezewski, 32 years old, 242 North Rockwell street, driver of the truck, was not held.

The child' death and six others yesterday brought to 93 the Cook county traffic fatality list for 1934. The other victims:

August Golitz, 27 years old, 3702 South Lincoln street, a driver for the Weber Ice company, 3317 South Winchester avenue. Killed when he fell beneath the rear wheels of a truck near the company offices.

Charles J. Johnson, 65 years old, 8948 South Morgan street. Died in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries incurred Tuesday night when he was struck by a hit and run driver at 90th street and Vincennes avenue.

Driaz Narcize, 40 years old, 20 South Canal street. Died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries incurred Tuesday when he was struck by a truck at Halsted street and Roosevelt road.

Anthony Gozazewicz, 30 years old, 2308 North Hoyne avenue. Died in the County hospital of injuries incurred earlier in the day in an automobile collision at Damen and Webster avenues.

Frank Lemke, 80 years old, a retired contractor, 6120 Berenice avenue. Died in the Belmont hospital last night of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile at Irving Park boulevard and Meade avenue, driven by Charles Bosshart, 5622 Byron street.

Mrs. Helen Rukorean, 46 years old, 5005 North Spaulding avenue. Died last night in North Chicago Community hospital, supposedly of injuries incurred in an automobile accident Sept. 3. She was a passenger in a car that struck a tree. Apparently she had recovered from her injuries, but was sent to the hospital when severe headaches developed several days ago.

Malcolm Miner, 7 years old, 641 Aldine avenue, was severely injured last night when he was struck at Aldine avenue and Broadway. The driver of the car did not stop. A passing motorist picked up the child and took him to John B. Murphy hospital, where it was said hi skull was fractured.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A couple of weeks ago Buddy Rogers made little Joe Vetone, a newsboy, just about the happiest kid in the world. But now little Joe is dead and there's a choke in Buddy's throat. Joe was a frail urchin, perhaps nine or ten years old. He was ragged and unkempt, but he had flashing black eyes and a smile as he peddled his papers outside the Hotel Sherman garage. Every evening when Buddy came to work, he put up his car there and gave the kid a smile and a quarter—sometimes 50 cents. Jackie Heller and other radio entertainers working at the College Inn also gave him money.

As the evenings grew colder Little Joe sometimes shivered, for he had no coat. One evening a TRIBUNE photographer, who had befriended the youngster, noticed him resplendent in a complete new outfit—suit, cap, shoes, and stockings.

"Where did you get all those fine clothes," the photographer inquired.

"From my friend, Buddy Rogers," the urchin piped, waving an autographed picture of Rogers.

Then one day he was missing from his haunts. His friends investigated. Finally they found him in the hospital. An attack of diphtheria proved fatal.

Pope Pius will broadcast a message to the Eucharistic congress in Buenos Aires from Rome at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The pope's address will be heard locally over WBBM. An English commentator will translate the pope's remarks for the radio audience.

Carrie Jacobs Bond, who wrote "The End of a Perfect Day," will be a special guest of the Woman's Symphony orchestra of Chicago during a broadcast from the Ford Gardens at the World's Fair at 2:30 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. The program is to be devoted exclusively to works of feminine composers. During the broadcast Mrs. Bond will be introduced and will give a short talk on the contribution of women to music.

Red Grange, Columbia's football reporter, will go on the air tomorrow and Saturday from the scene of his gridiron triumphs, the campus of the University of Illinois. CBS has put lines into a campus hall so that Grange may attend university ceremonies arranged on the 10th anniversary of the occasion when he romped over Michigan's goal line four times in 12 minutes.

In a letter to John C. Metcalfe, President Roosevelt has expressed his "deep appreciation" of Metcalfe's efforts on the radio program, "Sky Lines," presented over WCFL at 10:45 p. m. Mondays. Taking the form of an open letter which is sent to the President immediately after each broadcast, the program endeavors to give a report of current thought on governmental affairs in the Chicago metropolitan area. Mr. Metcalfe is director of publicity for the Chicago Real Estate Board.

Don McGibeny, war correspondent, composer and news commentator, is to become the master of ceremonies on the Sunday evening Silken Strings show. Countess Olga Albani will be the soloist and McGibeny's persiflage and breezy chatter will punctuate the concert.

New President Takes Rockford College Helm

Speaker Fears Individual Is Being Forgotten.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—A 30 year old educator, Dr. Gordon Keith Chalmers, former English professor at Mount Holyoke college, today became the sixth president of Rockford college. Thereby he takes responsibility for the educational guidance of the first middle western college for women. The college was founded 87 years ago by this city's pioneers.

As significant almost as the departure from tradition in the selection of a youthful president was the warning to the field of education by inaugural speakers that colleges and universities must adopt more sane and conservative curriculums. This warning was sounded by both President Chalmers and Dr. Norman Foerster, director of the school of letters, University of Iowa, who gave the principal inaugural address.

The installation ceremony was held in the historic campus quadrangle beneath a warm Indian summer sun.

Declaring that since the world war liberalism, whether political or educational, has been in the decline, Dr. Foerster asserted that the importance of the individual is being forgotten in the general drift toward communism and the totalitarian state.

"We are in danger of so emphasizing the concept of society that we can not remember the concept of the individual," Dr. Foerster continued. "In the years leading to the depression the traditional rôle of the college, that of caring for each of her children separately, conflicted with a new gospel of education of which Dr. Charles W. Eliot, long president of Harvard university, was spokesman. His slogan was 'education for power and service,' matching the materialistic spirit of the times. It became natural for students to attend universities in order to learn something they could 'sell.'

"Hence in state universities came vast department stores of courses aiming at the increase of power—courses in poultry problems and advertising, spray mixtures and shorthand, sewerage and upholstery. In fact, power over everything but one's self.

"The educated man or woman became a servant of society; education itself became servile, rather than liberal. The whole process could be thought of as dignified and idealistic by remembering that taking part in the work of the world was a service to the community."

In ironical tone, Dr. Foerster continued: "Individualists having failed, we now go in for collectivism, a sort of Socialism, communism, or Fascism. Advanced idealists are telling us making a profit is committing a crime, and that having private property is an unpardonable sin. Secretary Wallace himself, not satisfied with a New Deal, wants a new frontier. I fear Mr. Wallace has not adequately wrestled with the realistic conclusion of Aristotle that the problems that beset society are always due to the wickedness of human nature."

"A sound society will be one led by men who, like Washington and Lincoln, are guided by the principle of rest and peace. The logical upshot of the humanitarian movement is not social peace but class warfare. A humanitarian leader is Upton Sinclair, who is typical in his preaching of brotherhood, and inciting conflict."

President Chalmers, after the brief ceremony in which he was inducted into office by Webb C. Stevens, vice president of the board of trustees, declared that the number of courses of study considered of value to the mind and soul in the college curriculum is preposterous.

Good Morning!

Well, well! Now here's a little number that must have slithered softly by while the censors weren't looking. Or else smiled so pretty, pretty at the big cross mans that they let it by with an "Adults Only" ticket.

One doesn't blame—one only wonders, persistently remembering the hullabaloo over "Vergie Winters" and "Of Human Bondage." Because, you see——

"The Loves of Ariane"—adapted from Claude Anet's novel, is a tale of seduction. The principals are likable folk and enjoy themselves hugely most of the time. Nobody pays and pays at all. And, at the end, everything comes out just dandy—though even then you aren't at all sure that Anthony means to marry the girl.

Ariane is a Russian student alone in Paris. While attending the opera one night she meets Anthony, boulevardier, dilettante, etc. (I haven't read the book, but that's how I sized him up from the picture.) Acquaintance between the young girl and the much older man ripens into intimacy. To Anthony's credit be it said that he tells the young woman at the start he wants nothing to do with an inexperienced girl. Whereat——

Ariane becomes a Lady Münchausen and regales him with spicy stories of previous love affairs . . . all purely the fruit of her naughty imagination. . . .

And so, and so. . . .

The picture is interesting because of Elizabeth Bergner's performance—a sparkling, warmly alive, and at the same time exquisitely restrained study of adolescent passion. You will remember Miss Bergner's capital work in "Catherine the Great" and agree that she's just as great an actress in a sweater and skirt as in a royal robe. Percy Marmont, that fine English actor whom we haven't had on our screens for a long time, does smooth work as Anthony.

The photography is atrocious and the sound is worse. Settings are palpably "studio." The director, apparently struggling against terrific technical odds, accomplished considerable. He's the chap who made "Catherine the Great."

See you soon.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Grandma, who had barometer feet, knew when winter was a settin' in because her toes twitched. Nowadays no woman on God's green earth would willingly admit to chilblains or corns, but she does have what might be called barometer hands. First breath of autumn and the skin of her hands gives a warning that had better not be ignored.

Look at your own. Are they as white, as soft as they were this summer? Bet they're not.

They're not too bad—yet. But if a word to the wise is sufficient you'll begin right now to coddle them so cold weather won't bring you the embarrassment of hand redness and roughness.

Pale hands are one of the essentials. And there are no alibis. You may do your own dishes, or even toss off the family washing every Monday morning—but you're expected to have well tended hands. Some women seem naturally lucky but most of us have got to work for hand beauty.

There is a new hand lotion, for example, that you might put into service right now before the skin really cracks and reddens. It's a lavender liquid, sweet smelling and soothing and nourishing, that restores and preserves that precious softness and whiteness of hand. It's one of these rapid affairs. You use only about two drops for both hands and it seems to dry in nothing flat. Our advice is to use a bit more at night and to mold it in well. It's such a beautifully prepared product that you can even use it on the skin of your face if that, too, is sensitive to high and cold winds.

It should be used faithfully throughout the day after each hand washing. Since it's absorbed so quickly and gives such flattering finish, it's an excellent thought for the Nellie who nags at a typewriter all day and who must have those hands of hers presentable at all times.

It's as inexpensive as it's efficient—and you can find it all over town.

A HUCKSTER'S wagon, manned by an elderly Italian and a boy about 17, stopped at the corner and, carrying a basket of vegetables, the boy went up to a group of neighbor women who were chatting in the sunshine. None of them bought anything and as he returned to the wagon the man inquired:

"Didn't you sell anything?"

The lad at this query raised his voice and in a fine tenor he sang:

"And when I told them how fresh and cheap they were they wouldn't believe me, they wouldn't believe me. . . ."

The women heard him and called him back and Janice Grace Conrad, who relays the story, said he made several sales.

THE news that Irene Castle McLaughlin will dance again at the Pooch ball to be held next Saturday night at the Bal Tabarin for the benefit of Orphans of the Storm for the second time since she abandoned her career ten years ago is enough to draw customers to the ball. However, the fact that she will wear the very same costume that she wore in "Watch Your Step," one of her most famous successes, adds further sentimental interest.

Perhaps you remember the costume . . . blue chiffon with wide sleeves banded in gray fox, worn with a perky little hat? She looked like a painting by Fragonard in it—and she still does. Created by Lucile-Lady Duff Gordon, it was the first gown to have the jagged hemline that was in vogue for several years. Mrs. McLaughlin has had the dress copied exactly and she will carry the same muff that she carried with it in her dancing days. Roy Bradley will be her partner. An added thrill to many will be the fact that not only will they see Irene Castle McLaughlin dance but also Veloz and Yolanda will appear the same evening.

Chicago Golf Club to Hold Alumni Play

Collegiate Tourney Will Be on Saturday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALTHOUGH sports talk now is of football, members of the Chicago Golf club are having one more fling at golf. They will have their annual alumni golf matches Saturday when five man teams representing Princeton, Yale, Harvard, Cornell, Dartmouth, and the University of Chicago will be pitted against each other. The remaining members will be divided into teams of five men each and given special team names, for there aren't five contestants from any other one college. A stag dinner and the annual meeting will follow.

Harold Scott will captain the Yale team, on which Gardner Brown, the club champion, will be playing. Other captains are John Van Nortwick, Princeton; Ernest P. Waud, Cornell; Henry Hooper, Harvard; Herbert P. Zimmermann, Chicago, and Jess Hawley, Dartmouth. Leo Nicolson will captain the Bournique team (in the fancy name class), and others of these are the Bryant & Stratton team, which Peter Berkey will head, and the Sidewalks of What Have You, that will play under the guidance of W. Scott Linn. Gorton Fauntleroy is president of the club.

Ruth Holloway Wedding in East.

Mrs. Frederick Harney Bassett, Miss Judith Walsh and Mrs. Brownell Tompkins Bradstreet cannot be sorry that their great friend, Miss Ruth Holloway chose to be married to Edward Tarr Herndon at her parents' summer home instead of in Glencoe, for that meant a trip to the Berkshires for them and at the moment we cannot think of a lovelier place in the world than those beautiful New England hills.

A letter from there yesterday brings word that the coloring of the trees is more vivid and beautiful than in many years and that some of the trees have as many as seven distinct colors in their foliage. Mrs. Bassett, Miss Walsh and Mrs. Bradstreet left Tuesday for Tyringham, where Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway have their summer place, Tamarack Villa, to be there for the last of the pre-nuptial parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloway are giving the bridal dinner tomorrow night at their home and later that evening they will give a large dange at the Stockbridge Golf and Tennis club. Saturday before the wedding Mrs. Ramsay C. Hoguet of New York will give a luncheon at Council Grove, Stockbridge.

Will Hold Reception at Summer Estate.

The wedding is to take place at 4 o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Stockbridge, the Rev. Douglas Hawley Cornell of the Union church, Glencoe, officiating, assisted by the rector of St. Paul's, the Rev. Edmund Randolph Laine. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at Tamarack Villa, which is just five miles from the church. The villa is located on a heavily wooded mountainside with a glorious view for thirty-five miles to the north. The house was built by the late George F. Becker of the United States geological survey from timber cut on the estate and Mr. and Mrs. Holloway have owned it for nine years.

Mrs. Bradstreet, whose home is in Winnetka, will be matron of honor for Miss Holloway and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Bassett, Miss Walsh, Mrs. Merle Whitcomb of Dedham, Mass., a cousin of the bride, Miss Frances Cookman of Englewood, N. J., and Miss Sara Louise Hoeffer of Pottsville, Pa. Barbara Finlay, 4 year old daughter of the John J. Finlays of Geneva, Ill., will be the flower girl.

Hunter Venable Herndon of Philadelphia will be best man for his brother and ushering will be the bride's three brothers, George A. Holloway of New York, John W. Holloway and Larz Arthur Holloway of

Clox Are Used as Decoration for New Hose

Ankle Traceries Revived; Given Welcome.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Lovely clox in your socks tell how well you keep time with new hosiery fashions! Some appreciative person has revived these delicate ankle traceries in every new shade and sheerness of stocking you can want to wear.

From lisle numbers for your swankiest sports clothes, street wools and tweeds, to the wisps of films that you need for the glittering evening slippers to show tantalizingly through the slits in the newest of evening gowns, the last gasp in hosiery, stresses clox. Nothing is so flattering, nothing quite so feminine or so smartly sophisticated as this super-slenderizing vertical bit of embroidery.

One shop has a grand collection of such hosiery, all the newest street shades, stunning gunmetal and off blacks to wear with inky black suede footwear, deep dark browns as perfect color foils for all the different shades of brown suede pumps and street oxfords, some good taupes that tub without coming out of the suds with a lavender shading and all kinds of afternoon tones to wear with dress parade clothes.

One good street weight looks as sheer as an evening hose but wears twice as long as it looks, another weight of two thread will surprise you with the foot service, and the three thread will more than satisfy the luxurious cravings of the gal that wants next to nothing for evening slipper wear.

And while we're discussing such silken snares, have you heard that decorative round garters are being worn, the better to notice the slits in the skirt lines, so they say.

Anyway, if you dare these colorful ribbons, you'll find all the tints and shades you need, together with glittering buckles and clasps in two different spots in town. Jade green, apricot, French blue, coral, and jacrose are popular contrasts to wear with your new fall dinner and dance dresses.

BLAZING GUNS

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. Their marriage is one in name only in order to fight against their common enemy, Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the country and owner of Circle 3 T ranch. He has been trying to force Mary to marry him and has been stealing cattle from her Laby B ranch. Mary is captured and taken to Circle 3 T ranch. Slim Calhoun, a good looking young outlaw in Chet's employ, has a run-in with Jerry Haskell, Chet's foreman, and leaves Circle 3 T and joins Cole. By a trick, Cole captures Chet's men without bloodshed and makes Chet the laughing stock of the country by returning them to him. Cole forces Chet to surrender Mary and puts her under the protection of the Peters family in Jonesboro. Chet captures Rusty Hunter, one of Cole's trusted men, and a young boy named Morse. After giving Art Simmons a note to take to Mary in case anything happens to him, Cole captures Chet and forces him to make his men surrender Rusty. Then Cole and his men and Radbourne, their prisoner, await the return of Jerry Haskell with Morse.

INSTALMENT XI.

FIREWORKS.

The man was Bill. In front of the house he stopped.

"We got you fellows sure," he announced. "Fifteen of us here already, and more coming in likety split. Jerry says he will give you the best of it. Turn over to us Radbourne and Sanborn and he will let the rest of you go."

"What guarantee have we that he won't wipe us all out soon as we get out from cover?" Slim asked.

"You have his word—and ours."

"I don't reckon any one could ask for more than that," Slim jeered.

"Say, young fellow, if I was Jerry you wouldn't be included in this peace pact after turning traitor the way you did," Bill flung back at him angrily. "Well, fellows, what is it to be?"

"Get back to Jerry and tell him to turn his wolf loose if he feels like it," McCoy cried to the man.

Bill made one more try before leaving. "If any one of you wants to quit a bunch of outlaws before the massacre begins, now is the last chance."

Cole himself had not spoken until now, since he had not been included in the offer of amnesty. But he had a last word.

"Tell Haskell if he injures that boy Morse I'll never rest till I have his scalp."

The envoy had had no more than time to turn in his report when there came a blast of guns from the bunkhouse and the stable. Windows in the big house crashed. From the front door splinters flew. A spatter of bullets

"Trying to scare us," Rusty said.

"My guess is that Haskell is trying to distract our attention," Cole called to Slim, who was guarding the rear. "Watch out they don't charge from the live oaks."

"That is what they're aiming to do," Slim answered. "Here they come." He raised his rifle, took steady aim, and fired. "Hi yi yippy yi! Got one." His yell had risen in triumphant crescendo.

Cole sent Daggett and McCoy to support Calhoun. Rusty remained to help him defend the front of the house.

From the bunkhouse there came a yell. Out of that building and out of the stable men poured. They scattered, running toward the house. Cole blazed away at them. Rusty waited till they were nearer before he sent a load of buckshot at them. One of the running men stumbled and went down. The others wavered. Rapidly Cole fired twice more. The attack broke.

The roar of guns outside had been heavy. Now it died away.

Cole walked into the kitchen. Through a peep hole he saw the last of the horsemen disappearing in the grove. One man, on foot, limping heavily, was dragging himself toward the live oaks. He stopped every few yards to rest, looking back apprehensively at the boarded windows. Out of the woods a man rode swiftly, leaped to the ground, and helped his wounded comrade to the saddle. None of those in the kitchen fired at the rescuer as he ran for cover.

"That was Bud Calloway," Slim said. "Bully for Bud. The fellow he picked up was Mex."

"You fellows are making a lot of Fourth of July," Dave said feebly, with a faint grin. "Did you stand 'em off?"

"Y'betcha! The fireworks won't be lively again for quite some time. Altogether to date we've got four."

The defenders were jubilant.

"Don't get the idea they are through," Cole said. "Likely they will lay off us till dark. Then we'll hear from them again."

The hours wore away. The sun in the copper sky slid down behind the hills. A soft violet glow tinted the range. In the distance the Circle 3 T men could be seen busying themselves about something which looked like a hay stack.

"I'm going out to find what they are doing," Cole announced. "If my guess is right they are fixing to fire the house."

Cole shook his head. "No. It's my job. I may come back on the jump. Be ready to let me in."

He slipped out of a back window where the shadow of the woodshed offered convenient darkness. From here he cut across to the roothouse. Stretching out his head, he reconnoitered. A horse corral built of posts lashed with rawhide ran down one side of the yard toward the stable. Cole dodged to the fence and crept forward along it. He moved very carefully, crouched low to avoid attracting attention. Not far from him was a live oak, under which was the outdoor blacksmith shop. Keeping the trunk of the tree between him and the moving figures he worked his way to the live oak.

From its cover he could make out more clearly what the Circle 3 T men were doing. They were slowly rolling forward a wagon load of hay. Evidently their intention was to push it to the crest of the slope and send it the last fifty or seventy-five feet of its own momentum. The hay, of course, would be fired before it started down the descent toward the porch.

Some one called for an ax. A man volunteered to get it and moved toward the live oak. The trunk of the tree split, two or three feet from the ground, into two great spreading branches. Cole squatted low, hoping not to be seen.

The man reached the live oak and glanced round, his eyes searching for an ax. Cole saw his body stiffen suddenly. His gaze had fallen on the crouched figure.

The Circle 3 T rider let out a yell, and at the same instant Cole leaped. Too startled to draw a weapon, the fellow fell back a step or two, flinging up an arm to protect himself. Sanborn's revolver moved up and down. The force of the blow broke the defense, and the barrel of the long sixshooter came down heavily on the head of the victim. Helplessly the man staggered against the forge and sank to the ground.

But his cry had warned those around the hay wagon. Cole ran for the corral fence. Some one caught sight of him and yelled. A shot rang out. Sanborn raced along the corral. The guns of the enemy poured a fusillade in his direction. As he scudded across the open to the roothouse he felt a shock in the left shoulder. He knew he had been hit, but he was not thrown out of his stride. From the roothouse he dashed to the shelter of the woodshed. Through the back window he clambered into the house.

"Didn't get you?" Slim asked quietly.

"No. We've got to get out of here. By the kitchen. They're going to fire the house. We can't stop it. We'll make for the horse corral." Cole spoke with crisp decision.

"We'll be trapped there," McCoy said. "Like rats. Why not try for that clump of live oaks? From there we might work back into the hills if we could stand them off long enough."

"No. Haskell must have sharpshooters posted there. They would pick off two or three of us before we ever reached the woods. Dunc, you guard Radbourne. Pete and I will carry Dave on a mattress. We'll pile food on top of it. There's a windmill in the corral, so we won't have to take water. Rusty, you and Slim will have to carry food packs and guard us if we're rushed. It's not far. If we're lucky we'll make it."

How to Feed Five for Week on $10.42 Shown at Conference

Methods for supplying a family of five with balanced meals for a week at a cost of $10.42 were demonstrated yesterday at the Child Study conference sponsored by the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education at the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. loop store.

The demonstration was conducted by Miss Sarah McGifford, a member of the staf of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial fund. Meals were prepared from a grocery order purchased at present prices according to recipes devised by the Memorial fund staf. In most instances inexpensive foods with high nutritive content supplanted more expensive varieties, but were made attractive by the recipes.

Today the conference, beginning at 11 a. m. and continuing through the afternoon, will hear lectures on play materials for children and use of leisure time by Miriam Brubaker, director of the nursery school at the National College of Education, and Mrs. Davis G. McGarn, staf lecturer for the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education.

The conferences are free to the public.

Collegiate Tourney Will Be on Saturday.

Chicago; also Henry C. Brunie, Carl Gray and Cedric Major of New York, and J. Brooks Fenno Jr. of Boston.

Mr. Herndon, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Herndon of Pottsville, Pa., and his bride, will be at home after Nov. 1, at 151 East 83d street, New York.

Hear of Marriage of Jeannette Smith.

Chicago society learned yesterday of the marriage on Sept. 1 in Reno of Mrs. Jeannette Reynolds Smith, daughter of the Arthur Reynoldses of San Francisco, formerly of Chicago, and Charles P. Partridge, vice chairman of the Bank of America, San Francisco. After a honeymoon in Canada they will make their home in Burlingame, Cal.

In the wedding party were Mrs. C. A. Partridge, mother of the bridegroom, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emilio Granucci, and Mr. and Mrs. Carle F. Wente of Reno. Mr. Wente acted as best man.

Mr. Partridge was born in London and came to California as a child. He was graduated from Santa Clara university in 1914 and is a member of the Olympic and Commonwealth clubs of San Francisco and a director of that city's downtown association. During the war he was a captain in the field artillery.

Announce Luncheon for Six Debutantes.

The twenty-five or thirty debutantes who aren't away at college received in yesterday's mail invitations to a luncheon that two sisters, Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith and Mrs. Eugene Cary Jr., will give for six of the season's buds, Miss Bonnie-Jean Clark, Miss Nancy Doering, Miss Frances Jeffery, Miss Mary Elizabeth Reid, Miss Muriel Picher, and Miss Nancy Knode. The party will be on Friday, Nov. 2, at the Casino.

Residents of Lake Forest and Lake Bluff and some of their friends in town will be saving Diana Wynyard's picture, "One More River," to see the evening of Oct. 19 at the Deerpath theater in Lake Forest. That night the members of the Lake Forest and Lake Bluff Center of Infant Welfare are sponsoring the motion picture for the benefit of the Armitage Avenue Infant Welfare station, which they support.

As well as a gay and fashionable audience the night of the 19th there will be at least a dozen of the season's prettiest debutantes ushering and vending cigarets. Miss Priscilla Morse as the chairman of ushers is now busy in the selection of this group.

Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, publicity chairman for the Infant Welfare, made the announcement of the benefit yesterday. Mrs. Edward K. Welles is president of the Lake Forest-Lake Bluff center, and Mrs. Knight C. Cowles and Mrs. H. Foster Straw are others assisting with the benefit arrangements. For most of its work the center depends upon the voluntary contributions of its members.

Organize New Welfare Group.

A new infant welfare group that has been formed in Evanston is called the Infant Welfare Service league. It is headed by a board of eight and is composed of 25 girls just out of college. Miss Betty Buck is president, Miss Frances Olmsted is secretary, and Miss Virginia Knight is treasurer.

This group has taken over the Foster street Evanston Infant Welfare clinic and is helping Dr. Louis Sauer with whooping cough and diphtheria clinics. The young women also meet for sewing and knitting alternate weeks to help supply the needs of the Infant Welfare stations.

The English Speaking Union will present a woman, Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, as the speaker for its luncheon at 12:30 Monday at the Union League club. Mrs. Wintringham, who was the second woman in parliament as a Liberal, is to discuss "The English and American Unemployment Problems . . . Dole or Public Works."

All the romance of creating miniature rooms will be related by Mrs. James Ward Thorne at 2:30 next Tuesday afternoon when she lectures in Fullerton hall at the Art institute.

Bows and Buttons for Chic

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A youthful and charming dress is sketched here, and the original model was made of gray, tweedy woolen, so smart now. The tied collar was of emerald green velveteen, matched by the buttons. A green buckle fastened the self-fabric belt. Wool crêpe, pebbly silk crêpe, printed velveteen, and metal threaded woolens are lovely materials to use.

The pattern, No. 3438, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

BY MARY MEADE.

Whether you gulp a sandwich and a piece of pie or calmly order a four course dinner, you may think that what you eat is just between you and the waitress and nobody else's business.

Then you've a surprise in store. For the restaurant, the tearoom, and the cafeteria make it their business as well as yours. Many keep an accurate check of just how much apple pie is ordered each meal, and how many dishes of butterscotch pudding walked out of the kitchen. Snoopiness is not their motive, but merely the desire to have on their menus as great a variety of the foods that folks like as they possibly can.

One of the surprising facts which one tearoom discovered from such a checkup was that the patrons preferred dried apricots to all other apricots. The drying of this fruit seems to change its flavor noticeably, and many insist that it's considerably for the better.

If dried apricots are a favorite at the restaurant they should be equally popular at home. So, besides chewing on them between meals, what else may one do with this sweet, puckery fruit?

Apricot Krisp.

1½ cups cooked, dried apricots
¼ cup apricot juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup flour
½ cup sugar
5 tablespoons butter

Place the apricots in a buttered baking dish and pour the juice over them. Work together the butter, flour, sugar, and salt until well mixed and crumbly. Sprinkle over the apricots and bake, uncovered, for 45 minutes in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.].

Apricot Freeze.

3 tablespoons light corn sirup
4 tablespoons sugar
1 cup water
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 cup pureed, cooked dried apricots
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Pinch of salt
1 egg white

Combine the corn sirup, water, sugar, and lemon rind and boil for 3 minutes. Cool and combine with the apricots, lemon juice, and salt. Pour into the tray of a mechanical refrigerator and freeze until almost firm. Remove from the tray, beat up with a chilled rotary beater, and fold in the stiff beaten egg white. Return to the refrigerator tray and freeze until firm.

BRIDGE TEACHERS.

I feel that the teaching of bridge professionally should be taken more seriously than in the past. Many people find it extremely difficult to learn anything thoroughly from the printed page; the need of human contact with a teacher has no necessary connection with their natural ability for cards. Again, many who can teach themselves quite effectively from books require the personal guidance of a teacher to enable them to apply in practice the theories they have learned by their own study. The bridge teacher is a necessity in a world which looks to bridge for so much of its relaxation and enjoyment.

Knowledge of Card Playing Is Essential.

To be an effective teacher it is not enough to have memorized, however perfectly, the contents of a book or series of lesson sheets. Knowledge of card playing, of making the cards work for you when a latent trick has to be developed or a dangerous attack must be parried, is essential in the teaching of a game where the best theory is unavailing unless it is applied with intelligence and executed with a fair degree of card playing technique.

The Standard Should Be High.

I have, from the start, disapproved of the growing practice of some experts with systems to sell who issue certificates almost indiscriminately to all who answer—not necessarily without help—some formal written questionnaire on points of the particular system which is to be exploited, and lay their money on the line. I feel that personal knowledge of a teacher's competence is necessary before I should take the responsibility of recommending him or her to prospective pupils. In different cities I have met teachers with a sheaf of teaching certificates who literally know nothing about the game, slopping two or three tricks on almost every hand they play, whether as declarers or in defense.

My Policy Is Different.

I issue master teacher certificates only to those whom I know to be proficient, from personal knowledge and after both discussing the game with them and playing with and against them. I make no charge at all for the certificate if issued. I wish to help worthy teachers in every way; I take no fees from them. I know that many will teach my system conscientiously and effectively without a certificate from me because they cannot arrange to come to Deal and quality in the manner described. On the other hand, those who do receive a master teacher certificate from me are ipso facto at the very top of their profession.

A Shining Example.

Teachers of the highest repute have come to Deal from near and distant cities in the last few months and after spending a few days under the coaching of Wernher, Rau and myself on the system and playing with us in duplicate games at my house and in the local clubs, those whom I consider qualified to teach have received certificates from me. In none were the ethics of the profession more splendidly represented than in Miss Nellie Robnett of St. Louis, Mo. This young lady has been teaching very successfully in St. Louis for some years. During the last few months she found a growing demand for classes on the Sims system. Past and prospective pupils were insistent on learning the methods which were proving irresistible in the national championships. Did Miss Robnett open new Sims classes and start reaping an immediate harvest from a careful study of my book? She did not. She enrolled pupils, any number of them; but she refused to start the classes until she had mastered the system at headquarters and earned a certificate. "I'll come back when I have my certificate from Mr. Sims; then we will get to work," she told them as she packed her grip and headed for the station. She spent about ten days with us here studying, discussing, taking notes, and playing contract with us almost every waking hour. She earned and thoroughly deserves her master teacher certificate.

"La Traviata" High Point of Opera Season

Morini and Onofrei Win Praise of Critic.

"La Traviata," opera by Verdi, presented at the Auditorium by the San Carlo Opera company Wednesday, Oct. 10.

THE CAST.

Violetta	Rosalinda Morini
Flora	Charlotte Brane
Alfredo Germont	Dimitri Onofrei
Gastone	Francesco Curci
Giorgio Germont	Mario Valle
Baron Douphol	Fausto Bozza
Doctor Grenvil	Natale Cervi
Annina	Philine Falco

Conductor, Carlo Peroni.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

This is one of the operas that classifies among the benefit performances of the San Carlo season. The Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind sponsored it, as it will sponsor another performance next Wednesday, wherein likewise Miss Morini will be the prima donna.

Wherefore it is a particular pleasure to report that "La Traviata" needs no apologies for being a charity performance. Whatever amount of money the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind realized was deservedly earned from an artistic standpoint. The performance was one of the brilliant events of the San Carlo season.

Miss Morini has an extraordinarily competent voice. It stands out in all of the brilliant display of the first act solo; in the rest of the opera it is both caressing to the ear and dramatically expressive. There was applause here and there throughout the performance, and it was all deserved. Be it added that Miss Morini knows how to costume the rôle as well as to sing it.

At that it was by no means a solo opera for her. Whatever she gained she earned from the rest of the cast. There are few better singers of the part of the young Germont on the stage today than Mr. Onofrei. And when Mr. Valle took the stage as the elder Germont he became a distinguished star in his own right. You may or may not approve of "Di Provenza" as a matter of inspired music, but you must admit that Mr. Valle sang it as high art.

The Chicago soprano, Janet Fairbank, will appear with the San Carlo Opera company on Saturday afternoon, when she will sing the part of Siebel in "Faust" in a cast that will include Mary McCormic, Edward Molitore, Mario Valle, and Leon Rothier.

Children Must Be 'Warned' of Some Adults

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Ever since Virginia left, Betsy's been so interested in diseases," said Betsy's mother to Betsy's father one evening after a long visit from his brother's wife. "And she talks about this little pain she has and that little pain. I think it's all due to Jinny's conversation."

"O, Jinny's always been like that—talking about sickness and describing her aches and pains. She has been ill a lot, but I think she actually 'enjoys poor health.' I let it go in one ear and out the other. Why don't you?" said Betsy's father.

"I do, but you know how children are at Betsys' age. They drink everything in, and Jinny is so dramatic and goes into such detail. I could see the horrible fascination it had for Betsy, but I didn't think it would make a lasting impression."

"Well," said the practical man, "let's do something to erase that impression now. Besides, Betsy's bound to see a lot of Jinny when Tom and I have always been so close. Betsy's old enough for us to tell her that Jinny's gotten into the habit of talking about sickness all the time, and that it certianly isn't interesting conversation . . . sort of dismiss it, you know. You could even make fun of it a little. And tell her that most people, when they get well, forget about being sick and talk about other things."

There comes a time when children are old enough for us frankly to discuss unwholesome attitudes in their grownup associates in order to promote their mental health.

Culbertson Sues for Pay as Card Supplies Endorser

Suit asking an accounting of funds allegedly due him through an agreement with the Ripple corporation, manufacturers of bridge and card playing equipment, was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Ely Culbertson, bridge expert. The suit contends that Culbertson contracted to endorse the firm's equipment and in return was to receive 5 per cent of the money received from such sales, plus $300 a month, beginning May 1 of this year. Instead, Culbertson has received only one monthly payment of $300, the suit charges.

WEDDINGS

A veil of exquisite Limerick lace which has been in the bride's family for generations graced the head of Miss Marie Josephine Bremmer, daughter of the John B. Bremners, at her wedding yesterday to Edward Gilmore Sliney, son of Mrs. Mary Sliney of Brighton, Mass. The ceremony took place at 10 a. m. at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church and a wedding breakfast and reception followed at the Bremner home. Msgr. Joseph Casey officiated.

The bride chose ivory satin for her gown, which was made very simply, and she carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. She was preceded to the altar by five attendants led by her youngest sister, Betty Bremner, who carried the bride's prayer book. The child wore an ankle length dress of crisp yellow taffeta with a matching cap. The maid of honor, Miss Lauretta Bremner, wore a chartreuse velvet gown with a high neck and long sleeves. She wore a brown maline hat and slippers and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The other attendants, Miss Nancy Bremner, Miss Marion Barrett, and Miss Elizabeth Krim of Worcester, Mass., wore similar gowns in burnt orange velvet with brown accessories and carried brown chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Bremner wore a white and silver tunic over a black skirt with black accessories and orchids to receive in. The bridegroom's mother chose a brocaded velvet in a bluish purple and orchids.

The couple will reside in Boston.

Mrs. Simon De Young announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Julia J., to Marshall Jay Weiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Weiss of Providence, R. I., which will take place at noon Nov. 11.

Exhibit of Beauty Assets Is Poor Taste

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Talking about hands, the other day, a well known woman of the stage told a story of an acquaintance. The young woman acquaintance had a great pride in her hands. She repeated frequently the compliments that had been paid them, ending with "the one real asset I seem to have." They were fine hands, according to my informant, but the trouble with them was that the conscious movements of them, dictated, no doubt, by the flattering compliments paid them, became annoying to her audience. She played them every minute, talked with them, laughed with them, spread them on the table until they became a bit of an annoyance instead of the feature of charm they really were.

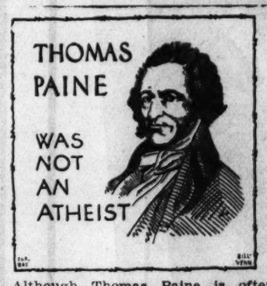
No great offense at that, I suppose; just one of those things that affect the value of an asset, overlooking the surprise element, as it were. Letting people discover one's assets is one of those subtly flattering things to do.

I think of another person who has especially lovely hair, and who spends a lot of time on keeping it dressed and well groomed. She has this annoying habit of calling attention to it herself by leading the conversation that way or by constant applications of her hands to it. The regrettable thing about such doings is that people begin to think in critical terms of the self-vaunted assets. Some women are like that about their feet and shoes. They make their appeal too obvious for general acclaim. In other avenues it may be well to put one's best foot forward and keep it there, but when a woman is trying to sell herself as a creature of charm and allure, obviousness is not her best trick.

The most boring creature in the world is the one who repeats and repeats the compliments paid her about her looks. The audience reaction, as said, is likely to be "O, you're not so hot!" than it is to be agreement with the compliment. Self-assurance is a great and grand asset, to be sure, but it is one of those assets to have but not to go about advertising too loudly.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



Although Thomas Paine is often referred to as an American atheist, he was far from being such a person. He played a very important part in the founding of the American independent states, and did much to encourage the army of Washington by his now famous composition "The Crisis," which began with these words: "These are the times that try men's souls." His belief in a God is evidenced by the words of none other than the bishop of Llandaff, who said to him: "There is a philosophical sublimity in some of your ideas when speaking of the Creator of the universe."

Age 13

It is not wise to give a laxative of adult strength to a child, just because you give it less often or in less amounts.

What to Give a Child

There is a better way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

Avoid all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

When you change to California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule and the child is soon normal and happy again.

Something to Think About

Doctors advise liquid laxatives, and hospitals use the liquid form. And a child who has been convalescing in the hospital usually comes out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch.

Give that headachy, bilious child California Syrup of Figs when constipated, and a little less each time until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

Cincinnati at Green Bay.
Detroit at Philadelphia.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—The Chicago Bears defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 28 to 0, in a National league football game before 19,386 at Forbes field tonight. It was the fourth consecutive league victory for the Bears and left them undefeated for the season.

The professional champions routed the Pittsburgh club by a much larger margin than the scoring indicated. Red Grange entered the game for a brief spell in the second period and gave Pittsburgh fans a few flashes of his one time brilliance in his first visit here since his pro debut 10 years ago.

Feathers Gets Away.

Bronko Nagurski, Beattie Feathers and Gene Ronzani collaborated in the Bears' first touchdown after they had taken the ball on the Pirates' 48 yard line when a placement attempt by Pittsburgh was blocked. Ronzani made the score on a six yard pass from Carl Brumbaugh.

Feathers broke off right tackle and ran 82 yards for the second touchdown. Exceptional blocking made possible Feathers' run. Jack Manders intercepted a Pirate pass in midfield and ran it back to the three yard line to pave the way for the Bears' third score. Keith Molesworth hit center for the touchdown.

Passes Produce Score.

The fourth touchdown resulted from three passes, starting from the Bears' 44 yard line. Luke Johnsos took the last one from Bernie Masterson for the score. Manders added the four extra points.

The lineup:

CHICAGO [28].		PITTSBURGH [0].
Hewitt	L. E.	Smith
Buss	L. T.	Quatse

Kawal	C.	Oehler
Kopcha	R. G.	Ribble

Karr	R. E.	Skladany
Brumbaugh	Q. B.	Zaninelli
Feathers	L. H.	Heller
Ronzani	R. H.	Raddo
Nagurski	F. B.	Brovelli

Touchdowns—Ronzani, Feathers, Molesworth, Johnsos.
Points after touchdowns—Manders, 4 [placements].

Substitutions—Chicago: Manders for Ronzani, Sisk for Manders, Grange for Feathers, Zeller for Kopcha, Molesworth for Brumbaugh, Miller for Kawal, Kiesling for Carlson, Rosequist for Buss, Johnsos for Hewitt. Pittsburgh—McNally for Raddo, Clark for Brovelli, Sortet for Skladany, Snyder for Ribble, Roberts for Clark, Ciccone for Oehler, Tesser for Smith, Weinberg for Douds, Greeney for Snyder, Vaughan for Brovelli, Kelsch for Heller.

CARDS VS. BEARS SUNDAY

When the Bears and Cardinals clash Sunday afternoon at Wrigley field it will be the 28th renewal of their feud, which began in 1920 with the formation of the National Professional Football league.

Since then the Bears have won seventeen times and the Cardinals five. Five games were scoreless ties.

The Bears have won nine in a row in the series, the last Cardinal victory being the second game in 1929, when, after playing three games in eight days, the Halas club was routed, 40 to 6.

Sunday the situation will be much the same. The Bears will be playing their third game in eight days, having met Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, while the Cardinals played only Cincinnati last Sunday.

The present Cardinal lineup is unquestionably stronger than the one that lost 12 to 9 and 22 to 6 last season.

Souvenir Hunters Steal All Balls; Stop Dean Game

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Jerome and Paul Dean came to Oklahoma today for one of the greatest home comings the state has ever accorded any of her sons.

The two brothers flew from St. Louis to pitch in an exhibition game against the Kansas City Monarchs. The game, merely secondary to the Deans, was called at the end of five and a half innings when the supply of baseballs was exhausted. The Deans at that time were leading 4 to 0. Every time a ball was walloped in the direction of the overflow crowd that ball disappeared.

LOOK OUT, MAROONS! JOHN'S BACK

Maroons Face Their Biggest Game of Year

The University of Chicago campus gets really excited about football just once a year, usually rather early in the season. Saturday's struggle with Michigan will apparently be this year's emotional climax around Stagg field.

While the team was getting its final heavy workout yesterday the undergraduate body, catching some of the spirit of the squad, completed preparations for a rally, which will be held tomorrow.

The festivities will begin at 10 a. m. and last all day. The team will be introduced in a pep session at noon in front of Cobb hall. A torchlight parade, followed by a bonfire rally in the circle, is scheduled for the early evening. All day a funeral casket will repose in front of Cobb hall, bearing the effigy of Michigan.

Reserves Are Adequate.

As the first Big Ten match for both teams, the game will show just where the Maroons are going this year and whether Michigan's recent defeat by Michigan State was merely an early season lapse. Michigan's objective is a fifth consecutive Big Ten championship; the Maroon objective is to beat Michigan.

The Chicago starting lineup will probably be as follows: Baker and Womer, ends; Bush and Wright, tackles; Whiteside and Jurdan, guards; Patterson, center; Flinn, quarter back; Berwanger and Skoning, half backs, and Nyquist, full back.

This year the Maroons will have adequate reserves. Chicago's back field, chiefly because of Berwanger's presence, will probably be Michigan's equal in everything but punting. The question on the Midway is whether the relatively inexperienced Maroon line can stand up against the bulky Wolverine forwards.

MICHIGAN FINDS NEW BACK.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—After failure to get much beyond midfield with a bulky line and a big back field last Saturday Coach Harry Kipke may call on a comparative midget to drag Michigan out of the slough against Chicago this week. The little fellow is Ferris Jennings, Ann Arbor, 137 pound quarter back, who has everything except weight. Jennings may replace Russ Oliver, senior back.

Cedric Sweet, 190 pound sophomore, may become first string full back, replacing Steve Remias. John Regeczi probably will remain at half back. Howard Triplehorn definitly will be on the shelf, and if Regeczi is unable to play Oliver will take his place at half.

Kipke worked the team on a passing drill this afternoon, with Oliver, Regeczi and Whitey Aug in the pitching rôles. The team clicked no better against a second string eleven than it did against Michigan State last week. A defensive drill against such Chicago plays as Scout Ray Courtright has seen concluded the workout.

Twenty-Nine Drake Players Go East to Battle Army

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Drake university football team tonight was heading east for West Point, N. Y., where it will meet the Army Saturday. Twenty-nine players are making the trip.

Bring on Purdue! Notre Dame Forgets About Defeat by Texas

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 10.—Notre Dame lost its opening football game to the University of Texas. That defeat made history, notwithstanding the indifferent record of last year's Irish varsity. But today there were no signs on the campus or practice field that the students or players were discouraged. So far, no one has popped last year's familiar question: What's wrong with Notre Dame?

Purdue university is working over at Lafayette preparatory to invading Memorial stadium Saturday. Last year Purdue beat Notre Dame, 19 to 0, but Rise Institute, another of those pesky Texas schools, jolted the Boilermakers so hard last week that Purdue sees no reason why it should anticipate Saturday's family brawl with pleasure.

Of course, Notre Dame isn't satisfied with its opening defeat. And without investigation the same statement can be attributed to Noble Kizer and Purdue. But at least as far as the play here last Saturday is concerned, it might have been much worse.

"Even in the last period when it was apparent Notre Dame would lose 7 to 6 the players were not demoralized, Notre Dame played as a team. The boys did not go to pieces and forget their instructions or their objectives."

This was the opinion of one of those, not a coach by the way, who daily is associated with the squad. It marked in his estimation the turning point in Notre Dame football after three years of gradual decline.

"Purdue may win Saturday," our informant continued, "and other teams may whip Notre Dame, but this rebirth of spirit is an omen that Notre Dame is on her way back to the top."

Elmer Layden, the head coach, has

SMITH REJOINS BUCKEYE SQUAD; READY TO PLAY

Will Face Illini Saturday at Champaign.

Bennie Dobbs, end, who has been handicapped with a back injury, also rejoined the squad, leaving Jim Pipoly, another end, the only man missing.

Kabealo, a younger brother of George, is battling Gomer Jones and Buzz Wetzel for the center position. Of the three Wetzel is the most valuable on aerial defense, but Kabealo is the most reliable passer.

The squad will leave Columbus tomorrow after practice, stopping in Danville Friday and continuing to Champaign on Saturday.

ZUPPKE SEEKS RESERVES.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Fearful that Ohio State's linemen, who will average 199 pounds and outweigh the Illini forwards 15 pounds, Coach Bob Zuppke sought today to strengthen his line replacements.

It now appears that Zuppke will select his ends from Antilla, Wright, Dykstra, Nelson, and Van Meter. Wilbur Henry, sub quarter back, also is working out at half back, where reserves are needed. This shift may give Clif Gano his old post as relief pilot. The battle for full back continued with Theodore, Cason, and Fischer all possibilities to start against Ohio State.

BADGERS SEEK POWER.

Forgetting the defense for the South Dakota State game in an effort to develop more power, Spears sent Kundert to right half back, where he demonstrated brilliant and hard running. Kundert threw a few passes and looked equally good on the receiving end of several others.

JUNE ATWOOD WINS, 6 AND 5, IN WESTERN MEET

Portland, Ore., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. June Beebe Atwood of Chicago, defending champion, was three under par when her match with Mrs. B. E. Eva, Oregon state champion, ended, 6 and 5, in the second round of the western women's open golf tournament today. Mrs. G. E. Riegel of Spokane beat Mrs. J. D. Gilmour of Seattle, 6 and 4, and will face Mrs. Atwood in tomorrow's championship flight.

Other results today included:
Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago beat Mrs. W. M. Shelton of Chicago, 4 and 3; Mrs. Martin Hunter of Portland, tournament medalist, beat Mrs. Lillian Zech of Chicago, 1 up.

Lawson Little Resumes Studies at Stanford

Stanford University, Cal., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Lawson Little, British and American amateur golf champion, resumed his studies today at Stanford university, where he is majoring in economics. Little, a junior, plans to keep his golf game on edge through regular practice on the Stanford course.

Now It's Time to Tell How Series Should Have Been Run

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The grandstand managers, including the gentlemen who write about the game, are all set for a gay winter as the result of happenings in the world series that lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to the coveted title at the expense of the Detroit Tigers. Much will be written and spoken about the strategy employed by the rival managers. At least some of it will not be complimentary, particularly in the case of Mickey Cochrane, the Tiger boss.

Cochrane's big mistake, and it was called a mistake even before a ball had been pitched, was in not naming Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, his 22 year old sensation to start the opening game. That was his original plan, but he switched to Alvin Crowder when the Dean menace arose in the spot where he had expected to see the Giants' four man pitching staf. Cochrane didn't go into the whyfore of his strange move but hinted that he was afraid to risk his ace against Dizzy, the senior half of the Dean pitching firm.

Tigers' Confidence Shaken.

Rowe had been the Tigers' big winner all season. They played their best ball behind him, probably because of confidence in his ability. By not starting Rowe in the first game Cochrane indicated he didn't think the Schoolboy could hold his own against the elder Dean. It was equivalent to telling his players that he was conceding the first game to the Cardinals.

The Tigers went into that game with a well developed inferiority complex. The confidence that Rowe's presence might have given them was painfully absent. They were in such mental distress that they piled up five infield errors in the first three innings. The game was gone before they shook off their fright.

An Off Day for Dizzy.

And the error in Cochrane's judgment on the Rowe matter was all the more glaring after Dizzy had revealed that he was not his usual self. He was a bad pitcher without control that afternoon and might easily have been beaten if Rowe had been in there with an exhibition such as he furnished the following day.

Another angle about starting Rowe in the first game was that it would have brought him back that much sooner for a second or even a third appearance. As it was he couldn't make a second start until the sixth game, which would have given Detroit its first world title if Rowe had won. But he lost and that was just about the end of the Tigers' hopes. For the deciding game Cochrane had only Auker and Crowder available. He picked the former although the latter, who was considered good enough

GRIMM THROUGH WITH PAT, BUT CARDS LIKE HIM

Shops in Detroit for Bidder.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Pat Malone, one of the few pitchers who boasted victories over the Dean family in the 1934 season, probably will be a teammate of Dizzy and Paul in 1935. Big Pat positively will never pitch another inning for the Chicago Cubs, according to Manager Charley Grimm, and Frank Frisch, manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, says that he would like to have Pat on his roster.

Frisch, at the time he expressed a desire for Malone's services, said he would dispose of Bill Hallahan, able left hander who was cheated out of victory in the second game of the recent world series by a combination of freakish breaks. He should have won, 2 to 0, or possibly 2 to 1.

Trade Is Possible.

The Card manager did not say directly that he would trade Hallahan for Malone, but any transaction involving one of the two players probably would involve both.

The Cubs have been without a good southpaw for years and Grimm would welcome the acquisition of Hallahan.

Malone's record on a lazy third place team was better than Hallahan's on an up and doing pennant winning outfit. Pat won fourteen while losing seven, including a streak of eight victories in nine games prior to his permanent benching after a quarrel with Manager Grimm early in September. Hallahan pitched only nine complete games, won eight and lost twelve.

Pat Shops Around.

Because he had been told during the Cubs' last visit to Boston that he never would pitch another inning for the Cubs, it is said Malone has felt free to look around a bit with a view of assuring certain managers that he can win for them. Pat was in Detroit during the last two days of the series.

Whether he chatted with Frisch is not known, there being a rule against managers or owners "tampering" with players belonging to rival teams. The circumstances in Malone's case, however, would not logically place him under any such regulation.

Malone came to the Cubs at the behest of Joe McCarthy in 1928 and after losing the first seven games in which he appeared, ended the season with 18 victories and 13 losses. In the next two seasons Malone won 42 games, 22 in 1929, a Cub pennant year. The only year in which Malone failed to win more games than he lost was in 1932, when he won 15 and lost 17.

He's Hard to Handle.

Malone is of a frivolous nature at times, and neither Hornsby nor Grimm has shown the ability to "handle" the big boy the way McCarthy could. Frisch knows of Malone's playful propensities and also of the way McCarthy could make him observe training rules. Frankie has said he believes Malone would give his best efforts to the Cardinals under Frisch's managership.

Malone was born in Altoona, Pa., in 1903. Hallahan was born in Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 4, 1904.

FINE KLEM, DELANCEY

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—As an aftermath of one of the most turbulent world series in baseball history, K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, today announced he had fined William J. Klem, National league senior umpire, and Bill Delancey, 21 year old St. Louis Cardinal catcher, $50 each for using profane language.

"Both Klem and Delancey used 'overripe' words and I'm not going to stand for that sort of thing," Landis stated. "Imagine how it looked when one of the women in that crowd in the hotel lobby turned and asked some one who the man using profane language was and heard that some one say, 'Why, that's Umpire Bill Klem of the National league.'"

The Klem incident occurred in a crowded hotel lobby Monday when the umpire was arguing with Goose Goslin, Detroit outfielder. Landis also described several other incidents in which Klem had used profane language. It was the first time in his 14 years as baseball commissioner that Landis fined an umpire.

Landis said a decision in the spiking row between Joe Medwick, St. Louis outfielder, and Marvin Owen, Tiger third baseman, which caused a near riot by the bleacherites in Navin field, is expected to be reached within a few days.

Delancey was fined for an attack on Umpire Clarence Owens. The umpire imposed a $200 fine on the Cardinal catcher, but Landis cut it to $50.

CITY CHEERS CARDS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 10.—(AP)—St. Louis today acclaimed the world champion Cardinals as the city's heroes.

A parade over streets strewn with paper and debris of the celebration which began yesterday afternoon and extended through most of the night, was the city's tribute to the conquerors of Detroit's Tigers.

Near the front of the line of parading automobiles, just behind the car reserved for Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and club officials, rode the brothers Dean—Dizzy and Paul.

SALVATORE WINS FROM STANTON IN EIGHT ROUNDS

Breese Defeats Sharkey; Cohen Whips Fierro.

Tommy Paul of Buffalo, N. Y., opened training yesterday at Coulon's gymnasium in preparation for his first Chicago appearance in two years in a 10 round windup bout against Leo Rodak at White City Monday. He will transfer his activities to Trafton's gym in the loop today when he is to begin boxing workouts.

Rodak concentrated on speed and punching in a seven round drill at C. Y. O. center. He used Jim Pazy, a welterweight, and Lorenz Lovings, a lightweight, as targets for hard wallops. Floyd Embrey, bantamweight, gave Leo a chance to practice speed.

When he finished Rodak was within striking distance of the agreed poundage, 129. Paul was featherweight champion when Leo still was an amateur and Leo holds considerable respect for Tommy. He never has seen Paul.

Henry Rothier, Chicago, and Billy Celebron, Rockford, will renew a feud which had its beginning in the 1933 Golden Gloves tournament at Marigold Gardens Monday. At the time Rothier, who has lost only two decisions since turning professional, and Celebron, defeated once as a pro, met for the welterweight title. Henry got the decision, but it was disputed by some. When Celebron appeared to better advantage in training bouts with Rothier while the team was preparing for the international contests with Ireland at Soldiers field Coach Johnny Behr named the Rockford boxer to fight in place of Rothier. Celebron beat his Irish opponent.

In the belief that Frank Sigilio's knockout of Battling Gizzy has enhanced his drawing powers, Manager Willie Capadonna said yesterday that new terms must be agreed upon for the return encounter with Davey Day, to be held at Chicago Stadium, probably early in November. The original date for the rematch was Oct. 5.

Dale Haddock was disqualified for unnecessary roughness after 20 minutes of his match with Buck O'Neil. In the opening bout Charley Peterson was awarded a 30 minute decision over Dick Gamon.

Hunter Bags a Pair of Handsome Birds.

BY BOB BECKER.

The black duck or black mallard, one of the few species of ducks which had a good breeding season this year, already is represented in the Illinois river valley. When we were down the river a few days ago we saw some of these handsome birds coasting around with the more common green headed mallards. However, the black ducks could hardly be called plentiful along the Illinois. During the first day's hunt in company with David Peck of Lake Forest, we had shots at only two black ducks. One was bagged in the morning and the other in the afternoon.

One bird we didn't see in the marsh a few days ago was the shoveller. Invariably on an early October hunt you can see these queer looking birds with the big bills. The male is a beauty as far as color pattern is concerned, but all his good looks are just about spoiled by the unusually large and queerly shaped bill which nature has given him.

Stick Close to Marsh.

On this first hunt of the year along the Sangamon river the blue winged teal fooled us just as they have for years. For example, you sit in a blind watching the sky for approaching flocks of mallards or pintails. These birds come in quite high. The idea is to keep your head up and your eyes pointed skyward over the timber to spot them at once. This system is fine for the big ducks, but it's a total loss when it comes to spotting teal.

The little blue winged or green winged teal are regular "grass cutters." They skim the top of the marsh by just a few feet if they are just moving a short distance to feed. Therefore you frequently miss the teal when they come near decoys.

Teal Prove Too Fast.

The other day we were sitting in the blind watching for mallards when suddenly the decoys started calling. Out went our right hand for our double gun. Then we warily looked around for birds. Suddenly we heard the sound of birds splashing on the water, and there sitting pertly among the decoys were six or seven blue winged teal giving us the laugh. They had skidded into our stool of decoys at breakneck speed before we knew it. This happened several times during the course of our first day's hunt. Mudhens and grebes [commonly called helldivers] also arrived around our blind unannounced. Both of these species of water birds had a way of swimming out of the lotus leaves and smartweed, inspecting our blocks and live decoys, and then quietly leaving again.

Morgan Park Game Is Off Due to Strike

The Morgan Park-McKinley non-league football game, scheduled for Saturday, has been called off because of the student strike at Morgan Park, Dick Tweedie, Morgan Park athletic director, announced yesterday. The members of the Morgan Park squad, runnerup for the Chicago Public High School league championship last fall, have failed to report to Coach Bob Antonides since their 7 to 6 victory over Parker last Saturday.

Twenty-two members of Lane Tech's squad, Coaches Floyd Brown and Joe Kupcinet, Max Strass, athletic director, and Principal Charles E. Lang will leave Chicago at 2:05 o'clock this afternoon for New Rochelle, N. Y., where they will meet New Rochelle High school in an intersectional game Saturday. A workout is planned in Washington, D. C., en route to New Rochelle.

Three of Fenger's outstanding players, Rollie Lundberg, Bus Tullegren, and Squirt Klvad, 140 pound guard, will be unable to play when the team meets Phillips in a south section game Saturday. They were injured in the Calumet game, which Fenger won, 20 to 0, last Saturday.

Hyde Park students will get together tonight at 8 o'clock at 63d street and Stony Island avenue for the annual pep meeting for the annual game with its central section rival, Englewood, Saturday afternoon. Englewood lost to Bowen last Saturday, 7 to 0.

The undefeated Leo eleven will meet De La Salle at St. Rita field, 63d street and Claremont avenue, Sunday afternoon. Leo will be seeking its second victory in the east section of the Catholic league. It defeated St. Patrick, 24 to 6, last week in its opening league contest.

Now Is Time to Tell How to Run Series

With the two Deans on hand for work at any time Manager Frisch of the Cards didn't have to do much heavy thinking about his pitching selections. He held out on the first and the seventh game but that was merely to annoy the Tigers. Frisch knew all the time he would start Dizzy in the opener and knew it would be the same after his team had leaped back into the series by winning the sixth after Detroit had won 2 in a row.

Neither did Frisch have indefinite plans about Bill Lefty Hallahan for the second game. His mind was made up on that point as soon as the Cardinals clinched the pennant on the final day of the season. Hallahan was the logical man because he had beaten the Tigers twice with ease in exhibitions during the season. And he would have whipped them in the second game of the series if it hadn't been for the lapse that permitted a pop foul to drop to the ground when there was one out in the ninth and the Cards were leading by 2 to 1.

Cardinals Make Bad Mistake.

That lapse of which both Bill Delancey, the kid catcher, and Rip Collins, the first baseman, were guilty, robbed old man Hallahan of a brilliant win in what probably was his last world series game. The lapse also represented the one time during the entire series that the Cardinals weren't functioning like a well oiled machine. And if that lapse hadn't occurred the National leaguers would have had two straight to their credit with a good chance of ending the series in five games. As it turned out, the failure to catch the pop foul off Gerald Walker's bat, came dangerously close to costing the Cards the title.

The one move by Manager Frisch that displeased the experts was his hasty order that took Tex Carleton out of the fourth game. Tex, as National league batters will attest, is a tough fellow to hit because of his versatile throwing. He doesn't depend on one or two items. He has a half dozen ways for getting a ball up to the plate. But that day Frisch yanked him as soon as he tumbled into trouble on two hits and two passes in the third inning. He didn't have any worth while pitcher to drop into the vacancy. Carleton, had he been permitted to remain, probably would have been far more effective than the second stringers who succeeded him.

Greenberg Is Goat.

The honor of being the goat of the series probably will have to go to Hank Greenberg, the Tiger's lanky first baseman. Hank made an early bid for the honor by his feebleness as a cleanup hitter in the first three games. Then he was dropped to sixth place, but with the exception of one day was of little consequence. He had been one of the Tigers' best run producers during the season. Lanky Hank has further claim to the distinction by the fact that he fanned 9 times. Five of these were inflicted by Dizzy, 2 by Brother Paul, and 2 by Hallahan.

President Asks Illini Invitation Be Written Out

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.], said today he had been requested by President Roosevelt to submit in writing an invitation from officials of the University of Illinois to attend the Army football game at Champaign-Urbana, Ill., Nov. 3.

The senator said he had given the President a verbal invitation during a conference today and that the President had expressed a wish for it to be submitted in writing in order that it might be considered in the preparation of his November schedule.

M'Carthy of Dodgers Will Play with Mills

John McCarthy, first baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers, will appear in the Chicago Mills' lineup when they meet the Kansas City Monarchs at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, Sunday afternoon. McCarthy will share the spotlight with Dizzy and Paul Dean, who will pitch for the Mills.

Manager Bill Harley of the Mills yesterday reported a heavy demand for tickets which led him to predict that a crowd of 15,000 will watch the Dean boys, who pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to victory over the Detroit Tigers in the world series. The Deans are to arrive in Chicago Sunday morning.

FOXX STILL IN HOSPITAL AFTER HEAD INJURY

WINNIPEG, Canada, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx, first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, still was in a hospital today recovering from injuries suffered Monday when he was hit on the head with a pitched ball in an exhibition baseball game. He probably will not be released for two or three days.

Hospital authorities previously had reported Foxx had been released and was on his way to Regina to rejoin the other members of the barnstorming major leaguers.

WILDCATS REACH COAST TODAY FOR STANFORD GAME

Californians Give N. U. No Chance to Win.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Northwestern's football squad of 34 players will arrive from Chicago tomorrow morning for its game with Stanford at Palo Alto Saturday. The 2,300 mile hop from Chicago was broken by stopovers at Laramie, Wyo., and Ogden, Utah, where Coach Dick Hanley held short workouts.

Once established in their headquarters at the William Taylor hotel, the players will face a busy round of activities until they leave for Chicago Saturday night. First on the program will be a luncheon tomorrow, sponsored by the Big Ten University club of San Francisco. Football coaches of the various teams hereabouts, including a former Chicagoan, Amos Alonzo Stagg, will greet the Purple.

Coach Picks Stanford.

This town is skeptical of Northwestern's chances. The Cardinals are well thought of, and experts can't possibly conceive how a team beaten by Iowa has a chance against Coach Tiny Thornhile's Stanford eleven.

Northwestern's aerial attack has been publicized on the coast, but has not served to sway favoritism from the local team. Scoffers are quick to hop on any suggestion that the Wildcats, aroused by the wounds inflicted by Iowa, may strike back with enough vigor to win.

Of course, an easterner can always stop discussion by recalling last year's Rose Bowl game, when Columbia conquered the mighty Stanford eleven, and there is the matter of Northwestern holding the "unbeatable" Cardinals to a 0 to 0 tie at Soldiers' field last year.

Weather Worries Scout.

Northwestern will work out tomorrow and Friday at the University of San Francisco, where Spud Lewis, back field coach at Northwestern two years ago, is head coach. He is assisted by Dal Marvil, captain of Northwestern's championship team of 1931.

Hanley will meet Litz Rusness, assistant coach, who came here two weeks ago to scout Stanford in its games with Santa Clara and Oregon State. Rusness is more concerned over the prevailing hot weather than he is about some of the Stanford players. The temperature was 87 yesterday, the hottest Oct. 9 in 25 years. Californians were quick to add, however, that such weather is most "unusual," and that it will be much cooler by game time Saturday.

GRAYSON IS OUT.

Palo Alto, Cal., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Bobby Grayson, Stanford full back, failed to appear at practice today for the third time this week and Dr. Fritz Roth, team physician, said it was probable he would not be in condition to play against Northwestern Saturday.

Coach Tiny Thornhill announced he would shift Bob Hamilton from right half back to full back, from where he would call signals. The first string played defense through a lengthy scrimmage today.

BUDWEISERS HIT 3,201 PINS, BEAT PABST 2 GAMES

Shooting a 3,201 series, high for the year, the Budweisers won two games from the leading Pabst Blue Ribbons last night in a Classic Bowling league match at the Peterson alleys. The only team to take three games was the Classics, who won from the second place Vrba Motors. Herby Freitag of the Pabsts shot the high series, 722, which was helped along by a 278 game. Scores:

No Slips Now! Iowa Puts New Cleats on Star

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Oze Simmons, Iowa's sensational half back, may be more dangerous against Nebraska Saturday than he was in the Western Conference opener with Northwestern last week, it was apparent today.

Simmons practiced running and dodging wearing new rubber cleats. The new equipment is similar to a mud cleat but longer and more pointed.

Dr. A. S. Fourt, Iowa medical advisor who received the cleats, pointed out that Simmons slipped twice when in the clear last Saturday, and that he did not displace the turf on either occasion. "This indicates to me that the standard cleats are not long enough to hold Simmons in making sharp turns," the medical advisor said.

The Iowans took another light workout today in preparation for the Cornhusker game. Varsity men drilled on forward passing and pass defense, and brushed up on new plays against a yearling team. Coach Ossie Solem limited the session to dummy scrimmage as a precaution against injuries. Iowa will entrain for Lincoln tomorrow night without a hard practice.

BEISE BACK WITH GOPHERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—After being out of the lineup since the North Dakota Aggie game Sept. 29, Sheldon Beise was back at full back as the University of Minnesota football team continued its preparations for Pittsburgh a week from Saturday. That move sent Stan Kostka, reserve full back, back to the second team.

The move was interpreted as meaning one of two things. Either Coach Bernie Bierman believes that Beise is behind the squad in conditioning or that he wants Beise on the varsity because of his superior blocking. At no time this season has Beise shown the scoring punch exhibited by Kostka, but in all around play is versatile and is more of a team man. Thus the move is regarded as a permanent one for the game with the Panthers.

Beise still showed a decided trace of the limp which placed him on the side lines for the Nebraska game last Saturday, but trainers declared that his leg is just about back to normal. However, Bierman said he would not scrimmage him for fear of aggravating the injury.

HOOSIERS ARE SHIFTED.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Coach Bo McMillin shifted Indiana university players today as he sought a combination to start against Temple at Philadelphia Saturday. Dissatisfied with the showing of several men in the Ohio State game, McMillin benched them in favor of reserves. The squad will leave for Philadelphia tomorrow night after a final home workout, and will practice Friday afternoon at Franklin-Marshall college at Harrisburg, Pa.

TABLE TENNIS, PING-PONG STARS MEET TONIGHT

Table tennis and ping-pong stars of the Chicago district will clash tonight for the first time in two years in the annual membership tournament of the Illinois Table Tennis association at the Stay and Play club, 168 West Monroe street. Max Rushakoff, runner-up to Sol Schiff of New York, national champion; Paul Pearson and Edwin Lewis, former national doubles champions, and Yoshio Fushimi, a Japanese, will head the list of table tennis stars, while the ping-pong experts will include Coleman Clark, Billy Condy, Carlton Prouty, Robert Ratcliffe, and Jerry Lavin.

Last night Flossie Basler and Helen Ovenden came through a field of thirty players to reach the finals of the women's singles. The finals of all events will be played Saturday evening.

Old Timer Gives Purdue a Lesson in Quick Kicking

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—W. S. Moore of South Bend, known as Smiling Billy Moore when he was a star half back on Purdue's elevens of forty years ago, came to Lafayette this afternoon at the invitation of Coach Noble Kizer to give the Boilermaker backs individual instruction in quick kicking in preparation for the game with Notre Dame Saturday.

Moore, who was the outstanding left half back on the Boilermaker elevens of 1894, 1895, 1896, and 1897 and who captained his team his senior year, was one of the first to perfect the quick kick. Old timers here today recalled what they called his "side boots" over the line that invariably caught the opposition by surprise.

This afternoon Moore devoted considerable time in demonstrating to Leon Dailey, Charles Wright, and other kickers the method he used so successfully. Duane Purvis, who normally handles Purdue's kicking, still was favoring his ankle injury, but he was among the most interested spectators.

A dummy scrimmage session on both offense and defense was held today. No more scrimmage is expected for the remainder of the week.

GOLF TEMPERAMENT.

THE WAKE'S attention was first called to Virginia Van Wie, recent winner of her third successive women's national golf title, about five years ago. The place was Deland, Fla., where the Van Wie family, originally of Michigan although Virginia played from Beverly of this city, was in the habit of wintering.

Our prophet was Mrs. John W. Douglass, then president of the Women's Western Golf association, now a resident of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Mrs. Douglass said that the youngster had the strokes and the temperament to make a champion, but refused to take seriously herself or her golf. Virginia liked to play, in fact played nearly the entire year either in Florida or around Chicago, but it was just a recreation, fun. She hadn't thought much about championships; did not care particularly about title worries.

Because of her position, naturally desiring a national ranking player from the Chicago district, also admiring the girl for her personality, modesty, and seeming lack of nerves on the links, Mrs. Douglass talked to Virginia, confiding her impressions. Miss Van Wie was greatly pleased, visibly impressed, tossed her head smilingly, and said, "O, perhaps some time, but it's so much more fun to just play without thinking about winning the tournament."

Shortly thereafter, however, Miss Van Wie evidently took her golf more seriously and began the climb which has resulted in her present eminence. Reading that she lost 15 pounds in weight during the national tourney which gave her her third national title, we wonder if she didn't have more fun when playing carefree golf.

It was at Deland, too, that we spent a week—on our way to report a fight in Miami—trying to break 100, a feat accomplished only twice in our 25 years of futile golfing. Passing Miss Van Wie on the course one afternoon we observed she was in a trap. Now we were spending the greater part of each afternoon in traps, so we stopped to get a pointer from this promising youngster. She looked at her lie a second, then took a spoon and drove the ball squarely upon the green nearly 175 yards away. That didn't help us much because our normal spoon shots, not in a trap and our ball teed up under the winter rules prevailing, were not good for 175 yards.

Later we saw Miss Van Wie's ball, which had missed the circus ring of a one shot hole, lying in a declivity which required a difficult pitch back to the green. With a niblick Virginia approached for a birdie 2. That didn't help our game any either, because we were not in the habit of approaching in.

So even if we didn't get any personal pointers adapted to our peculiar type of play from observation, The Wake is glad to see a player from the Chicago district retain her national honors, even at the expense of 15 pounds.

Those Deans.

You may think it mighty queer
That you almost never hear
Of a pair of guys that some way won the pennant.
They're such modest, quiet boys
That they hate to make a noise
For fear they might disturb the next door tenant.

O, it's Dean, Dean, Dean!
Tho' we've booed you and we've flayed you,
Mr. Breadon underpaid you.

little to say about last Saturday's licking. Actually we suspect he is glad Texas is out of the way. No one, at any time, ever has believed Notre Dame would win every game on its schedule. Miracles like that seldom happen. But Layden must be relieved to know that Notre Dame played hard football, fought intelligently, and when the Irish finished defeated, came out of the Texas battle with determination to improve.

The boys were out on the practice field this afternoon working on fundamentals. They've been drilling on fundamentals—blocking and tackling—ever since Layden took charge. And they'll continue along these lines until this team or its successor can offer an offense which will match the clean, accurate blocking and the precise timing that characterized the championship elevens of 1924, 1929, and 1930.

Layden is still a disciple of Rockne. The plays that Rockne devised, that Layden executed on Carter field ten years ago, still are the best, he believes, for advancing the ball. Layden has kept abreast of later developments by Rockne, but his goal is to produce a team which Rockne might be proud to claim as his own. He has no desire to introduce a Layden twist to the Notre Dame shift.

Merit Alone Counts.

It is important then, that Layden, like Rockne, still persists in having his players fight for a number one rating at their individual position. At every practice, and in every game, the five or six young men who ar right guards have opportunity to prove their ability. When such proof has been given, that player becomes the number one man, the champion of his group.

Eleven champions, Layden believes, will play championship football. In following out this policy Don Elser, the 215 pound full back from Gary, Ind.; Bill Smith, Hackettstown, N. J., right guard, and Jack Robinson, Huntington, N. Y., center, have replaced the men who were in the starting lineup against Texas. Other changes may be made.

You've never heard of John Paul Lauter? He's a left guard from Moundsville, W. Va., Lauter is 22 years of age, weighs 190 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch tall. It's no secret that Lauter is in the thick of the fight for the position now held by Rocco Schiralli.

That's the way the system works and one of these days Notre Dame will have its machine clicking. The boys hope that day is Saturday.

Kansas Aggies Drill in Chicago for Marquette

Kansas State college's football team, which has been practicing twice daily at Stagg field, will leave Chicago tomorrow morning for Milwaukee, Wis., where it will meet Marquette university tomorrow night. The squad arrived in Chicago last Tuesday from the east. It played a 13 to 13 tie with Manhattan college at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, last Saturday.

Trojans Work Out En Route to Pittsburgh

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 10.—[Special.]—En route to Pittsburgh for Saturday's intersectional game with the Pitt Panthers, the football squad of the University of Southern California worked out here this afternoon during a slight drizzle. Coach Howard Jones had 42 players in uniform.

Chief discussion centered around the last minute switch made by the Trojan coach in sending Russell Powers to the running guard position. Powers, a sophomore weighing 193 pounds, has not played one minute of varsity football. He was a full back and end on the frosh team last fall and started as fifth string full back this season. Jones has been dissatisfied with the interference, hence the decision to try Powers, who has shown to advantage in recent practices.

Belko May Play.

The Trojan first string lined up with Capt. Bescos and Harper, a former tackle, as ends; Jorgensen and Taisch as tackles, Sanders and Powers as guards, Kuhn at center, and Wotkyns, Reboin, Propst and Clements in the back field. Eight of the players are letter men, Sanders, Powers, and Kuhn being sophomores. The only others who are not seniors are Jorgensen and Propst.

Max Belko, regular left half back who was injured in the Washington State game, was in uniform again today and may be able to start.

Trojans Are Confident.

Inasmuch as the Trojans have never lost an intersectional game, except to Notre Dame, and have never dropped two straight games in the same season the squad is confident of beating Pittsburgh.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Jim Londos, world heavyweight wrestling champion, won in straight falls from Man Mountain Dean of Georgia before a crowd of 38,756 at Wrigley field tonight. The champion weighed 200 pounds, 118 less than his opponent.

The bewhiskered giant was pinned to the mat with a half-nelson after 21 minutes and 12 seconds for the first fall. Then Londos picked up Dean and heaved him backward out of the ring to take the second fall in 1:22.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Lord Derby, one of the outstanding sportsmen of Great Britain, presiding tonight at the Pilgrims' dinner in honor of T. O. M. Sopwith and the crew of the Endeavour, criticized the America's cup races as being too much business and not enough sport.

Sopwith himself, who was accorded as enthusiastic a welcome as though he had returned triumphant, referring to the differences of opinion which he hoped would be amicably settled so as to permit his challenging again, asked:

"After all, isn't this a sporting event? I feel that the America's cup has been put too much in a shop window. I can promise you that neither of us has been completely human during the last three weeks.

"As far as I am concerned, I have been unable to sleep at nights. It is ridiculous for us to get worked up to this level. I still am going on to get this on a sporting basis and not the sort of thing that leads to world wars."

Sopwith remarked that he returned with a feeling of disappointment, not because he was beaten but because he tried so hard to put the races on a different basis and had failed.

He paid a glowing tribute to Rainbow's crew, which he called "the finest crew I ever saw in my life." Likewise he praised his own amateur crew, saying: "They were better than any crew I ever sailed with in British waters."

One hard and fast tradition of the Pilgrims was broken by the presence of a woman at the dinner. She was Mrs. Sopwith.

De Paul Tests Defense for Dayton Plays

De Paul university football players were sent through another scrimmage against Dayton university plays yesterday. They had looked none too impressive the previous afternoon as they scrimmaged with freshmen, but they showed noticeable improvement in yesterday's drill.

Dayton, with a veteran squad, is expected to give De Paul its most severe test of the season tomorrow night at Loyola stadium.

Zang, captain and quarter back of the Ohio team, must be watched every minute, the squad was told. He is a triple threat, in addition to being a smart field general and a dangerous man on pass defense.

Three members of the De Paul line who have earned attention are Maurice Washburne, tackle; Marv Casey, center, and Norman Mertes, guard. Washburne has missed only two minutes of action in the first two games.

Harold Carlson, who has been handicapped by injuries, should lend support to the De Paul line tomorrow night. This 205 pounder is one of the best linemen on the squad.

HILDUR PRINCE WINS HANDILY AT SPORTSMAN PARK

Miss Flip Is Second and Annan Third.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Hildur Prince, a noted half mile track race horse, rolled up his second victory in three days at Sportsman's Park yesterday. He took the lead at the beginning of the Cicero purse, which was at a mile and seventy yards, and he stayed in front to the finish.

When the race ended Hildur Prince was leading by two lengths with Miss Flip second and Annan third. The three year old son of Hildur-Caress, owned by C. Trott, a downstate turfman, is highly bred and on his mother's side of the house is a grandson of the once famous Dick Wells.

Winner Pays $14.12.

Despite his brilliant triumph on Monday he was slightly neglected in the betting and paid off at $14.12 for a two dollar ticket. Miss Flip and Annan, the second and third horses, had been stoutly supported by most of the spectators in the crowd of 6,000.

It was the veteran Jocky Johnny Leyland who sent Hildur Prince from an outside post position to the front before the field of eight rounded the clubhouse turn. Leyland did not permit Hildur Prince to lose an inch of ground. Longdon, the star half-mile track rider on Miss Flip, was in trouble most of the way. Miss Flip probably was best, but because she was not familiar with the short turns she lost so much ground it was impossible for her to catch Hildur Prince in the short dash down the stretch.

Third Straight Victory.

This was Hildur Prince's third straight victory. He captured a six furlong event at Fairmount Park before moving over into the Chicago racing center. It was his fourth victory in the last five starts he has made.

Handicappers who expect winners to roll out of a box as if they were taking orders from a major general tore their hair most of the afternoon, yet the horses with the most backing were winning during a good part of the program.

The stoutest backed horse to score was Atmosphere. Few favorites have won more impressively on any track in Chicago this season than he did. Jocky Longdon shot him to the front at the lift of the barrier and he never left the result in doubt, although Sun Manor and Dr. Louis Hamman were challenging most of the time. Atmosphere paid $6.28.

Fitkin ran just like a favorite should step to town in the third race. His victory marked the first trip past the winning post for Louie Dupre, the most sensational young jocky developed in Canada in many seasons. Dupre judged the pace to perfection in this 6½ furlong dash which carried the field twice past the stands and clubhouse. He was up in time to trim Just Buck and Fountain by a length or a little more. Fitkin paid off at $7.10.

Favorite Players Happy.

The handicappers might have been angry about these two victories, but the favorite players were in a jubilant frame of mind. Dupre and Longdon, the winning jockies, are noted for the victories they roll up on half-mile tracks, where they must know just how to manipulate the reins to keep the horses from dashing to the outside fence on the sharp turns.

Paul Keester put in another bad afternoon. Those turns seem to baffle him. He finally won on May May in the sixth race. Max had to be much the best, for Keester let him race wide all the way.

3 HORSES ARE DISQUALIFIED IN LAUREL FEATURE

Truly Yours Wins $4,860 After Ruling.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 10.—(AP)—A triple disqualification, one of the rarities of racing, snatched first, third, and fourth money from S. W. Labrot today in the fourth running of the $5,000 Maryland futurity, a 6 furlong dash for 2 year olds foaled in the state, at Laurel.

The Labrot entry, odds on choice, finished with Tool Box leading the field of eight, Little Dinah in third place, and Kings Pleasure a close fourth. J. W. Y. Martin's Truly Yours was between Tool Box and Little Dinah and was moved up to first place after the disqualification. Frank Hayes' Memorable, which finished fifth, was placed second and Adams' Eve third.

The race was a roughly run affair from flagfall to finish with Adam's Even bumped out of contention rounding the turn. In the dash down the final straightaway the Labrot trio apparently ganged Truly Yours, forming a flying wedge that kept the Martin colt, the only challenger left in the lists, in a tight pocket.

Johnny Gilbert, up on Truly Yours, jammed his mount through between the Labrot horses, but was bumped by Tool Box and knocked off his stride. He continued on gamely, however, and was only a length back of Tool Box at the finish. Little Dinah was just a nose to the rear while King's Pleasure weakened in the final strides and finished two and one-half lengths back of his stablemate.

The action of the stewards netted Martin $4,860 and gave backers of Truly Yours $9.60 for each $2 win ticket.

PROFITS VITAL TO PRIVATE RAIL RULE---EASTMAN

Warns Shippers Aid Must Be Given.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Speaking at two meetings in Chicago yesterday, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, at one warned shippers that it was largely up to them if railroads were to continue in private ownership, and at the other reiterated his position that all forms of transportation in this country must be regulated through a single control.

"Apparently the business men of the country want the railroads, and in fact all transportation agencies, to be privately owned and operated," the coördinator said in his talk before the Association of Commerce. "However, if they do they must realize that private enterprise and profit go hand in hand, and that it is impossible in the long run for privately owned transportation agencies to be operated successfully and give good service unless they enjoy a fair degree of prosperity.

Goal Is Coördinated System.

"Of course prosperity cannot be expected in the immediate present, but I am speaking of the future. If no thought is given to the development of a well coördinated national system of transportation and government money is poured into the construction of new means of transportation without regard to the effect upon those which already exist in the greatest profusion, and if, on top of all this, competition between rival forms of transportation is allowed to run riot, there can be no end but complete demoralization.

"It is for this reason that I hope that shippers will look beyond immediate and fugitive advantages which they may expect to gain from a transportation free for all, and see how much more they have to gain in the long run from a policy of coördinated public regulation of all importation forms of transportation, which will promote order and stability, aim at safe, reliable and responsible service at known and dependable rates, prevent unjust discrimination and destructive competition, encourage coöperation and coördination, and steer clear of the path to demoralization and chaos."

Rails Also Need Protection.

Declaring that it is exceedingly difficult to obtain consideration of the transportation system from the standpoint of the general public interest, Eastman said:

"Public regulation was originally devised for the protection of the shippers against the railroads, but I have at times been moved to reflect that it is as much needed to protect the railroads against the shippers, to say nothing of bankers, labor, railroad supply houses, tax gatherers and the railroads themselves. Some may say that they also need protection against the regulators."

Eastman described in some detail studies which his aids have made with respect to less than carload shipments. He said that it has been found that this division is exceedingly costly and is unable to compete with truck competition for many reasons. Recommendations for improvement of this service have been received coolly by the railroad executives, he asserted.

The coördinator said that the recommendations would permit the concentration of trafic so that it could be handled economically and at speeds comparable to those attained by passenger trains. It is also proposed to simplify the rate structure and to make packing requirements less onerous.

Expects Important Developments.

Eastman said that it is his own conviction the railroad industry is on the verge of important developments in equipment, operation, service and rates, and that in this connection it will find that it is able to work with, and even to utilize to a large extent, new forms of transportation. More and more railroads will engage in the business of transportation rather than just railroading, he said.

At the American Life meeting Eastman, discussing regulation, said:

"Public regulation of all forms of transfortation cannot be imposed for the benefit of railroads alone. It must have due regard for the interests of each and every form. You may dismiss from your minds any thought that public regulation will remove highway, or water, or air competitors from the railroad path. These forms of transportation meet public needs which otherwise would not be met and are here to stay."

Eastman suggested that provision be made to give financial assistance in the reorganization of companies in difficulties. He said that he and his associates are working on a plan for revising the bankruptcy act to speed early reorganizations.

Grains Surge Higher; Wheat Rises 3 Cents

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

With a lightning change in sentiment such as has been rarely seen in recent months the grain market surged forward yesterday to stage one of the most impressive advances that has been witnessed in some time. Wheat prices were bid up nearly 3 cents a bushel and other grains were caught in the movement and carried forward for sharp gains.

A variety of influences were at play in the market. News from abroad was bullish and foreign markets were higher, but the real spark was supplied by the news out of Washington which represented the Roosevelt administration as seeking still higher price level and not, as has been generally believed in the trade, ready to put the brakes on the commodity markets.

Actual Policy Vague.

The policy of the administration flashed to the trading floor was somewhat vague to most speculators, but it provided the immediate excuse for staging an advance which appeared to find its real justification in fundamental factors which have been impotent market forces recently.

A broadening out in the trading was perceptible in the pits. Commission house buying came in and the strong demand which has been in evidence for several days from elevator and milling interests held up. Many pit operators who tried to buck the rise in the hope of making a quick turn were forced to buy in and helped the movement along.

Foreign developments dovetailed neatly with domestic events to form a bullish pattern of the day's news. Wheat climbed about 1½ cents a bushel in Liverpool as reports credited continental Europe with reëntering the market.

Export Sales 2 Million Bushels.

Sales of Canadian wheat for export were estimated at upwards of 2,000,000 bushels and in the Winnipeg market wheat sold 2½ cents higher. An increasing export demand is expected in Canada because of the declining Argentine surplus.

Gains in wheat futures yesterday ranged from 2¾ cents a bushel for the December contract, which closed at 99⅝ cents, to 3 cents for the July future. The final sale in the May contracts was made at 99⅞ cents, or just a tick under the dollar market.

In the corn pit events were influenced largely by the action in wheat and this cereal ran up from 1⅝ to 1⅞ cents a bushel with the December delivery closing at 75¾ cents.

One of the features of the day's market was the steady demand for oats, which showed independent strength and moved ahead 1⅝ to 2⅛ cents a bushel on a good volume of trade.

W. R. MOREHOUSE QUITS RACE FOR BANKER OFFICE

A rift that threatened the peace of the American Bankers' association convention at Washington two weeks hence was healed yesterday when W. R. Morehouse of the Security-First National bank of Los Angeles, announced the withdrawal of his candidacy for second vice president of the organization in favor of Tom K. Smith, president of the Boatman's National bank of St. Louis.

Morehouse, who, according to tradition of the A. B. A., was in line for the position, yielded to groups within the organization who wished to boost Smith into the job because of his Washington connections and his ability as a public speaker. Smith for a time was special advisor to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

The second vice president to be elected at this year's A. B. A. convention, according to tradition, automatically will become president of the association two years hence.

Col. William G. Edens, vice president of the Terminal National bank of Chicago and chairman of the A. B. A. nominating committee for Illinois, gave out Morehouse's withdrawal announcement.

FRANC STAMPEDE HALTS; STERLING FALLS 2¾ CENTS

New York, Oct. 10.—[Special.]—The foreign exchange market today set about correcting the excess of the previous day when news of the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia caused a scramble out of francs into sterling. The pound fell to $4.89⅞ and closed at $4.90, off 2¾ cents net. The franc rose to 6.62 cents, up ¾ point net. This did not recoup the previous day's loss, but indicated that the stampede away from the franc had been halted.

In keeping with the rise of the franc the dollar was lower, closing at 59.18 cents against 59.23 cents yesterday.

The London gold price dipped 3 pence to 142 shillings 6 pence a fine ounce (equivalent to $35.04), and bars valued at $2,198,122 were sold.

Total 1,417,000,000; Wheat Up Slightly.

The government's estimate of the amount of corn the country will produce this year was pared down again in the monthly report issued yesterday. The crop reporting board fixed the prospective production at 1,417,000,000 bushels, which is sixty-eight million bushels below its own estimate of a month ago, and confirms bullish estimates made ten days ago by private forecasters.

The crop is the smallest in 40 years, and a billion bushels below what is now regarded as a normal crop.

Wheat Total 497 Million Bushels.

The government's estimate on the total wheat crop of the country was 497,000,000 bushels, only a slight change from the estimate made last month. The government now figures that the total of spring wheat produced was 96,500,000 bushels, or about 4 million bushels more than it forecast at the beginning of September.

As was previously estimated, the total winter wheat crop was 401,000,000 bushels, bringing up the combined wheat total to 497,000,000 bushels, or between 125 and 150 million bushels below normal domestic wheat consumption. The deficiency will be made up from the surplus stocks carried over last year, but definitly removes this country from the export field.

5,952,000 Bushels of Durum.

Included in the spring wheat production is 5,952,000 bushels of durum wheat, compared with 6,100,000 bushels a month ago, 16,000,000 bushels last year and 61,000,000 bushels, the five year average.

The government's estimate of the oats crop was 546,000,000 bushels, which is the same figure that was given a month ago. The private estimates issued ten days ago indicated a crop of 522,000,000 bushels. Although the government made no further reduction in its estimate on oats the fact that this year's and last year's crop together amount to only an average crop gives an idea of the situation regarding this important grain.

Estimates Stocks on Farms.

The report also listed estimates of the farm stocks of wheat, corn, and oats as of Oct. 1. Corn on the farm was estimated at 264,873,000 bushels which, added to this year's crop, with the visible supply, makes a total of 1,742,000,000 bushels available for use from now until the next season's crop is harvested. On the same basis a year ago, 2,707,000,000 bushels were available, or nearby a billion bushels more than today.

Farm stocks of wheat were placed at 234,284,000 bushels, which compared with 309,651,000 a year ago, 415,066,000 two years ago and 498,3°3,000 three years ago. Farm stocks of oats were estimated at 460,950,000 as compared with 600,629,000 bushels a year ago.

The government's report on crop conditions in this country was not issued until after the close of the market and did not come in for consideration in yesterday's trading.

Confirm Green as Trustee of Middle West

Daniel C. Green was appointed permanent trustee for the Middle West Utilities company yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Mr. Green, who served as president of the company during the greater part of the receivership period, will serve in the new capacity pending the reorganization of the big holding company under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act. Green has served as temporary trustee since the reorganization petition was filed several weeks ago.

D. C. GREEN.

Acting upon request of a group of stockholders, Judge Wilkerson also took under advisement a petition for the appointment of an additional trustee of trustees.

New Unit Asks Debt Relief.

At the same time, another former Insull company yesterday entered the federal court seeking debt relief under the new bankruptcy act. The firm is the Inland Power and Light corporation of Virginia, a subsidiary of the Commonwealth Light and Power company, which filed a similar petition on Tuesday. The Commonwealth company is an intermediate holding company of the Middle West Utilities system, and the petition of its subsidiary is part of a general reorganization plan.

Green's selection as trustee has been expected for some time. He was the active operating head of the company under Receivers Charles A. McCulloch and the late Edward N. Hurley and later under McCulloch, when he was serving as sole receiver.

Reorganization Plan in Air.

Creditors and stockholders of Middle West have as yet failed to get together on a program of reorganization. The noteholders, who have claims of $40,000,000 against the company, failed in their efforts to raise cash to buy out the banks who hold secured claims. The common stockholders are now negotiating to raise money for a similar scheme.

Satisfaction with the naming of Green as permanent trustee was expressed yesterday by Robert N. Golding, attorney for the noteholders, and by Herbert A. Friedlich, attorneys for the banks. Mr. Fredlich said the interests he represents feel Mr. Green is a thoroughly competent utility operator and he should have the job alone. He added that his group saw no reason for naming more than one trustee.

On the other hand, Orville J. Taylor, attorney for a committee of common stock holders, said his group felt that it would be better if the affairs of the company were administered by co-trustees.

FLOYD HUNT MAY BE NAMED BANK EXAMINER HERE

Floyd Hunt, former national bank examiner and now an officer of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, may be named as chief national bank examiner for the Chicago district, it was learned yesterday.

Hunt is being sponsored by Senators Lewis and Dieterich [Dem., Ill.], according to advices from Washington. Two other candidates are running for the job, it was reported, one a bank examiner in Missouri and the other an examiner in Kentucky. Names of these two were not available.

Hunt is the son of Robert R. Hunt, originally of Decatur, who was fiscal agent for the subtreasury here under the Wilson administration. He has served as a national bank examiner in Chicago, Cleveland, and St. Louis.

The office of chief national bank examiner for this district has been vacant since last March, when William Taylor left the job to take a bank position in Milwaukee. The district includes northern and central Illinois and Indiana, all of Iowa, southern and central Wisconsin, and the lower Michigan peninsula.

Sixteen Chain and Mail Concerns' Sales Rise 13.1%

September sales volume for sixteen chain and mail order companies aggregated $101,567,419, a gain of 13.1 per cent over the like period of last year.

UNION PACIFIC PLANS 40 HOUR LOS ANGELES, CHICAGO TEST RUN

After completion of preliminary tests the new streamlined train of the Union Pacific is to make a run between Los Angeles and New York which it is expected will take 60 hours or less, the road announced yesterday. The tests are to be completed within ten days and the train is to be put on exhibit in Los Angeles Oct. 21, following which the run will be made.

The train, which is to operate over the tracks of the North Western between Chicago and Omaha, is expected to make the journey here from the coast in about 40 hours.

The fastest train time ever made between Los Angeles and Chicago was that of a chartered train carrying Walter Scott [Death Valley Scotty] in July, 1905, which made the journey in 44 hours 53 minutes. The present coast to coast record was set by a special train in which E. H. Harriman in May, 1906, made the run from San Francisco to New York in 71 hours 27 minutes.

POWER OUTPUT SHOWS FIRST GAIN IN MONTH

Production Up .8 Pct. Over Year Ago.

Production of electricity in the United States last week showed an increase over a year ago for the first time in more than a month, with a gain of .8 per cent, against a drop of .2 per cent in the preceding week. Chicago output rose 1.8 per cent, against a loss of .7 per cent in the preceding week.

Total output for the nation was 1,659,192,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,648,976,000 in the preceding week, Edison Electric institute announced yesterday.

Output in the Chicago district amounted to 101,231,000 kilowatt hours, against 100,732,000 in the preceding week and 99,435,000 in the corresponding week of last year. This is the fourth consecutive week in which the Commonwealth Edison company has reported a normal upward seasonal trend. The percentage comparison with last year shows an increase for the second time in the last six weeks.

Week ended	1934.	1933.	Per cent change.
Oct. 6	101,231,000	99,435,000	+1.8
Sept. 29	100,732,000	101,429,000	—0.7
Sept. 22	99,820,000	97,109,000	+2.8
Sept. 15	99,824,000	100,477,000	—0.8

Regional gains over a year ago compared with gains reported in the preceding week were as follows: Middle Atlantic, 2 per cent, against 2.7 per cent; west central, 6.4, against 2.3, and Pacific coast, 7, against 7.8. The Rocky mountain states gained 1.4 per cent, compared with a loss of 7.4 per cent in the preceding week.

Losses from a year ago compared with declines reported in the preceding week included: New England, 4.6 per cent, against 5.9 per cent; central industrial, 0.9, against 1.9, and southern states, 0.6, against 2.4.

North Western Nearly Covers Charges Last Month

Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway, said today he estimated his road "came very close" to earning fixed charges in September. Gross for the month, he said, was estimated at about the same figure as was reported in the same month last year, while net operating income was somewhat under a year ago. Loadings so far in October are running about 9.1 per cent above 1933, he said.

Banks and All Exchanges Will Close Tomorrow

Banks and principal stock and commodity exchanges throughout the country will be closed tomorrow, in observance of Columbus day.

These include the New York Stock and Curb exchanges, Chicago Stock exchange, Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Mercantile exchange, and New Orleans Cotton exchange. Normal activity will be maintained at the Chicago Union Stockyards. An extra holiday will be observed Saturday by the New York Commodity exchange and Coffee and Cocoa exchange.

Foreign markets will be open as usual, with the exception of the Buenos Aires Grain exchange.

Asserts TVA Offers Power to Memphis

New York, Oct. 10.—[Special.]—The Tennessee Valley Authority addressed a letter to the city authorities of Memphis, Tenn., on Sept. 29, advising that the Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals was nearing completion and that the cost of building a transmission line from the dam to furnish electricity to Memphis was economically feasible, C. E. Groesbeck, chairman of the Electric Bond and Share company, told stockholders today.

The letter also pointed out that the government had no power available now, but within about two years would have ample power to serve the city, he said. Memphis will vote Nov. 6 on a bond issue of $9,000,000 for the purchase or construction of an electric power plant.

"Can't" Accept State Rule.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Testifying at a hearing before the state regulatory body, David E. Lilienthal, power director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, expressed the opinion today that provisions of the constitution will prevent the TVA from "voluntarily" accepting regulation by state agencies.

The hearing involves the sale of Tennessee Public Service company properties at and near Knoxville to the TVA for $6,191,000.

Forney Johnston, counsel for petitioners objecting to the sale had previously asserted that he was "amazed at the efforts of representatives of the TVA to block this inquiry into the transaction."

Johnston demanded a TVA report on which a standard schedule of power rates was based and was told by Llewellyn Evans, chief TVA electrical engineer, that he could not give a "preview" of the report until it had been submitted to President Roosevelt.

Further Price Rise Desired by Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt feels that commodity prices should go a little higher before an attempt is made to stabilize the price level. The President was described today believing that considerable progress had been made in the last year and a half to bring the nation's assets and liabilities to a more balanced relationship, but that the asset column should go still higher.

It was emphasized, however, that prices would be prevented from going through the roof, so to speak, and that when a reasonable level was reached, attempts would be made to keep them there.

In this connection, it was said, the price situation might be a factor in determining the administration's future monetary policy.

Believe Assets Have Climbed.

Officials pointed out that a year and a half ago the nation's liabilities exceeded the assets. They now feel that the asset column has gone a little beyond the liabilities, but not far enough.

The price stabilization studies being made by the President and his advisers were described as showing that in the period from 1920 up to the present, prices have fluctuated as much as 500 to 1,000 per cent. It is these wide disparities over short periods that Mr. Roosevelt was said to be trying to avoid in steering the nation toward a more permanent level.

It was emphasized that the President does not want run-away prices or run-away values, and is not wedded to the theory that the new price levels sought should coincide completely with the level of 1926.

Plan to Clear Bank Situation.

The President disclosed he had discussed with J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, plans for cleaning up the non-licensed bank situation through the lending facilities of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Under the RFC plan the corporation would lend money on all remaining assets of unlicensed banks provided they were put up for immediate disposal.

BELL SYSTEM'S EARNINGS NEAR DIVIDEND NEEDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 10.—With some improvement in business and a few dividend reductions, operating companies in the Bell system have reached a point, it is understood, where the dividends in the aggregate are being earned.

While these companies failed by $23,570,000 to earn dividends paid in 1933, the gap was narrowed considerably in the first six months of this year, when they came within one million dollars of making the payments.

Evanston Banker to Direct Marine National, Erie, Pa.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Directors of the Marine National bank today announced the retirement of William E. Beckwith as active head of the institution after serving as president for 45 years. Carl E. H. Johnson of the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston, Ill., will assume direction of the bank as executive vice president.

GASOLINE PRICE AGAIN CUT AS WAR CONTINUES

Rival Interests Vie for Advantage.

Chicago's newest gasoline war got under way in deadly earnest yesterday when both the major and independent companies announced further reductions in price, with the scale of independents continuing below those of their rivals.

Standard Oil Company of Indiana led the attack with an announcement that effective at the opening of business this morning prices at Chicago service stations would be reduced 1 cent a gallon on the regular and one-half cent on the third grade to met competitive prices. The rest of the major companies, including Shell, Sinclair, and Pure Oil, followed suit.

New Price Scale 13.3 Cents.

The new prices are 13.3 cents a gallon for regular and 12.8 cents for third grade, both including taxes. The ethyl product remains the same at 16.3 cents a gallon.

Following the announcement by the majors, the Independent Brands Petroleum association announced that its prices, effective this morning, will be 11.9 cents a gallon for the third grade, 12.8 cents a gallon for the regular, and 13.8 cents for high test. The independents do not handle the ethyl product.

Declaring the independents will fight the price war to a finish, L. M. Foster, president, asserted that former differences of opinion which had existed among the membership regarding the advisability of price cutting had vanished and that all are now determined to sink or swim together.

Reject Peace Offering.

Foster said the major companies had made a peace offering on Wednesday with a proposition to put their third grade gasoline at 15.8 cents a gallon provided that the independents would agree to maintain a differential of half a cent under the major concern's prices.

"We turned that offer down," Foster stated.

Foster asserted that the association as a whole and the members individually have telegraphed to Harold L. Ickes, petroleum code administrator, at Washington requesting that the federal government step in and see that some common sense is exercised in Chicago.

In addition to price cuts in Chicago Standard of Indiana announced yesterday that the prices of regular gasoline will be reduced 1 cent a gallon, and third grade a half cent in Minneapolis, while the prices of both regular and third grade will be cut 1 cent a gallon each in St. Louis.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey announced a cut of 2 cents a gallon in the service station and tank wagon prices of gasoline throughout its territory excepting Delaware. The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, a subsidiary, made a similar cut.

For every dollar which the law requires it to hold as a legal reserve, the Continental Assurance Company has $1.25.

That surplus of 25% over and above its legal reserve is protection plus for Continental's policyholders. It is far more than twice the average surplus (11%) of all American life insurance companies combined.

The immense reserve strength built up by Continental's careful management explains the public confidence which has made Chicago's strongest life insurance company also Chicago's largest life insurance company.

Continental has never ceased to grow. Its insurance in force gained $50,000,000 in the 5 years from 1929 to 1933.

Continental offers special advantages to its policyholders in Chicago. Write or phone for the new booklet which will tell you how you can help yourself through Continental service. It will be mailed without obligation to you.

STOCKS SOAR ON NEW FEARS OF INFLATION

Prices Advance from 1 to 3 Points; Trading Heavy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 10.—President Roosevelt's remarks concerning the necessity for a further rise in prices sounded to speculative Wall street like the preliminary rumblings of another inflationary move of some sort and stocks were bought in anticipation of the "prime"—whatever it may be. Activity reached the best pace in weeks, the total mounting close to the million share mark. Quoted values were marked up 1 to 3 points in nearly all departments.

Some of the buying was of a scale calculated to revive the street's usual stock suspicion when the "big fellows" are active that somebody had "inside" information on the prospects. It has been a matter of comment for the better part of two years that pronounced market rallies are usually the heralds of some fresh New Deal experiment.

Rise Unwarranted By News.

Certainly business statistics were scarcely cheering enough to account for the sudden display of enthusiasm and still more evidently the news from abroad during the last twenty-four hours has not been of a nature to revive any sudden burst of new confidence in the future of corporation securities.

Self appointed prophets have been crying from the house-tops for some time that some high powered inflation is on the card for the next few months, especially in view of the admission by administration spokesmen that budget balancing will have to be postponed.

The rally was especially marked in farm implement stocks, which were carried along on the general tide of rising prices and on the special current of higher wheat and cotton markets. Case climbed 3½ points and International Harvester rose more than 2. The mail order issues followed suit as usual, Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck rising about 2 points.

Store Stocks Active.

Merchandising shares again were the early favorites, a large proportion of the total turnover being done in low priced issues such as McCrory, McLellan, City Stores, Hahn, and Bellas Hess. Preferred stocks of Associated Dry Goods jumped 6 to 9 points.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were the rule for the wet group—Commercial Alcohol, Distillers, Industrial Alcohol, and Schenley. Air brake stocks had a quick rise on a story of large scale orders. New York Air Brake rose 4 points and Westinghouse Air Brake 3½.

The rails gave a good account of themselves despite the poor traffic showing of last week, Atchison, New York Central, and Union Pacific being among the group favorites. Utilities, on the other hand, derived little help from the rise in power production.

RISE HALTS IN LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The stock exchange was not unduly disturbed today by the assassinations at Marseilles, but the upward tendency of recent days has been checked, at least temporarily. Dealers lowered quotations protectively, but there was no pressure to sell.

Stock Exchange Cuts Wages Following Stock Trading

New York, Oct. 10.—[Special.]—Slack trading on the New York Stock exchange during recent months has led the governing committee of the exchange to reduce salaries of all employés 10 per cent, effective Oct. 16. Salaries of employés without dependents will not be reduced below $17.50 a week, and for employés with dependents not below $27.50.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 10.—A 2¼ point recovery in Jugo-Slavia Mortgage bank 7s, erasing the loss of the day before, featured trading on the bond market today. German government 7s rose 3 points and the 5½s advanced 2¼ points, together with other central European government and industrial issues.

French 7s and 7½s, Poland 7s, Rumanian 7s, and Serbian 7s were also stronger for the day, with the foreign bond average gaining 12 cents in fair trading. South American bonds were steady and fractionally higher with the European group.

Volume Declines.

Volume in United States government issues totaled $3,330,000, against $7,400,000 the day before, with many declines attributed to the speeches of President Roosevelt on restoring prices and of Donald R. Richberg on the budget. Trading in all bonds amounted to $11,143,000, against $14,566,000 Tuesday.

Combined averages rose 23 points under the leadership of the rails, which gained 36 points. Great activity and strength centered in New York Central and Southern Pacific issues, and gains occurred in Atchison general 4s, Burlington 4½s, Milwaukee 5s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, Northern Pacific general 3s, and Philadelphia and Reading 6s. Louisville and Arkansas 1st 5s declined.

Traction Issues Active.

In the utility section, local traction companies were active and mostly firmer. B. M. T. 6s, I. R. T. 6s, and Hudson and Manhattans were strong, while Interborough 7s declined. Buffalo General Electrics, Detroit Edisons, and Postal Telegraph 5s were also firmer.

In the industrial group gains occurred in American Rolling Mills 5s, Goodrich 6s, McCrory 5½s, McKesson and Robbins 5½s, National Dairy Products 5¼s, Pressed Steel Car 5s, Studebaker 6s, and United Drug 6s.

Houston Oil.

Investors' Guide: Would you kindly give me such information as you have on Houston Oil?—S. W. W.

Answer: Houston Oil company of Texas started business in 1901 as a lumber company. When the lumber on its 800,000 acres of land was mostly cleared off, the company organized a subsidiary, which is still active, to sell the property in small lots. In 1918 the company began the development of oil and gas on its properties.

Today it is primarily a producer and transporter of natural gas. It has large reserves. Its 775 mile pipe line system serves Houston, Galveston and other communities. Much of its output is sold to large scale users, such as Texas Gulf Sulphur, Houston Light and Power, and Freeport Texas company.

Oil interests have been expanded since 1930, but output has been restricted by proration measures. This end of the business is still comparatively small.

Firmer prices, increased demand for natural gas, as well as a slight improvement in the petroleum situation, resulted in a net income of $365,000, or 9 cents per common share, for the first half of 1934, against loss of $735,000 for the corresponding 1933 period.

Loss of $487,000 in 1933 compared with loss of $902,000 for 1932 and loss of $356,000 for 1931. In 1930 net income was $1,655,000 or $1.02 per common share, against net income of $1,731,000 for 1929.

Current position at the close of 1933 was strong. Cash alone was three times current liabilities, while current assets were more than five times total current liabilities.

Funded debt, due 1940, totals $9,980,000." There are outstanding 357,904 shares of 6 per cent, $25 par cumulative preferred and 1,098,618 shares of $25 par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since Feb. 1, 1932, while nothing has ever been paid on the common.

The preferred is speculative and the common more so.

Gold Standard Countries.

Investors' Guide: To settle an argument, please advise who is right. Mr. A claims that in France, Holland, Belgium, and Switzerland one can take any amount of paper money [above certain minimum amounts] issued by those countries to their respective banks or central banks and they will redeem that paper money in gold, on demand, to the full amount that is stated on the paper money. Mr. B claims that you can get gold in those countries only by paying premium, or cannot get it at all.—C. W. J.

Answer: Mr. A is correct.

HOGS SUSTAIN FURTHER LOSS; TRADE LIFELESS

Prices Hit Lowest Point Since Aug. 15.

Hogs slumped 10 to 25 cents to the lowest spot since Aug. 15 in yesterday's lifeless trade. Buyers displayed a bearish front to sellers' early demands for a steady price basis and trading on the bulk of the receipts held fire for several hours. Some interests remained on the fence until sellers were ready to grant concessions and then forced quotations down unevenly 10 to 25 cents. Light weight hogs showed the full weakness, some averaging under 180 pounds and indicating a drop of 50 cents in two days. Bulk of the 200 to 300 pound butchers were down 10 to 20 cents.

Continued warm weather affected the trade for fresh pork and comparatively light receipts of hogs and small tonnage of pork in the runs had little influence on the buying side. Hog prices have gone down $1.70 to $1.80 since the high point in 1934 was established, Aug. 29.

Farm Return Cut 23 Per Cent.

Returns to farmers from hogs have been cut 23 per cent on the average in the last six weeks by the sharp break in prices. Selected 215 pound light butchers cost packers a top of $8.50, of which $6.25 went to the farmer and $2.25 to the federal government as processing tax. Packers' average cost of droves, tax included, amounted to $8.10, while of the bulk that cost packers from $7.65 to $8.40 the farmer obtained $5.40 to $6.15.

Several carloads of extremely heavy hogs were here yesterday, averaging in weight from 350 to 560 pounds and costing packers from $7.50 to $8.25. A shipment of 41 Wisconsin 3 year old hogs averaging 559 pounds cost the packer a total of $1,720, of which $516 was tax that had to go to the federal government, at the rate of $12.60 per hog.

Cattle Barely Steady.

Cattle made slow progress, the bulk bringing barely steady prices. Some instances of slight declines were noted in midsession. Top cornfed steers stopped at $10, while the bulk sold within a range of $6 to $9. The proportion of the run selling below $6 was smaller than usual and some action was found in the market for these kinds at times during the day. Thin grassy cattle ranged downwards to $3 in small lots. Butcher stocks changed hands slowly.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Miscellaneous.

6—MEN—6.

J. W. Martin.

Above is the name of a man whom we started in business for himself last Monday morning. The first four days in our business he made, on percentage basis, net $96.00 for himself, or $24.00 per day. This man was a carpenter, out of work for some time, with no experience in our line.

This week we will start in Chicago, south side and suburbs, six more men on the road to success with our prosperous company, who, owing to our unusual electrical unit, plus our unique merchandising plan which develops prospects faster than you can handle them, have increased our business every month during the depression with this month of October being the biggest in history.

We have associated with us as associate dealers, which we finance with no investment to them, everything from stock to accounts, ex-plumbers, doctors, farmers, barbers, salesmen, lawyers, clerks, etc., who are earning from $50.00 to $150.00 per week.

The six men I am now ready to place must be honest, reliable, trustworthy, teachable and between the ages of 25 and 50.

Every applicant granted a personal interview and if you qualify you will receive a complete factory branch training at no expense to you, plus assistance in the development of your business by experts.

If you really need a permanent position and have a grammar school education, apply Thursday between 1:00 and 3:00, suite 404, 841 E. 63d-st. [one block east of Cottage Grove]. Ask for Personnel Director.

for several married men of good appearance, between 30-45 yrs. of age, to meet our customers; outstanding percentage opportunity for men experienced in meeting people; a permanent connection with regular weekly pay. If selected arrangements will be made to place you with one of our nearby furniture establishments. Apply

OLDSMOBILE—SEDAN, 1933, DE LUXE with side mounts and every conceivable extra. The finish has not a mar on it. Expensive broadcloth upholstery. The tires are excellent. Go over the motor with a fine tooth comb and you'll agree that it's the last word. See this auto—drive it—and then compare it with anything else in Chicago. Our price is just $675, and it won't remain long at that figure. Don't miss this one!

FORD—CONV. ROADSTER, 1932, HERE IS one of the handsomest cars of its kind in town, for it has low slung lines and a world of power and pep. Was owned by a wealthy North Shore family, who gave it the best of care. Specially priced at only $326.

PACKARD—SEDAN, '30 DE LUXE 8 THAT'S as nice a Packard as you could find anywhere. The finish, upholstery, tires, and motor are really 100%. This car never left the Chicago boulevards and was coddled like a baby. Don't fail to see it. Only $425.

PLYMOUTH—DE LUXE SEDAN 1933, WITH free wheeling, floating power, etc. You'll have to look far and wide to find a car anywhere in town to equal this one. It's the last word for smart appearance and sparkling performance. Offered at a bargain price.

WINDSOR—SEDAN, 1930; VERY CLEAN car this is in dandy running order. Many nice extras. It's a very snappy car, and the first man in with $245 drives away in it.

CADILLAC—SEDAN, 1929; IN STORAGE for almost two years. We checked it over carefully now and can recommend it as an outstanding automobile. It's top notch, 6 wire whls. Easily worth more than $345.

NASH—8, SEDAN, A 1933 DE LUXE MODEL. This auto was actually used for only a short time. Every detail is positively like brand new. Don't miss it at only $545.

STUDEBAKER—6, SPT. ROADSTER, 1932; rumble. Has every modern improvement. Free wheeling, safety glass, etc. Finish has not a mar on it. Expensive upholstery. Tires appear unused. Motor was driven just enough to be properly broken in. Has full Studebaker guarantee. Specially priced at only $475.

MARMON—SEDAN, LATE 1929 DE LUXE. It's a real beauty. It has the appearance and performance of an auto fresh from the factory. Our price for today is just $145.

PIERCE-ARROW—SEDAN, 1929; OWNED by a wealthy family who gave it the very best of attention. Now every detail of the interior and exterior is 100%. Has a sweet running motor. This looks like a real $1,000 value, but we just reduced it to only $345.
